Told to pay up

$20,000 STOLEN FROM STREET CLEANER

Youth Must Repay $6,000 To Victim

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A Benton township youth was sentenced to five years probation Monday in Berrien Circuit court for breaking and entering the home of a Benton Harbor street cleaner and, with two accomplices, stealing an estimated $20,000 in cash. Judge Julian E. Hughes also ordered James Townsend, 17, of 2202 Berg street, to make restitution of $6,000 and spend first 30 days of probation in jail. Hughes noted the $6,000 "is probably the largest restitution ever ordered in Berrien Circuit court."

Townsend was charged with breaking into the home of John W. Searls, 61, of 2125 Territorial road, Benton township, on Nov. 8, 1975. Searls, a Benton Harbor public works employee for 13 years, pushes a handcart in the downtown area while picking up debris from sidewalks and alleys.

Searls reported to police that a homemade metal cylinder, containing an estimated $20,000, mostly in $20 bills, was stolen when his house was burglarized while he was at church.

In passing sentence on Townsend, Hughes said: "I'm considering the victim — a prison sentence wouldn't return the money. I'm giving you an opportunity to earn respectability. I'm expecting a lot out of you and I'm ordering you to do it. If you don't, your sentence will be 6 to 10 years in prison."

One of Townsend's co-defendants, John E. Young, 18, of Benton Heights, has already been placed on two years probation by Hughes for breaking and entering. The judge said the sentence for Young was lighter and no restitution was ordered because Young turned in some $3,300 to police when he was arrested.

A third youth, then 16, returned $3,400 to authorities according to Assistant Prosecutor John Sullivan. Benton Harbor police earlier had indicated that the third youth had spent $1,800 for marijuana. Sullivan said the boy was charged as a juvenile and sentenced to 90 days in the juvenile home in December, 1975. His case was closed last May, meaning the boy was released from court jurisdiction then. Judge Hughes set the $6,000 restitution requirement for Townsend after Townsend had given the court an accounting for his share of the loot.

The judge noted out of court that that exact amount of money in the cylinder had not been clearly determined. The $20,000 figure was Searls' estimate. Townsend also was 16 at the time of the theft but was waived by juvenile court into adult court.

Legislators Are Given $5,000 Raise

Panel Headed By St. Joe Lawyer Also Boosts Governor, Justices

By SUSAN AGER

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State lawmakers' paychecks will swell by 26 per cent over the next two years, as their salaries rise from the current $19,000 to $24,000 a year in 1978.

The State Officers Compensation Commission (SOCC) set that pay level Monday, also boosting legislators' yearly fringe benefits by about 30 per cent.

In addition, the SOCC voted unanimously to raise salaries for the governor, lieutenant governor and the state's seven Supreme Court Justices. Three legislative leaders also will get new pay bonuses under SOCC decisions.

Altogether the pay raises, which will be given in two steps, will cost the state some $840,000 over the next two years — not counting the increased cost of fringe benefits.

The lion's share of the raises will take effect Jan. 1, unless two-thirds of the legislature rejects the committee's decisions. Although some legislators in both houses have said they will try to halt the raises, few of their fellows are likely to go along.

SOCC chairman F.A. (Mike) Jones, a St. Joseph attorney, said the decisions were based on several factors, including cost-of-living increases since 1972, the poor condition of the state's economy, and public sentiment. "I think we can justify the decisions we made," he said.

Michigan lawmakers currently rank sixth in the U.S. in pay, although they meet more often than any legislature except that of Massachusetts.

Specifically, the committee decisions were:

—Salaries for the state's 148

senators and representatives will rise from the current $19,000 to $22,500 next year and $24,000 in 1978, a combined 26 per cent raise. Their latest raise — $2,000 — was in 1974.

Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald will get a $5,000 bonus, while minority House and Senate leaders each will get a $3,000 bonus. Currently, the only legislative leader who gets a bonus is House Speaker Bobby Crim. He receives an additional $5,000 a year.

The governor's salary will go from the currently authorized $47,225 to $55,000 next year and $58,000 the following year, an increase of almost 24 per cent.

Gov. William Milliken, a millionaire, rejected his last pay raise in 1974 and has said he would reject any awarded this year. If so, he will continue to collect a $45,000-a-year salary.

The largest percentage increase was given to Lt. Gov. James Danman. He will get $38,000 next year and $40,000 in 1978. That represents a 45 per cent hike over his current $27,500 a year salary.

The panel did, however, eliminate a system whereby Danman collected a higher daily salary whenever he sat in for an absent Milliken. Under that system, Danman collected about $2,500 in addition to his regular salary.

Michigan's Supreme Court justices' salaries were raised to

Can Justify Decision

Two Lawmakers Will Refuse Pay Boosts

By SUSAN AGER

Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Although some Michigan lawmakers say they will vote against a lucrative pay hike, only two say flatly they will refuse the cash. "To me, the whole thing is a symbol, a symbol of how the government is just squeezing the people," says state Rep. Edgar Fredricks, R-Holland.

He says he will turn back the $3,500 pay raise a state panel recommended Monday for lawmakers. That, too, will be a symbol, he says, "so the people understand you're for holding back." So far, only Fredricks and state Rep. Kirby Holmes, R-Utica, say they will reject the money. Fredricks has been doing just that for two years, alone among the state's 148 lawmakers. He still collects $17,000 a year, while his colleagues get $19,000. The last legislative pay raise, $2,000 a year, came in 1974.

"I don't think we're worth it," Holmes said of the new raise. He has pegged a legislator's true dollar value at $10,000 a year.

Holmes says rather than give his raises back to the state — which might squander it — he will turn the money over to a woman who three years ago staged an unsuccessful petition drive to do away with the nine-year-old citizens' panel which sets legislative salaries. That panel, the State Officers Compensation Commission, on Monday voted to raise legislators' pay to $22,500 effective Jan. 1, and then to $24,000 in 1978. The raise is automatic unless two-thirds of the legislature rejects it by resolution. The chances of that are unlikely.

Holmes contends being a legislator is just a part-time job, although the Michigan houses meet more session days than any other state legislature in the country except in Massachusetts. He wants to see the SOCC eliminated, calling it a "gimmick for legislators to get the onus of a pay raise off their own backs. I want legislators, if they truly believe they're worth a pay raise, to stand up and have the fortitude to admit they're worth it and vote in their own salaries," he says.

Some Republican lawmakers, including those considered the most conservative in the legislature, have said they will vote against the raise. But they don't say they'll refuse the money if the raise goes through. "I believe in the merit pay system,"

Ring's Discoverer To Share Reward

By NICK SMITH

Staff Writer

An 18-year-old Benton township girl is $100 richer today for turning in a ring she found that had a diamond "so big I thought it was fake."

And, in the Christmas spirit, Norise Whiteley says she'll split the reward with a girl friend who was with her Sunday when she found the ring belonging to Dr. Harzel Taylor of Benton Harbor in the slush outside the St. Joseph Holiday Inn.

Norise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Whiteley, 1033 Sylvan drive, says she spotted the ring while leaving her job at the Turquoise Treasure Chest, in the Holiday Inn.

Walking with Jean Zoschke, of 2400 Lora drive, St. Joseph township, Norise saw a ring that looked slightly beat up. The gold ring was scratched and looked like it had been run over.

"I thought it was just fake," the Lake Michigan college journalism and English student said yesterday. She turned the ring in at the front desk of the motel and went home.

Meanwhile, Dr. Taylor had been looking for his expensive diamond ring since Thursday. The dieting dentist's ring was becoming too large for his finger, and he figured it had slipped off.

Dr. Taylor said he'd eaten breakfast at the Holiday Inn Thursday morning. He decided to check with the motel Monday morning before reporting the loss to St. Joseph police.

After recovering his ring Dr. Taylor wrote Norise a check for $100. "She was honest enough to turn it in, and it was no more than right for me to give her the reward," he said yesterday.

Dr. Taylor said the ring must have fallen in his lap when he removed his gloves to smoke a Loser Billy Says Plains 'Going Straight To Hell'

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Without Billy Carter as mayor, says Billy Carter, the little crossroads town of Plains "is going straight to hell." Billy Carter lost Monday in his second bid to become mayor of this little but now famous village, and his brother, the President-elect of the United States, worried, "I think I cost him the election." Brother Billy was beaten 90 to 71 in Monday's election, losing to A.L. Blanton, the incumbent mayor. Blanton also is an air traffic controller in nearby Albany and is Plains' part-time barber. "People of Plains probably think they've got enough Carters winning elections," said the President-elect as he arrived at a win-or-lose beer party celebration. The win-or-lose celebration, which turned out to be a lose celebration, was held at Billy's service station, next to city hall where the votes were counted.

"We've got a state senator (Hugh Carter Sr.) and a president and I think that the folks just thought that a mayor on top of all that would be too much," Jimmy Carter said. "I think it's tough to win with a brother who's president. I think I cost him the election. He would have made a great mayor." Billy lost to Blanton by four votes for the $60-a-month job two years ago. Whatever the campaign issues were then, brother Billy campaigned this time on a platform that promised to try to preserve Plains' character and protect it from too much commercialization caused by brother Jimmy's success. The President-elect's brother was not noticeably gracious in defeat. Now, says Billy Carter, without Billy Carter as mayor, the defeated candidate may build a house in the woods outside town to escape the peering tourists and creeping urban congestion.

"I see Plains going straight to hell," Billy Carter said in the glare of television lights. "With everything that's going on here, I surely do." Billy, who runs the family peanut processing plant here as well as his service station, had said earlier that even in defeat he would try to discourage the kind of progress that could destroy forever this town's once unshakable tranquility. Brother Jimmy once described Plains as the kind of town "that was so quiet that a dog could sleep in the middle of main street for two or three hours and never have to get up to let a car go by. I think it's probably too late to help," Billy Carter said after his defeat. "If the people want to let it go to hell, let it go."

Supreme Court Pulls Reins On Busing

By RICHARD CARELLI

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a decision that could drastically affect the pace and scope of school integration in major cities across the nation, has pulled the reins in on federal courts hearing such cases.

Remedies for public school segregation cannot go beyond any limited action that would cure the specific constitutional violation, the court said Monday as it criticized the school busing plan in Austin, Tex.

The high court struck down an order of the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals designed to desegregate Austin schools by busing up to 25,000 students. It told the lower court to devise a more limited plan to integrate blacks, Mexican-Americans and other whites in schools there.

"The remedy ordered appears to exceed that necessary to eliminate the effect of any official acts or omissions," Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. said in an opinion that spoke also for Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice William H. Rehnquist.

Four justices gave no indication of how they voted, but at least two of them had to join in Powell's opinion to form a minimum court majority. Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall dissented and said the lower court's sweeping order was justified.

Powell said that "large-scale busing is permissible only where the evidence supports a finding that the extent of integration sought to be achieved by busing would have existed had the school authorities fulfilled their constitutional obligations in the past."

He said school officials cannot be held responsible for racial imbalances caused by a city's residential patterns.

Such a view could carry great significance for school officials in cities such as Wilmington, Del., Indianapolis and Dayton, Ohio, where forced busing orders are being fought, and in cities such as Louisville, Ky., where officials begrudgingly have complied with such an order.

The high court's decision should please President Ford, who earlier this year asked the Justice Department to search out school desegregation cases in which forced busing could be challenged.

The Justice Department, in a friend-of-the-court brief in the Austin case, said the lower court's finding of "extensive intentional discrimination against Mexican-Americans" should be upheld.

However, government attorneys suggested that the case could be useful for the high court to "clarify the governing legal standards" in other school desegregation cases.

"The desegregation that courts are both empowered and obligated to accomplish is not the elimination of all of the racial separation without regard to its causes," the government had argued. "The existence of schools predominantly attended by members of one race does not in itself amount to racial discrimination."

Justice Powell agreed, saying the lower court could find that no remedy is needed in light of a

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Japan Surviving Its Watergate

While the returns from Japan's parliamentary election show the ruling Liberal Democratic Party lost ground, a closer look at the balloting indicates the average Nipponese is not in the mood to rock the boat unduly.

LDP has controlled the government for 22 years and its name to the contrary it is on the conservative side. It is also noted for its pro-American viewpoint.

The weekend contest was widely billed throughout the countryside and in foreign newspapers as the Lockheed election.

This was in reference to a disclosure that former Prime Minister Tanaka and a number of prominent members in the Diet had benefitted substantially from bribes paid by Lockheed Aircraft Company to facilitate sales of military planes and equipment to the Japanese armed forces.

Foreign correspondents dipped their pens in purple or at least violet ink to compare it to the Watergate disaster which blasted the Republicans in the 1974 Congressional elections.

If the Lockheed incident played a role in the Japanese election, it must have been as a sideline issue rather than a significance unto itself.

Tanaka handily won re-election to the Diet. He picked up 170,000 votes in the district. Four years ago he received 182,000.

Winning with equal ease were seven members of the Diet whose opponents had named as recipients of Lockheed money.

On the other hand, the Minister of Agriculture and Forestry and the Minister of Science and Technology lost out in their re-election bids. It was the first time since 1958 that an incumbent in the cabinet was defeated at the polls.

Neither candidate was listed as being involved in any serious degree with the Lockheed scandal.

Though LDP itself is likely to fall short of winning outright control in the Diet, the Communists, which had counted on Lockheed to give them a lift, failed to become airborne. They lost ground.

Gaining some strength at the expense of LDP were a number of minority parties of equally conservative bent.

Their winning candidates are expected to join, if need be, with LDP to form a coalition government.

Basic to the election were two factors receiving little attention in the foreign press.

Part of LDP's opposition came from candidates and their followers who believe Tanaka overdid the American friendship theme and that his successor, Takeo Miki, followed too blindly in those footsteps.

Yet this theme softened prior to the election, and in becoming muted probably gave the LDP something of a boost it had previously discounted as being available.

More importantly, in all likelihood, was an atmosphere remarkably parallel to that prevailing in our Presidential campaign.

Jimmy Carter had several things going for him, two of the strongest being a feeling that "Jerry Ford is a nice guy, but," and a belief that the economy needs a spring tonic.

Miki lacks the personal dynamism exuded by the forthright Tanaka and his party is stuck with the Japanese economy.

Compared to most of the other economies in the world, Japan's is good, extremely so.

Comparison, unfortunately for a political organization in power prior to an election, cannot be eaten at home.

Japan's fantastic post-World War II growth rate has been slowing down in recent years.

As an import-export nation, the country over the long pull cannot run at a clip which is dramatically faster than that of the international marketplace.

Imports of basic raw materials, petroleum in particular, pressure Japan from one side.

Rising competition from other producing nations, Taiwan for one, squeeze from the other direction.

How much a political party can do to reduce those pressures is debatable.

Nonetheless, the voters expect the party in power to "do something," and if "something" does not materialize, the outcome at the polls is predictable.

The LDP definitely felt that punch a few days ago.

Jamaica Vote Is Climax To A Turbulent Year

This has been a turbulent year for Jamaica. During a meeting of the International Monetary Fund in Kingston last January, gang warfare resulted in several killings and the burning of 30 buildings. In the first six months of 1976, more than 150 persons died in fighting between supporters of Prime Minister Michael Manley's People's National Party and the opposition

Jamaica Labor Party, which is headed by Edward Seaga. The violence has declined since Manley declared a state of emergency in June, but the damage was done. News reports of the disturbances led to cancellation of hotel bookings by Canadian and American tourists.

More bad economic news followed the disappointing tourist season. Shipments of bauxite, the nation's leading export, fell off sharply because of lower demand by industrialized countries. The price of sugar also declined. The unemployment rate on the island, according to the Labor Party, has climbed to 27 per cent.

It would hardly seem the proper time for Manley to seek a vote of confidence, but the Prime Minister nonetheless announced last month that national elections will be held Wednesday, Dec. 15. Both Manley and Seaga have predicted that their parties will win a majority of seats in the 53-member House of Representatives. A leading issue in the campaign is Manley's foreign policy, particularly the close relationship he has established with Cuba's Fidel Castro. The Prime Minister argues that Jamaica, as a third-world nation, should have strong ties with other countries in a similar stage of development.

Seaga, for his part, blames the nation's economic troubles on Manley's "democratic socialism." He would encourage more private ownership of and foreign investment in Jamaican business. Jamaican voters will have a clear-cut choice when they go to the polls Dec. 15.

SYMPATHIZES WITH TEXAN'S TAX PROBLEM

Editor,
We read the article on the young Texas man's Michigan tax problem with considerable interest. Mr. Umphrey made a very common mistake. He thought he was still living in a democracy and that it was his right as a taxpayer citizen to petition the treasury department for redress of his tax problem. Instead of his request being granted, he was slapped in the face by the iron hand of authority by some arrogant, ignorant fool who is on the public payroll.

When you are sent a tax bill you aren't supposed to question the almighty state, you are supposed to just shut up and pay-up. At least this is the way they think. This is a new type of democracy that the founding fathers of our country never intended to become a permanent part of our lives; but it's becoming a more firmly established fact as time passes.

And if this trend continues on for very much longer some of these arrogant jerks will one day find themselves up against a wall somewhere with absolutely nothing in the way of choices. What would you be willing to bet that they back down? It will be a little late for that. They have some very strange tax laws, one provides that we gaze into our crystal ball and tell the revenue service how much our income is going to be for the coming year and pay taxes that aren't actually due in advance because they no doubt have the money already spent. This is not too difficult for someone who is on a straight salary or fixed income but for someone who is in a business where they could end up the year with a loss or a gain, it is just an impossible task. But here again they say do it or else.

This must also be a real problem for some congressmen and bureaucrats too, because how can they possibly know in advance how much they are going to be able to steal from us ignorant taxpayers or how much they are going to receive in kickbacks or bribes from foreign countries, large corporations, powerful labor unions? One solution to this problem is just don't declare it and we suspect most of them don't because what would they file it under, miscellaneous? Will the IRS check on this? We doubt it.

However, if Mr. Umphrey refused to pay the $28.00 they might just be at the airport in Detroit to greet him when he gets off the plane. Amen!

'FUZZBUSTER' AIDS DISTURBED READER

Editor,
I feel I must let you now I take offense at the fact that you accept paid advertisements advocating speeding. I refer to the "Fuzzbuster" Police Radar Monitor advertised as a safer and more secure Christmas gift.

I have a son in Bronson Hospital and have traveled 1-84 almost daily since he was admitted on June 1st. Believe me, I have seen more speeders and wreckless drivers than I would care to see for the rest of my life. When I see the police stop them (sometimes two at a time) I feel like applauding.

We have enough death and maiming on our highways without outfitting the killers with a monitor to alert them to "lurking radar in plenty of time to adjust their speed".

In sincerely feel that you should "monitor" the advertising you accept for publication. I am sure others feel as I do.

Yours very truly,

A Revolution In Management

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Some laws have most curious side effects not anticipated by those who pushed them.

Scientists now see the strong possibility that regulations limiting automobile emissions, ineptly as they were written, are spurring approaches that in the long run will lead to more efficient engines and more miles per gallon, once the present thrashing about comes to an end.

Even more significant is the coming managerial revolution indirectly resulting from the fair employment rules set by Congress to assure against discrimination in the hiring of women, blacks, Hispano-Americans and other minorities.

The connection is roundabout but clear, as the following analysis by the personnel director of one of America's largest companies illustrates.

What the fair employment rules forced us to do, he said, was to look at the requirements we'd laid down for each job in the company.

We had always assumed that our salesmen must have strong technical backgrounds — and we had for years hired accordingly. But our new tests revealed this was not right. What we should have been hiring were men and women good at selling — never mind their technical know-how; we could give this training once hired. Sales ability was more important by far.

The requirement which led to the hiring of greater numbers of women and blacks made it necessary, in turn, for us to take a new look at our supervisors. For the new hiring policies put strains on men used to dealing in the old ways.

We learned here, too, that our old concepts on what went into making a first-rate foreman were almost 180 degrees off. We're not certain yet what the ideal is; but we know the old theories are wrong.

That's only the beginning. Our look into lower management led us to look straight up the line to the top. And here again we found some things that could radically change the way we and other companies go about business.

There's been a great deal of talk about productivity, the need for advanced machines and constant research into new processes. Technology has been sold as the key to meeting competition and to making those productivity gains.

We discovered, as we already knew, that these technological advances are important. But we found that major increases in productivity, more often than not, are the result of managerial decisions made by the top men of the company in the selection and mix of products, in organization, in the handling of the work force, rather than from the introduction of new machinery.

In these studies by one company and another it has been discovered, in fact, that the great productivity gains in the future in many fields likely lie in finding a new breed of managers — whose characteristics are as yet not clearly known — who will make revolutionary changes in the manufacturing and distribution process. This will involve technological changes, of course. But it will involve, even more, changes in the concept of what companies buy and what they produce themselves, the organization of their suppliers, and of the parent company itself, how they sell, distribute and service the products they're concerned with, whether those products are goods or services.

Red China Still Starves

Practically everyone in the West seems to agree on one point. Whatever else you might want to say about it, the Communist regime in China has at least managed to feed its population.

You might decry the slaughters and the total loss of freedom — but, at least, the people are eating. I myself ignorantly conceded that much. Mr. C.L. Sulzberger of the N.Y. Times, in his customary tones, said with stentorian certainty: "I have immense admiration for the accomplishments of the Maoist revolution in mainland China, which for the first time in recorded history can feed and clothe its vast population adequately and by its own efforts."

Sorry, folks, all this turns out, upon careful scholarly investigation, to be a myth.

Thousands of refugees, of course, pour out of China, particularly into Hong Kong. As everyone knows, refugee testimony is notoriously unreliable. But by "collating" the testimony, that is, putting large quantities of it into computers and separating agreement from disagreement, you can eventually extract a province-by-province description of what is actually going on in China. The Londons have also cranked into the analysis veiled accounts in official Chinese government directives, broadcasts, and so on. A grim picture emerges. The Londons have recorded it in the magazine Worldview, and will soon produce a book on their findings. It will be a shocker.

The Londons conclude that "beyond the bland facade of China's great open cities and the green abundance of its showplace communes" — all of which Western journalists take as the basis of their opinion — there "lies a vast country in obscure . . . there are thieves, pickpockets, and prostitutes; village cadres keep 'one eye open and one eye shut' to sideline business activities; women quarrel hysterically over their works in communal kitchens; speculators slip in and out of towns selling ration coupons; underground factories operate . . . massive numbers of the Chinese peasantry, immemorably patient and industrious, labor daily under hardship and deprivation for three meals of rice gruel and sweet potatoes a day.

In this China, there has been a major famine, and beggars still roam from disaster areas in the North into the more fortunate South.

Indeed, while Western journalists and intellectuals were trumpeting the victory of the Mao regime over hunger, there actually occurred one of the most disastrous famines in modern history — between 1958 and 1962. Nor was this principally the result of natural calamity.

"The sad truth," conclude the Londons, "is . . . that only planned human intervention could and did manage such a thorough-going, nationwide disaster. In every province, misguided Party zeal . . . produced catastrophic crop failures even in the normally fertile rice paddies of South China."

The Londons reproduce extraordinary eye-witness testimony. "A People's Liberation Army Officer from Shantung: 'When I went home again in 1961, I learned that my grandmother and uncle had starved to death. That year I saw trees stripped of bark for food.'

"A Russian worker from Harbin: 'Nineteen sixty-one was a terrible year. People starved to death in Harbin by the thousands. Black markets flourished.'"

The Londons have accumulated this material in great and inexorable quantity.

They also show how the myth that Mao "fed China" was created. Thus: "Food seems abundant in all cities of China accessible to foreigners."

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Japan Surviving Its Watergate

While the returns from Japan's parliamentary election show the ruling Liberal Democratic Party lost ground, a closer look at the balloting indicates the average Nipponese is not in the mood to rock the boat unduly.

LDP has controlled the government for 22 years and its name to the contrary it is on the conservative side. It is also noted for its pro-American viewpoint.

The weekend contest was widely billed throughout the countryside and in foreign newspapers as the Lockheed election.

This was in reference to a disclosure that former Prime Minister Tanaka and a number of prominent members in the Diet had benefitted substantially from bribes paid by Lockheed Aircraft Company to facilitate sales of military planes and equipment to the Japanese armed forces.

Foreign correspondents dipped their pens in purple or at least violet ink to compare it to the Watergate disaster which blasted the Republicans in the 1974 Congressional elections.

If the Lockheed incident played a role in the Japanese election, it must have been as a sideline issue rather than a significance unto itself.

Tanaka handily won re-election to the Diet. He picked up 170,000 votes in the district. Four years ago he received 182,000.

Winning with equal ease were seven members of the Diet whose opponents had named as recipients of Lockheed money.

On the other hand, the Minister of Agriculture and Forestry and the Minister of Science and Technology lost out in their re-election bids. It was the first time since 1958 that an incumbent in the cabinet was defeated at the polls.

Neither candidate was listed as being involved in any serious degree with the Lockheed scandal.

Though LDP itself is likely to fall short of winning outright control in the Diet, the Communists, which had counted on Lockheed to give them a lift, failed to become airborne. They lost ground.

Gaining some strength at the expense of LDP were a number of minority parties of equally conservative bent.

Their winning candidates are expected to join, if need be, with LPD to form a coalition government.

Basic to the election were two factors receiving little attention in the foreign press.

Part of LPD's opposition came from candidates and their followers who believe Tanaka overdid the American friendship theme and that his successor, Takeo Miki, followed too blindly in those footsteps.

Yet this theme softened prior to the election, and in becoming muted probably gave the LPD something of a boost it had previously discounted as being available.

More importantly, in all likelihood, was an atmosphere remarkably parallel to that prevailing in our Presidential campaign.

Jimmy Carter had several things going for him, two of the strongest being a feeling that "Jerry Ford is a nice guy, but," and a belief that the economy needs a spring tonic.

Miki lacks the personal dynamism exuded by the forthright Tanaka and his party is stuck with the Japanese economy.

Compared to most of the other economies in the world, Japan's is good, extremely so.

Comparison, unfortunately for a political organization in power prior to an election, cannot be eaten at home.

Japan's fantastic post-World War II growth rate has been slowing down in recent years.

As an import-export nation, the country over the long pull cannot run at a clip which is dramatically faster than that of the international marketplace.

Imports of basic raw materials, petroleum in particular, pressure Japan from one side.

Rising competition from other producing nations, Taiwan for one, squeeze from the other direction.

How much a political party can do to reduce those pressures is debatable.

Nonetheless, the voters expect the party in power to "do something," and if "something" does not materialize, the outcome at the polls is predictable.

The LPD definitely felt that punch a few days ago.

Jamaica Vote Is Climax To A Turbulent Year

This has been a turbulent year for Jamaica. During a meeting of the International Monetary Fund in Kingston last January, gang warfare resulted in several killings and the burning of 30 buildings. In the first six months of 1976, more than 150 persons died in fighting between supporters of Prime Minister Michael Manley's People's National Party and the opposition Jamaica Labor Party, which is headed by Edward Seaga. The violence has declined since Manley declared a state of emergency in June, but the damage was done. News reports of the disturbances led to cancellation of hotel bookings by Canadian and American tourists.

More bad economic news followed the disappointing tourist season. Shipments of bauxite, the nation's leading export, fell off sharply because of lower demand by industrialized countries. The price of sugar also declined. The unemployment rate on the island, according to the Labor Party, has climbed to 27 per cent.

It would hardly seem the proper time for Manley to seek a vote of confidence, but the Prime Minister nonetheless announced last month that national elections will be held Wednesday, Dec. 15. Both Manley and Seaga have predicted that their parties will win a majority of seats in the 53-member House of Representatives. A leading issue in the campaign is Manley's foreign policy, particularly the close relationship he has established with Cuba's Fidel Castro. The Prime Minister argues that Jamaica, as a third-world nation, should have strong ties with other countries in a similar stage of development.

Seaga, for his part, blames the nation's economic troubles on Manley's "democratic socialism." He would encourage more private ownership of and foreign investment in Jamaican business. Jamaican voters will have a clear-cut choice when they go to the polls Dec. 15.

SYMPATHIZES WITH TEXAN'S TAX PROBLEM

Editor,

We read the article on the young Texas man's Michigan tax problem with considerable interest. Mr. Umphrey made a very common mistake. He thought he was still living in a democracy and that it was his right as a taxpaying citizen to petition the treasury department for redress of his tax problem. Instead of his request being granted, he was slapped in the face by the iron hand of authority by some arrogant, ignorant fool who is on the public payroll.

When you are sent a tax bill you aren't supposed to question the almighty state, you are supposed to just shut up and pay-up. At least this is the way they think. This is a new type of democracy that the founding fathers of our country never intended to become a permanent part of our lives; but it's becoming a more firmly established fact as time passes.

And if this trend continues on for very much longer some of these arrogant jerks will one day find themselves up against a wall somewhere with absolutely nothing in the way of choices. What would you be willing to bet that they back down? It will be a little late for that. They have some very strange tax laws; one provides that we gaze into our crystal ball and tell the revenue service how much our income is going to be for the coming year and pay taxes that aren't actually due in advance because they no doubt have the money already spent. This is not too difficult for someone who is on a straight salary or fixed income but for someone who is in a business where they could end up the year with a loss or a gain, it is just an impossible task. But here again they say do it or else.

This must also be a real problem for some congressmen and bureaucrats too, because how can they possibly know in advance how much they are going to be able to steal from us ignorant taxpayers or how much they are going to receive in kickbacks or bribes from foreign countries, large corporations, powerful labor unions? One solution to this problem is just don't declare it and we suspect most of them don't because what would they file it under, miscellaneous? Will the IRS check on this? We doubt it.

However, if Mr. Umphrey refused to pay the $28.00 they might just be at the airport in Detroit to greet him when he gets off the plane. Amen!

'FUZZBUSTER' ADS DISTURB READER

Editor,

I feel I must let you now I take offense at the fact that you accept paid advertisements advocating speeding. I refer to the "Fuzzbuster" Police Radar Monitor advertised as a safer and more secure Christmas gift.

I have a son in Bronson Hospital and have traveled 1-94 almost daily since he was admitted on June 1st. Believe me, I have seen more speeders and wreckless drivers than I would care to see for the rest of my life. When I see the police stop them (sometimes two at a time) I feel like applauding.

We have enough death and maiming on our highways without outfitting the killers with a monitor to alert them to "lurking radar in plenty of time to adjust their speed".

In sincerely feel that you should "monitor" the advertising you accept for publication. I am sure others feel as I do.

Yours very truly,

GETTING CHECKUP

CHICAGO (AP) — Arthur Godfrey, a recovered cancer patient, is in Michael Reese Hospital getting his yearly checkup.

— 10 Years Ago —

South Haven — A state historical marker acclaiming the development of the world-famed Haven "family" of peach varieties by Professor Stanley Johnston at the South Haven Experiment station was dedicated today before the convention of the Michigan State Horticulture society. This honor to Michigan's "million dollar peach scientist" and his eight freestone peach introductions was officially dedicated in the Civic auditorium here by Willis Dunbar, chairman of the history department at Western Michigan university.

— 25 Years Ago —

The new Early Red raspberry introduced this week by Stanley Johnston, head of the South Haven Experiment station, has the unqualified approval of Chester Warsco, Berrien Springs grower. Warsco has been raising the variety for the past 10 years, under arrangement with Johnston, to give the new red a thorough trial under commercial conditions. And it has paid Warsco off better than the same sized patch of Lathams.

The Benton Harbor city commission some time this month will meet with Irving C. Root, city planner of Flint, to discuss two proposed civic improvements which have been hanging fire for some time. The projects include: The proposed purchase of the triangle bounded by Michigan, Colfax and Oak streets as a city park and future site for a new city hall. The proposed extension of Elm street west to the St. Joseph river.

Ray Hall, member of the Benton Harbor fire department, will be chief of deputies when Fred Bryant becomes sheriff of Berrien county on January 1. Mr. Hall's selection has just been made by the sheriff-elect.

The finest Masonic temple in the western part of the state outside of Grand Rapids will be erected on the corner of Pipestone and High streets in Benton Harbor. This decision was reached last night at a meeting of prominent Masons. The gentlemen met with Lewis Sutherland, owner of the property, in the office of C.F. Sparrell, the architect, and all of the details were closed up for good. The original plans for the Sutherland building have been changed and the cost of the building will be nearly twice as much as first estimated. The name of the building will be the "Masonic Temple," and it will be one of the finest buildings in the county. The Masons present represented committees from Malta Commandery, K.T., and Lake Shore lodge, F. & A. M.

A Revolution In Management

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Some laws have most curious side effects not anticipated by those who pushed them.

Scientists now see the strong possibility that regulations limiting automobile emissions, ineptly as they were written, are spurring approaches that in the long run will lead to more efficient engines and more miles per gallon, once the present thrashing about comes to an end.

Even more significant is the coming managerial revolution indirectly resulting from the fair employment rules set by Congress to assure against discrimination in the hiring of women, blacks, Hispano Americans and other minorities.

The connection is roundabout but clear, as the following analysis by the personnel director of one of America's largest companies illustrates.

What the fair employment rules forced us to do, he said, was to look at the requirements we'd laid down for each job in the company.

We had always assumed that our salesmen must have strong technical backgrounds — and we had for years hired accordingly. But our new tests revealed this was not right. What we should have been hiring were men and women good at selling — never mind their technical know-how; we could give this training once hired. Sales ability was more important by far.

The requirement which led to the hiring of greater numbers of women and blacks made it necessary, in turn, for us to take a new look at our supervisors. For the new hiring policies put strains on men used to dealing in the old ways.

We learned here, too, that our old concepts on what went into making a first-rate foreman were almost 180 degrees off. We're not certain yet what the ideal is; but we know the old theories are wrong.

That's only the beginning. Our look into lower management led us to look straight up the line to the top. And here again we found some things that could radically change the way we and other companies go about business.

There's been a great deal of talk about productivity, the need for advanced machines and constant research into new processes. Technology has been sold as the key to meeting competition and to making those productivity gains.

We discovered, as we already knew, that these technological advances are important. But we found that major increases in productivity, more often than not, are the result of managerial decisions made by the top men of the company in the selection and mix of products, in organization, in the handling of the work force, rather than from the introduction of new machinery.

In these studies by one company and another it has been discovered, in fact, that the great productivity gains in the future in many fields likely lie in finding a new breed of managers — whose characteristics are as yet not clearly known — who will make revolutionary changes in the manufacturing and distribution process. This will involve technological changes, of course. But it will involve, even more, changes in the concept of what companies buy and what they produce themselves, the organization of their suppliers, and of the parent company itself, how they sell, distribute and service the products they're concerned with, whether those products are goods or services.

Red China Still Starves

Practically everyone in the West seems to agree on one point. Whatever else you might want to say about it, the Communist regime in China has at least managed to feed its population.

You might decry the slaughters and the total loss of freedom — but, at least, the people are eating. I myself ignorantly conceded that much. Mr. C.L. Sulzberger of the N.Y. Times, in his customary tones, said with stentorian certainty: "I have immense admiration for the accomplishments of the Maoist revolution in mainland China, which for the first time in recorded history can feed and clothe its vast population adequately and by its own efforts."

Sorry, folks, all this turns out, upon careful scholarly investigation, to be a myth.

Thousands of refugees, of course, pour out of China, particularly into Hong Kong. As everyone knows, refugee testimony is notoriously unreliable. But by "collating" the testimony, that is, putting large quantities of it into computers and separating agreement from disagreement, you can eventually extract a province-by-province description of what is actually going on in China. The Londons have also cranked into the analysis veiled accounts in official Chinese government directives, broadcasts, and so on. A grim picture emerges. The Londons have recorded it in the magazine Worldview, and will soon produce a book on their findings. It will be a shocker.

The Londons conclude that "beyond the bland facade of China's great open cities and the green abundance of its showplace communes" — all of which Western journalists take as the basis of their opinion — there "lies a vast country in obscurity... there are thieves, pickpockets, and prostitutes; village cadres keep 'one eye open and one eye shut' to sideline business activities; women quarrel hysterically over their works in communal kitchens; speculators slip in and out of towns selling ration coupons; underground factories operate... massive numbers of the Chinese peasantry, immemorably patient and industrious, labor daily under hardship and deprivation for three meals of rice gruel and sweet potatoes a day."

In this China, there has been a major famine, and beggars still roam from disaster areas in the North into the more fortunate South.

Indeed, while Western journalists and intellectuals were trumpeting the victory of the Mao regime over hunger, there actually occurred one of the most disastrous famines in modern history — between 1958 and 1962. Nor was this principally the result of natural calamity.

"The sad truth," conclude the Londons, "is... that only planned human intervention could and did manage such a thoroughgoing, nationwide disaster. In every province, misguided Party zeal... produced catastrophic crop failures even in the normally fertile rice paddies of South China."

The Londons reproduce extraordinary eye-witness testimony. "A People's Liberation Army Officer from Shantung: 'When I went home again in 1961, I learned that my grandmother and uncle had starved to death. That year I saw trees stripped of bark for food.'"

"A Russian worker from Harbin: 'Nineteen sixty-one was a terrible year. People starved to death in Harbin by the thousands. Black markets flourished.'"

The Londons have accumulated this material in great and inexorable quantity.

They also show how the myth that Mao "fed China" was created. Thus: "Food seems abundant in all cities of China accessible to foreigners."

BH Firm Plans To Move Headquarters Offices

the city bought and had partially cleared for $142,640.

The savings association, currently headquartered at 115 West Main street, Benton Harbor, offered to buy the former Citgo service station at the corner of Broad and Main streets and two vacant lots next to the Pine Pub that were formerly 314-320 Court street.

Peoples Savings would construct a new two-story main office building that would cost not less than $400,000 including site, according to a purchase offer filed with the city.

Peoples Savings proposes to move its executive headquarters from Benton Harbor to the St. Joseph location. The Benton Harbor office would be retained as a branch office and computer center, according to an announcement by Peoples Savings.

The purchase offer was tabled so city residents would have time to comment before the commission votes. Tabling came after considerable debate which produced comments that Peoples Savings' offer was not enough for the property and others should have a chance to bid.

Commissioner William Gillespie said after the meeting that St. Joseph Savings & Loan will oppose the proposal. Gillespie is a member of the board of directors of St. Joseph Savings & Loan.

Paul Freudenburg, vice president and loan officer for the savings association, made the purchase offer to the commission. He declined to comment after the meeting, but handed out the following press release:

"Peoples Savings Association has announced plans to establish new executive headquarters and a new branch office at the corner of Main and Broad streets in St. Joseph, subject to the acceptance by the city commission of an offer to purchase the site which was presented at last night's commission meeting.

"Robert Durran, chairman of the board and president, said today that application is pending for a branch location at the site, and, pending supervisory approval, plans are being readied for an approximately 10,000-square-foot, two-story building which will be the administrative headquarters for the firm's eight offices throughout Western Michigan.

"The present office in Benton Harbor will be retained by the association as both a branch and the headquarters of its wholly-owned subsidiary Information Processing Services, Inc., which is a data processing service company recently established to service additional financial institutions in the area with its new approximately 800,000 high-speed computer system."

A copy of the proposed purchase agreement, which is available to the public at the city clerk's office, include the following details:

—Purchase of the Citgo Property (17,400 square feet) at a price of $3 per square foot.

—Purchase of the 'strip on Court (5,544 square feet) at $2 per square foot.

—The building will be two-story office with basement and will cover an area of approximately 10,000 square feet and the cost, including land, will not be less than $400,000.

Gillespie spoke in opposition to the savings association's proposal for the following two reasons: (1) The $63,300 is too little for the property and (2) another developer should have a chance at making a better offer. Gillespie said he was speaking as a city commissioner.

Gillespie said after the meeting that Peoples Savings would also need approval from the Financial Institutions Bureau of the State Department of Commerce before it could open another office in St. Joseph. He said St. Joseph Savings & Loan will oppose it.

Freudenburg told the commission Peoples Savings has filed for approval.

Also opposing the purchase proposal during the meeting on the grounds too little money was offered were City Planning Commissioner James Mason, also a member of the board of directors of the St. Joseph Savings & Loan, and William Early, executive vice president of the same association. Both said their opposition came as private citizens and not on behalf of the loan association.

Ray Carlson, of Ollie's Inc., also suggested a two-week waiting period for citizen input would be a good thing. He said he is not affiliated with either loan association.

City Manager Gerald W. Hepler said of the $142,640 paid by the city but $13,500 was federal money. The two pieces

Santa's BH Fund Really Soars!

The Benton Harbor Area Good Fellow fund virtually doubled overnight!

Santa made that astounding observation as he counted $810 from a single source — The Michigan Bell Telephone Co. employees' Christmas bazaar.

The huge gift from Ma Bell's gals and guys made the fund soar to $1,701.50 today.

"It's not fair to say this is from a 'single source,'" Santa Claus noted. "It represents the work and generosity of scores and scores of people who start planning for the bazaar long before the Good Fellow drive starts."

People at the Good Fellow counting house in The Herald-Palladium could hardly believe it last year when Mickie Goff and Alice Shroesbee turned in $710 on behalf of fellow Bell employees as proceeds from the bazaar held at the offices on Wall street.

But Mickie and Alice were back again this year with exactly $100 more, leaving Good Fellow workers and Santa Claus speechless but grateful.

The Bell bazaar features needlework, ceramics and other handicraft, plus special recipes cooked to perfection and sold. The Bell gals say it's fun for everyone to see who can come up with something different every year.

"There's nothing different about their real purpose," said Santa Claus. "Since 1968 they have contributed $6,545 to the Benton Harbor Area Good Fellow fund. That's been our biggest support outside the Exchange club's Newbie sales."

"Their thoughtfulness along with hundreds of other Good Fellows means the fund can continue doing its job of providing Christmas for the needy elderly and deserving families of the Benton Harbor area."

DiMaggio Will Vote To Drop Ambulance Pact

St. Joseph township's representative to the Community Emergency Service corporation (CES) told the township board last night that he'll vote against renewing the contract between CES and Action ambulance service.

Township Treasurer Isadore DiMaggio, who serves as secretary and treasurer of CES, said the corporation has until Dec. 23 to formally notify Action whether the contract will be renewed. The contract expires Feb. 23, he said.

The corporation is composed of the City of St. Joseph and the Townships of St. Joseph, Lincoln, Royalton and Sodus. Whether to renew Action's contract will be decided at a CES meeting Thursday morning, said DiMaggio.

If the vote is against renewal, "we'll have until Feb. 23 to come up with another arrangement," DiMaggio explained. It was earlier reported that CES wants a merger between Action and Rampart ambulance companies. Rampart serves Benton Harbor and Benton township.

Last night, DiMaggio mentioned the possibility of having one ambulance service covering the Twin City municipalities served by Action and Rampart, plus three other units — Berrien Springs and Orinokko and Berrien townships — that have separate contracts with Action.

Those units of government could jointly own and operate a service, he suggested.

DiMaggio said at the Nov. 15 meeting that Action is a poorly managed company. He said last night that, for the past four weeks, CES has been paying the Action payroll. That payment is in addition to the $3,000 subsidy that CES pays monthly to Action under the contract, DiMaggio said.

Also last night, board members officially heard a township planning commission recommendation that none of the open, unplatted land in the township be developed unless adequate storm drainage is provided.

The board took no action on the recommendation. However, Supervisor Orval Benson stated that no more building permits will be issued for construction on land owned by Nye's Orchards until storm drainage is provided.

Construction of The Herald-Palladium's new plant on land purchased from Nye's, and plans for a future industrial park on the land, have led citizens in the area to request a drainage plan.

The township also received a refund check for $5,505 last night from its participation in Dial-A-Ride from mid-1975 to mid-1976. Ronald A. Griffin, who was chairman of the Twin Cities Area Transportation Authority until the township dropped out June 30, 1976, handed over the refund. The township's share of Dial-A-Ride costs was expected to be $11,520 for the final year, but was only $6,015, he said. He added that 13,500 St. Joseph township riders used the service that year.

Also last night the board:

—Indicated its intent to accept a donation of 24 acres of land located between Valley View drive and Hickory creek owned by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Insley. Benson said "nominal" back taxes are owed on the property, which the Insleys are considering giving to the township.

—Learned that three lighted tennis courts costing a total of about $26,500 will be built this summer at Carronde Park. Under a state grant the township will pay half of the cost, DiMaggio said.

—Appointed David C. Tibbitts, 1924 Colfax avenue, to fill the term on the parks commission of Marvin Waldenmaier, who resigned recently.

—Approved a subdivision, Oakbrook Estates, on Cleveland avenue south of Hawthorne road, owned by Larry Schultz.

BH Paying Off Pension Loan With Tax Increase

The Benton Harbor city commission last night issued a statement explaining why city property owners will get an additional two-mill assessment on their winter property tax bills being sent out this week.

The additional two mills are part of a Nov. 15 order by Berrien Circuit Court Judge Chester Byrns requiring the city to add six mills to its property tax rolls to help pay off $500,000 the city borrowed from the police and firemen's pension fund.

The order requires that three assessments of two mills each are to be added to the December, 1976, and the June and December, 1977, tax rolls. For the owner of a home with a state equalized valuation of $10,000, the order means an additional $20 on the December, 1976, tax bill.

The statement by the commission, read by Mayor Joel Patterson, said the $500,000 was borrowed from the police and firemen's pension fund during fiscal 1975 and "it was the opinion of the past city administration that this loan could be paid back during fiscal 1976." But the city was unable to do so.

Patterson said the city negotiated with the police and firemen for the current repayment plan and said the present city administration "feels that it is the best solution of this problem."

Under the current plan, the city is also ordered to make two payments of $50,000 each before June 15, 1977, and $35,000 before March 15, 1978, toward the principal. The city must also pay accrued interest.

Winter taxes go for support of schools and the county, except for the special two-mill pension fund debt tax in Benton Harbor. Taxes for general city operation are sent out in July.

In other business, the commission served notice to city employees that it will enforce a 1973 ordinance amendment requiring city employees to live in the city and set dates by which employees must comply.

The resolution passed unanimously by the commission requires that all "professional managerial" employees become residents of the city by June 30 and all other employees by Dec. 31, 1977.

The residency requirement, approved on May 21, 1973, requires that all city employees hired after June 1, 1973, must be residents of the city. City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. said approximately 25 city employees currently live outside the city.

"Some city employees have not made any attempt to comply with the city's residence ordinance, being of property are in the office development district.

Commissioner Warren Gast added that the commission had an understanding that the city would not be able to make money on the sale of the property purchased in the district, but would try and regain the losses in taxes from the new buildings going up.

At one point, Freudenburg said opposition at the meeting seemed to be coming from a "competition" standpoint and not on the merits of the offer. Gillespie replied, "I resent that personally." He added his statements were as a commissioner and not as a member of a competing loan association.

Gillespie made the motion to table the proposal for two weeks. After several seconds passed, Commissioner Joseph Hanley seconded the motion and it was unanimously passed.

Comments on the sale proposal by residents can be sent to the city manager's office.

Also last night the commission:

—Accepted a planning commission recommendation requesting further time for study of a request to rezone residential lots at 222 and 224 Vail court. The request is from Florian Beles, realtor, who wants to construct a building on the lots to house Twin City Engraving.

—Accepted a low bid of $3,200 from W.F. Miller Co., Grand Rapids, for 18 tons of fertilizer. The city was joined by the Twin Cities Joint Sewage Disposal plant, Memorial hospital and the St. Joseph public schools in purchasing the fertilizer. The city will pay $2,000.

'Anonymous' Good Friend Of Santa

Another anonymous contribution found its way to the St. Joseph Area Good Fellow fund today and boosted the total by $10. St. Nick noted that each year there are a number of anonymous contributors to the Good Fellow fund. "Although they remain nameless, their good deed doesn't go unnoticed," Santa said.

He added, "Each person who gives to the Good Fellow fund leaves no doubt that they understand the true meaning of Christmas." The $10 contribution brought this year's total to $659.50 leaving $4,340.50 to be collected if the goal of $5,000 is to be reached.

the city bought and had partially cleared for $142,640.

The savings association, currently headquartered at 115 West Main street, Benton Harbor, offered to buy the former Citgo service station at the corner of Broad and Main streets and two vacant lots next to the Pine Pub that were formerly 314-320 Court street.

Peoples Savings would construct a new two-story main office building that would cost not less than $400,000 including site, according to a purchase offer filed with the city.

Peoples Savings proposes to move its executive headquarters from Benton Harbor to the St. Joseph location. The Benton Harbor office would be retained as a branch office and computer center, according to an announcement by Peoples Savings.

The purchase offer was tabled so city residents would have time to comment before the commission votes. Tabling came after considerable debate which produced comments that Peoples Savings' offer was not enough for the property and others should have a chance to bid.

Commissioner William Gillespie said after the meeting that St. Joseph Savings & Loan will oppose the proposal. Gillespie is a member of the board of directors of St. Joseph Savings & Loan.

Paul Freudenburg, vice president and loan officer for the savings association, made the purchase offer to the commission. He declined to comment after the meeting, but handed out the following press release:

"Peoples Savings Association has announced plans to establish new executive headquarters and a new branch office at the corner of Main and Broad streets in St. Joseph, subject to the acceptance by the city commission of an offer to purchase the site which was presented at last night's commission meeting.

"Robert Durren, chairman of the board and president, said today that application is pending for a branch location at the site, and pending supervisory approval, plans are being readied for an approximately 10,000-square-foot, two-story building which will be the administrative headquarters for the firm's eight offices throughout Western Michigan.

"The present office in Benton Harbor will be retained by the association as both a branch and the headquarters of its wholly-owned subsidiary Information Processing Services, Inc., which is a data processing service company recently established to service additional financial institutions in the area with its new approximately $500,000 high-speed computer system."

A copy of the proposed purchase agreement, which is available to the public at the city clerk's office, include the following details:

—Purchase of the Citgo Property (17,400 square feet) at a price of $3 per square foot.

—Purchase of the strip on Court (5,544 square feet) at $2 per square foot.

—The building will be two-story office with basement and will cover an area of approximately 10,000 square feet and the cost, including land, will not be less than $400,000.

Gillespie spoke in opposition to the savings association's proposal for the following two reasons: (1) The $63,360 is too little for the property and (2) another developer should have a chance at making a better offer. Gillespie said he was speaking as a city commissioner.

Gillespie said after the meeting that Peoples Savings would also need approval from the Financial Institutions Bureau of the State Department of Commerce before it could open another office in St. Joseph. He said St. Joseph Savings & Loan will oppose it.

Freudenburg told the commission Peoples Savings has filed for approval.

Also opposing the purchase proposal during the meeting on the grounds too little money was offered were City Planning Commissioner James Mason, also a member of the board of directors of the St. Joseph Savings & Loan, and William Early, executive vice president of the same association. Both said their opposition came as private citizens and not on behalf of the loan association.

Ray Carlson, of Ollie's Inc., also suggested a two-week waiting period for citizen input would be a good thing. He said he is not affiliated with either loan association.

City Manager Gerald W. Hepler said of the $142,640 paid by the city but $13,500 was federal money. The two pieces

Santa's BH Fund Really Soars!

The Benton Harbor Area Good Fellow fund virtually doubled overnight!

Santa made that astounding observation as he counted $810 from a single source — The Michigan Bell Telephone Co. employees' Christmas bazaar.

The huge gift from Ma Bell's guys and gals made the fund soar to $1,701.50 today.

"It's not fair to say this is from a 'single source,'" Santa Claus noted. "It represents the work and generosity of scores and scores of people who start planning for the bazaar long before the Good Fellow drive starts."

People at the Good Fellow counting house in The Herald-Palladium could hardly believe it last year when Mickie Goff and Alice Shrobsree turned in $710 on behalf of fellow Bell employees as proceeds from the bazaar held at the offices on Wall street.

But Mickie and Alice were back again this year with exactly $100 more, leaving Good Fellow workers and Santa Claus speechless but grateful.

The Bell bazaar features needlework, ceramics and other handicraft, plus special recipes

cooked to perfection and sold. The Bell gals say it's fun for everyone to see who can come up with something different every year.

"There's nothing different about their real purpose," said Santa Claus. "Since 1968 they have contributed $6,545 to the Benton Harbor Area Good Fellow fund. That's been our biggest support outside the Exchange club's Newsie sales."

"Their thoughtfulness along with hundreds of other Good Fellows means the fund can continue doing its job of providing Christmas for the needy elderly and deserving families of the Benton Harbor area."

DiMaggio Will Vote To Drop Ambulance Pact

St. Joseph township's representative to the Community Emergency Service corporation (CES) told the township board last night that he'll vote against renewing the contract between CES and Action ambulance service.

Township Treasurer Isadore DiMaggio, who serves as secretary and treasurer of CES, said the corporation has until Dec. 23 to formally notify Action whether the contract will be renewed. The contract expires Feb. 23, he said.

The corporation is composed of the City of St. Joseph and the Townships of St. Joseph, Lincoln, Royallton and Sodus. Whether to renew Action's contract will be decided at a CES meeting Thursday morning, said DiMaggio.

If the vote is against renewal, "we'll have until Feb. 23 to come up with another arrangement," DiMaggio explained. It was earlier reported that CES wants a merger between Action and Rampart ambulance companies. Rampart serves Benton Harbor and Benton township.

Last night, DiMaggio mentioned the possibility of having one ambulance service covering the Twin City municipalities served by Action and Rampart, plus three other units — Berrien Springs and Oronoko and Berrien townships — that have separate contracts with Action.

Those units of government could jointly own and operate a service, he suggested.

DiMaggio said at the Nov. 15 meeting that Action is a poorly managed company. He said last night that, for the past four weeks, CES has been paying the Action payroll. That payment is in addition to the $3,000 subsidy that CES pays monthly to Action under the contract, DiMaggio said.

Also last night, board members officially heard a township planning commission recommendation that none of the open, unplatted land in the township be developed unless adequate storm drainage is provided.

The board took no action on the recommendation. However, Supervisor Orval Benson stated that no more building permits will be issued for construction on land owned by Nye's Orchards until storm drainage is provided.

Construction of The Herald-Palladium's new plant on land purchased from Nye's, and plans for a future industrial park on the land, have led citizens in the area to request a drainage plan. The township also received a refund check for $5,505 last night from its participation in Dial-A-Ride from mid-1975 to mid-1976.

Ronald A. Griffin, who was chairman of the Twin Cities Area Transportation Authority until the township dropped out June 30, 1976, handed over the refund. The township's share of Dial-A-Ride costs was expected to be $11,520 for the final year, but was only $6,015, he said. He added that 13,500 St. Joseph township riders used the service that year.

Also last night the board:

—Indicated its intent to accept a donation of 24 acres of land located between Valley View drive and Hickory creek owned by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Insley. Benson said "nominal" back taxes are owed on the property, which the Insleys are considering giving to the township.

—Learned that three lighted tennis courts costing a total of about $26,500 will be built this summer at Carronde Park. Under a state grant the township will pay half of the cost, DiMaggio said.

—Appointed David C. Tibbitts, 1924 Colfax avenue, to fill the term on the parks commission of Marvin Waldenmaier, who resigned recently.

—Approved a subdivision, Oakbrook Estates, on Cleveland avenue south of Hawthorne road, owned by Larry Schultz.

of property are in the office development district.

Commissioner Warren Gast added that the commission had an understanding that the city would not be able to make money on the sale of the property purchased in the district, but would try and regain the losses in taxes from the new buildings going up.

At one point, Freudenburg said opposition at the meeting seemed to be coming from a "competition" standpoint and not on the merits of the offer. Gillespie replied, "I resent that personally." He added his statements were as a commissioner and not as a member of a competing loan association.

Gillespie made the motion to table the proposal for two weeks. After several seconds passed, Commissioner Joseph Hanley seconded the motion and it was unanimously passed.

Comments on the sale proposal by residents can be sent to the city manager's office.

Also last night the commission:

—Accepted a planning commission recommendation requesting further time for study of a request to rezone residential lots at 222 and 224 Vail court. The request is from Florian Beles, realtor, who wants to construct a building on the lots to house Twin City Engraving.

—Accepted a low bid of $3,200 from W.F. Miller Co., Grand Rapids, for 16 tons of fertilizer. The city was joined by the Twin Cities Joint Sewage Disposal plant, Memorial hospital and the St. Joseph public schools in purchasing the fertilizer. The city will pay $2,000.

The Benton Harbor city commission last night issued a statement explaining why city property owners will get an additional two-mill assessment on their winter property tax bills being sent out this week.

The additional two mills are part of a Nov. 15 order by Berrien Circuit Court Judge Chester Byrns requiring the city to add six mills to its property tax rolls to help pay off $500,000 the city borrowed from the police and firemen's pension fund.

The order requires that three assessments of two mills each are to be added to the December, 1976, and the June and December, 1977, tax rolls. For the owner of a home with a state equalized valuation of $10,000, the order means an additional $20 on the December, 1976, tax bill.

The statement by the commission, read by Mayor Joel Patterson, said the $500,000 was borrowed from the police and firemen's pension fund during fiscal 1975 and "it was the opinion of the past city administration that this loan could be paid back during fiscal 1976." But the city was unable to do so.

Patterson said the city negotiated with the police and firemen for the current repayment plan and said the present city administration "feels that it is the best solution of this problem."

Under the current plan, the city is also ordered to make two payments of $50,000 each before June 15, 1977, and $55,000 before March 15, 1978, toward the principal. The city must also pay accrued interest.

Winter taxes go for support of schools and the county, except for the special two-mill pension fund debt tax in Benton Harbor. Taxes for general city operation are sent out in July.

In other business, the commission served notice to city employees that it will enforce a 1973 ordinance amendment requiring city employees to live in the city and set dates by which employees must comply.

The resolution passed unanimously by the commission requires that all "professional managerial" employees become residents of the city by June 30 and all other employees by Dec. 31, 1977.

The residency requirement, approved on May 21, 1973, requires that all city employees hired after June 1, 1973, must be residents of the city. City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. said approximately 25 city employees currently live outside the city.

"Some city employees have not made any attempt to comply with the city's residence ordinance, being fully aware of its intent and as a condition of their employment," Mayor Patterson said in reading the resolution.

Patterson also accepted an attaché case as a gift from a group of citizens. Dan Flaugh, who presented the gift to the mayor, said the gift was from a group of 35 citizens who supported Patterson and helped in his campaign for mayor and who "appreciated the leadership being given to our city by you and who appreciate the sacrifice you are making on behalf of our community."

The commission voted to establish an industrial development district for Twin Cities Metal Finishing, Inc., which is located in 40,000 square feet of the former Benton Harbor Malleable Industries plant on Graham avenue. The designation is the first step in granting a tax exemption for the plant under the Michigan Plant Rehabilitation and Industrial Development Districts act which allows industries to qualify for a 50 per cent reduction on local property taxes for 12 years for addition or rehabilitations.

The commission appointed Walter Ziemke to the city's building board of appeals. He replaces Louis Joseph, who resigned when he moved out of the city.

The commission offered condolences to the family of Steven Stuart Pearson, 21, who was killed Nov. 29 in an airplane crash in Denver, Colo. Pearson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest S. Pearson of 250 Orchard Lane, was a 1974 graduate of Benton Harbor high school.

Christmas Gifts From The Kitchen

With Christmas coming, you may remember the old adage about it being better to give than to receive and get ready now to give — something from your kitchen.

For that matter, it could be a family project, especially for the youngsters around the house. Help them make Spritz as Christmas gifts for other family members or own special friends from school or the neighborhood.

In a mixing bowl, cream one cup of Michigan Grade A butter. Gradually add one-half cup sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Then beat in one egg and one-half teaspoon of either almond extract or vanilla, depending on your flavor preference. Gradually blend in two and one-quarter cups sifted all-purpose flour.

Now, here's where the fun comes in for the younger set. Fill a cookie press, that's the gadget that looks like a huge hypodermic, with the dough. With some practice, the child should be able to form circles, shapes and even letters on a chilled and lightly buttered cookie sheet.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for eight to 12 minutes or until they are just golden. Depending, of course, on the size of the shapes and letters made, the yield should be from seven to eight dozen cookies. Decorate before baking with colored sugar crystals or maraschino cherries, which, inidentally, probably come from one of Michigan's millions of cherry trees.

As with any rich cookie, these freeze well and will keep as a gift if stored in an airtight container, according to Carl Olson of the Michigan Department of Agriculture. The cookies are fragile, so line any box or tin with wax paper or foil and layer the cookies with either the foil or wax paper.

Paula Weber, formerly of Bridgman and now a dancer with the Lyric Opera ballet in Chicago, also commented on the integral coordination between orchestra and dancers. Her

TWIN CITIES SYMPHONY

Music And Dance:

Magical Package

By ARLYS DERRICK
Women's Editor
AND SAN DEE WALLACE
Staff Writer

Music and dance were superbly tied together in a beautiful Christmas package — The Nutcracker Ballet — by Twin Cities Symphony and Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre, Inc. Dec. 5 and 6 at Lakeshore high school auditorium.

An enthusiastic standing room audience viewed excerpts from Peter Il'yich Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Ballet," applauding not only the quality of the dance and the music but the beautiful costuming and staging as well.

The concert was a living music memorial to the late Margaret Beckley Upton funded by her grandchildren to promote the inspiration which she experienced through her deep understanding, appreciation, and love of music.

The ballet is the story of Clara whose nutcracker Christmas gift is magically transformed into a dancer who invites Clara on a journey to the Kingdom of the Sweets.

Dr. Donald Moely, head of the music department at Lake Michigan college, said of Vodnoy and the orchestra, "The music of the Twin Cities Symphony was excellent and Vodnoy did an outstanding job — especially considering the orchestra had to be spread out so far due to space considerations. The conductor and the musicians adapted beautifully and the result was splendid."

Dr. Moely also said of the concert, "The full house with standing room only for this wonderful event in our community is indeed a tribute to the fine cultural appreciation exhibited by the people in our community and this concern and appreciation for the arts is also a fine tribute to the future of our country."

Mrs. Allyn Farmer of St. Joseph also commented that the standing room only audiences were proof that area audiences would support more programs of the same quality. "It is gratifying to see so many in the audience — it is a ballet which every boy and girl should see."

Robert Vodnoy, music director for the Symphony who conducted the ballet music, said "It was a pleasure to accompany the dancers. They were so easy to follow and their steps so incisive, I knew just exactly what to do with the music."

Karen Rodda, Stevensville dance instructor, said the dancing was "excellent and the programming most entertaining — especially from a dancer's viewpoint."

Another dance instructor and president of the area dance theatre company, Rhonda Simmons, said the dancing was "very strong." She said it was a special treat to see the ballet with live music, commenting the orchestra and the ballet company performed together as though they had rehearsed for many hours rather than just several hours available Sunday afternoon.

Paula Weber, formerly of Bridgman and now a dancer with the Lyric Opera ballet in Chicago, also commented on the integral coordination between orchestra and dancers. Her favorite role to dance in the ballet, she said, is the Sugar Plum Fairy.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Koch of St. Joseph noted that they look forward to the music of the Symphony as a very special treat — a quality emphasized most fully in the situation of the orchestra performing with the dancers.

Excerpts from the ballet performed by the company and orchestra included the overture, Act One, Tableau 1, the March of the Children, Little Gallop and Entrance of the Guests. Dance Scene with Distribution of Presents, Entrance of Herr Drosselmeyer, Dance of the Harlequin and Columbine and Dance of Mechanical Dolls.

From Act One, Tableau 2, the company presented the Scene of a Pine Forest in Winter and the Waltz of the Snowflakes.

From Act Two, there was the Chocolate (Spanish Dance), Coffee (Arabian Dance), Tea (Chinese Dance), Dance of the Mirtilons (Reed Pipes), and the Trepak (Russian Dance). The dancers presented the Waltz of the Flowers, the Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy and Prince Charming in two variations, and concluded with the Final Waltz and Apotheosis.

The Waltz of the Snowflakes was highlighted by a chorus composed of members of the Cathedral Choral Society prepared for the performance by Mary Louise Pierotti, conductor of the choral society.

Performing the dances in the land of the sweets were Sharon Bowdich, Paul McRae, Roland Morrisette, Robbin Huey, Mark Schneider and Pamela Walder, Spanish; Lisa Ely, Arabian; Peter Degnan, Kathryn Irey and Cynthia Schowalter, Chinese; Susan Degnan, Susan Stone and Patricia Sweeney, Mirtilons, and Michael Abbitt and Roberto Muniz, Trepak.

Other members of the company are Mimi Cichanowicz, Thomas Christopher, Amy Sloner, Kay Prud'homme, Lynn Stanislawski, Joe Doaks, Gail Sullivan, Bruce Abjornson, Robert Arbogast, Deidre Salyer, Paul Plesh, Valerie Windsor, Sharon Bowdich, Beth Zeldes, and Nancy Dickson.

Nicolas Petrov is the founder and artistic director of the Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre, Inc. Otavio De Rosa is music director, Kay S. Cushing is general manager, Frederic Franklin is artistic director and Bruno Jelinec is ballet master.

Choreography is by Ivanov-Petrov, decor and costumes which are new this season, were designed by Henry Heymann and were executed by the Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre Costume Shop under the direction of Stephen F. Petipas and Janet Groom and lighting design was by Pat Simmons.

The Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre, Inc., is supported by a grant from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania Council on the Arts. The Twin Cities Symphony has received a support grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Prior to the ballet presentation, the orchestra presented "A Christmas Festival," featuring well-known Christmas melodies by Anderson.

The concert will be broadcast on WAUS at 7 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 23.

From Act Two, there was the Chocolate (Spanish Dance), Coffee (Arabian Dance), Tea (Chinese Dance), Dance of the Mirlitons (Reed Pipes), and the Trepak (Russian Dance). The dancers presented the Waltz of the Flowers, the Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy and Prince Charming in two variations, and concluded with the Final Waltz and Apotheosis.

The Waltz of the Snowflakes was highlighted by a chorus composed of members of the Cathedral Choral Society prepared for the performance by Mary Louise Pierotti, conductor of the choral society.

cavalier.

Performing the dances in the land of the sweets were Sharon Bowdich, Paul McRae, Roland Morrisette, Robbin Hoey, Mark Schneider and Pamela Walder, Spanish; Lisa Ely Arabian; Peter Degnan, Kathryn Irely and Cynthia Schowalter, Chinese; Susan Degnan, Susan Stone and Patricia Sweeney, Mirlitons, and Michael Abbott and Roberto Munoz, Trepak.

Other members of the company are Mimi Cichanowicz, Thomas Christopher, Amy Stoner, Kay Prud'homme, Lynn Stanislawski, Joe Doaks, Gail Sullivan, Bruce Abjornson, Robert Arbogast, Deidre Salyer, Paul Plesh, Valerie Windsor, Sharon Bowdich, Beth Zeldes, and Nancy Dickson.

Nicolas Petrov is the founder and artistic director of the Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre, Inc. Ottavio De Rosa is music director, Kay S. Cushing is general manager, Frederic Franklin is artistic director and Frano Jelencic is ballet master.

Choreography is by Ivanov-Petrov, decor and costumes which are new this season, were designed by Henry Heymann and were executed by the Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre Costume Shop under the direction of Stephen F. Petipas and Janet Groom and lighting design was by Pat Simmons.

The Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre, Inc., is supported by a grant from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania Council on the Arts. The Twin Cities Symphony has received a support grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Prior to the ballet presentation, the orchestra presented "A Christmas Festival," featuring well-known Christmas melodies by Anderson.

The concert will be broadcast on WAUS at 7 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 23.

R HAVE AN "EASY ON YOUR FEET" CHRISTMAS

With a little extra attention, your feet will be able to take the extra stress and strain of the Christmas shopping season. One recent report that we read suggested the following regimen.

Bathe your feet each night in luke warm water, then rinse them in cold water. By following this schedule, your feet should stay in good shape. And, remember, should you have a foot problem, we have a complete foot care section in our pharmacy.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

Candlelight Vespers Raise $406 For Good Fellows

Open Christmas Season

By ANITA SMITH
Staff Writer

Twin Cities Good Fellows Funds will receive $406.73 from an offering taken Dec. 5 at the 45th annual Monday Musical club vespers at Peace Temple United Methodist church, Benton Harbor.

Each year the offering is divided between the two funds. This year the Benton Harbor Area Good Fellow fund will receive $271.15 with $135.58 for the St. Joseph Area Good Fellow fund, according to Mrs. Chester J. (Priscilla) Byrns, president of the club who also gave the welcome at the vespers.

Greenery trimmed with gold and white poinsettias decorated the church which was the candlelight setting for the impressive and beautifully performed music.

The traditional opening of the Christmas season in the Twin Cities began with an organ prelude by Warren Colby. "Tableau for Christmas" composed of six works by Gordon Young. During the concert, Colby also performed the solo, Fantasy on "Divinum Mysterium" by Myron Roberts, based on the Methodist hymn "Of the Father's Love Begotten."

The congregation joined the Monday Music chorus in the singing of "O Come All Ye Faithful" and "Silent Night." Creating a medieval atmosphere, the choir presented "A Ceremony of Carols," which they dedicated to its composer, Benjamin Britten, who died Dec. 4 at the age of 63.

The high regard with which Britten was regarded in his homeland of England was demonstrated when he became the only composer ever commissioned to write an opera for an English coronation — "Gloriana" in 1953.

Britten wrote "A Ceremony of Carols" in 1942 for treble voices and harp obligato and included "Walcott Yuletide," "There is No Rose, Balulalow, As Dew in April," "This Little Babe, Interlude (a harp solo)," "In Freezing Winter Night and Deo Gracias."

Harpist was Janey Waterhouse. Vocal soloists included Sue Campbell, Joyce Hepler, Sandra Tyrell, Mary Caple and Sue Fitch.

Also under the direction of Sue Warren, the Monday Musical chorus presented "Fanfare for Christmas Day."

Mrs. Waterhouse performed harp solos which included "The Magic Fountain" by Chalmers; "Passacaille," Handel; "Beethoven's 'At the Brook,' Hasselmanns, and "Tango and Rumba," from Salzedo's "Suite of Dances for Harp."

"Voices of the Sky" from "The Cantata Story of Christmas" by H. Alexander Matthews, was sung by soprano Myrth Kretmers.

The solemnity of the season was further highlighted by the narration of the Christmas Scripture from St. Luke and St. Matthew by Jeanne Dwan.

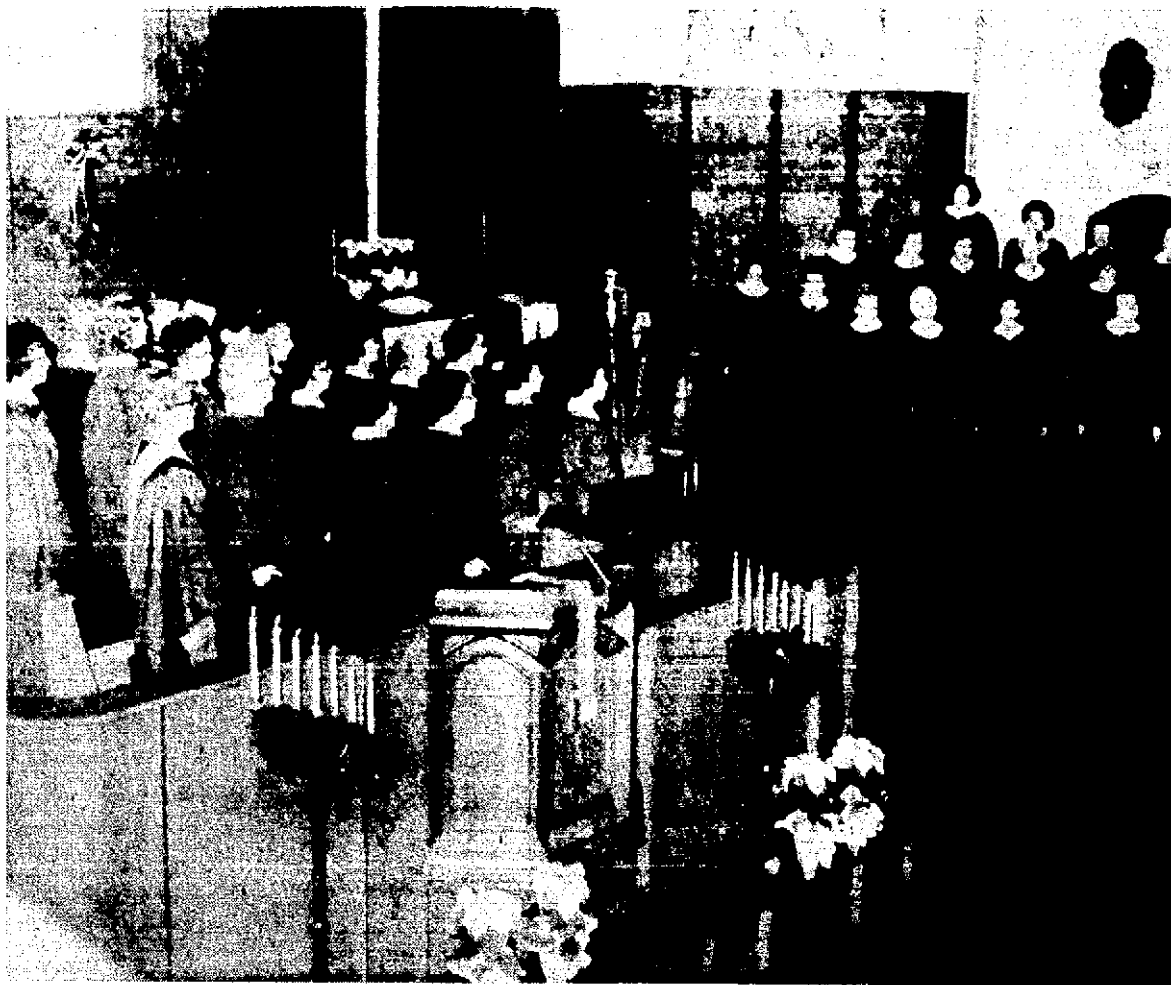

Dr. Carlos Page, host pastor, gave the benediction.

Mrs. Don L. Peters was general chairman.

Program covers were designed and printed by Bruce Bush and Steve Mack, art students at St. Joseph high school.

The vespers program will be broadcast by radio stations WHFB Sunday, Dec. 19, at 3:30 p.m. and WAUS Sunday, Dec. 12, at 8 p.m.

Monday Musical club is a member of both the national and state Federations of Music clubs.

Helping Hands

SATURDAY AUCTION: Helping Hands of Southwestern Michigan will hold an auction Saturday, Dec. 11, from 1:30 to 5 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Booker T. Jones, 420 Cribbs street, Benton Harbor. Proceeds from the event will go toward purchasing materials used in helping senior citizens of the organization to help themselves. Hank Green of Benton Harbor will be auctioneer. All items to be auctioned are new, including hand-made jewelry, afghans, hats, pillows, capes and ponchos, macrame, ceramics, sewing items, sewing punch bowls, plastic rugs and tote bags. Displaying articles are Mrs. Jones, left, director of Helping Hands, and Mrs. H.G. Bailey, a teacher with the organization. (Staff photo)

Brunch Idea

Here's a new brunch idea. Combine drained cooked chopped spinach with plain mashed potato.

Season with butter, salt and pepper, and a favorite spice or herb — nutmeg or basil, for instance. Add clopped toasted walnuts for texture contrast.

Spoon mixture into serving size "nests." Center each with a poached or fried egg. Good with sausage, ham, bacon or luncheon meat.

Graphic Art Display At LMC Thursday

A collection of original graphic art by modern and old masters, some dating back 500 years, will be on display at Lake Michigan college in an exhibit and sale Thursday, Dec. 9.

The exhibit of 1,000 prints will be in the LMC library from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Sponsored jointly by LMC and the Ferdinand Roten Galleries of Baltimore, Md., the exhibition will include original etchings, lithographs and woodcuts by such artists as Picasso, Chagall, Miro, Dalí, Goya, Renoir and Kollwitz, and others including contemporary American, European and Japanese printmakers.

According to William Hessel, LMC dean of Libraries and Learning Resources, the exhibit is open to the public free of charge.

"The exhibition is an excellent opportunity for area residents to obtain a first-hand acquaintance with the original art work of the old masters as well as some exciting contemporary artists," Dean Hessel says.

Area art teachers and the students are invited to view the collection and to see first-hand the actual work produced by some of the world's greatest printmakers.

A knowledgeable representative of the Roten Galleries will be present at the exhibition to answer questions viewers may have regarding graphic art and printmaking. Prices will range from $10 to the thousands, but most prints, including those of the masters, will be priced under $100. Established in 1932, the Roten Galleries has one of the largest collections of graphic art in the nation. The firm operates its main gallery at 123 West Mulberry street, Baltimore. The Ferdinand Roten Galleries specializes in arranging exhibition sales of original graphic art at colleges, universities, museums and art centers throughout the country.

Whiten Keys Of Piano

If your piano has plastic keys that are slightly yellowed, you may be able to whiten them by using a flannel cloth moistened with lemon juice.

Treat the wood cabinet like any fine piece of furniture. Occasionally use a fine paste wax, applied sparingly and buffed thoroughly with a soft, clean cloth.

Decorating Trends

BY ORLANDO IANNELLI

LIGHTING is a part of home decor which is often not given the importance it should have. Effective lighting adds warmth and beauty, dramatizes and highlights your furnishings, makes your home more livable.

But remember — the first purpose of all light is functional. You need general illumination (provided in some rooms, like the kitchen, by built-in fixtures). You need balanced lighting in your living room — direct light for reading, background light for television viewing, area light for dining, etc.

Even in a bedroom, lighting comes first in the selection of lamps or fixtures. If you like to read in bed, you need direct bedside lighting. A woman needs good lighting by her dressing table or close to a dressing mirror.

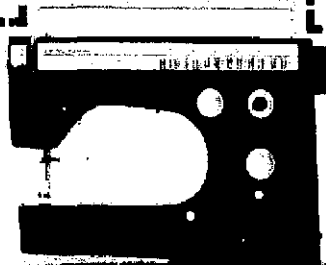

So don't select lamps by looks alone. Good lighting results from a plan. First of all determine the kind of light you need, where it must be placed, whether it should provide soft general light, reading or decorative light. Measure the height of lamp tables. Then choose beautiful lamps which will also serve their first purpose well.

In all of your interior planning, you'll find our salespeople knowledgeable and helpful. Bring in your problems — and look over the fine selection of furnishings in our display.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Mother-In-Law Is Deaf

Dear Ann Landers: My mother-in-law reads you every day. The only way I can help her is by writing to you, pray you print my letter and hope she recognizes herself.

This dear woman is just plain deaf. When I married into the family (eight years ago), I did like all the others. We shouted in her ear and repeated every sentence three times. Still she didn't get most of what was said. Now she doesn't hear ANYTHING. It is virtually impossible to carry on a conversation in her presence. The woman makes irrelevant comments and people think she is daffy.

My mother-in-law is not an old lady — she's in her mid-50s. Please tell it like it is, Ann. She has perfect eyesight so she will be able to read your response. — Tired Of Yelling

Dear Tired: People who have a hearing problem and try to make it miss out on a major part of living. They owe it to themselves and to their families to keep an appointment with a specialist and learn if they can be helped with a hearing aid. Not everyone can use a hearing aid successfully, but those who can say it has given them a new lease on life and they are annoyed with themselves for not having gotten one sooner. The next problem has a slightly different twist. Read on.

Hears Too Well

Dear Ann Landers: I'm sure people write to you from time to time about their hearing — they wish it were better. My problem is just the opposite. I wish it wasn't so good. I hear too darned much.

What can I do when friends unload tons of gossip on me — stuff I'd rather not know?

Is there a way to turn these people off without sounding like Little Goody Two-Shoes? Please give me some badly needed advice. In this area I am totally inadequate. — Dumped On And Reunited

Dear Dumped On: The best way to turn off gossip is to be a poor audience. Simply say, "Isn't that too bad..." or "I'm sorry to hear it." Then change the subject.

New 'Grandpa'

Dear Ann: My mother

A Christmas tree will be placed in the Children's Room of the Benton Harbor public library for the next two weeks and children may come in and make decorations for the tree.

Materials for the decorations will be furnished by the library and all area children are invited to come in and make one or two decorations for the tree. The tree was donated for the Children's Room by Brink's Christmas Tree Company, Benton Harbor.

The preschool story hour at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Dec. 8, will feature the film, "Teddy Bear's Balloon Trip," a cartoon fantasy about a teddy bear's adventures; "That's All We Need," an adventure story of the Magnificent 6½ gang; "Busy Bodies," a Laurel and Hardy film, and "Magic Tree," an African folklore tale of a lonely boy and a magic tree.

New books added to the junior department include "Where Are You Going With That Tree?," Roy Doty; "Baseball Brothers," Jeff Rubin; "Indian Bunny," Ruth Bornstein, and "Winter Days," Lucille Wood.

Letters continue to pour in asking me for a definitive statement about the relationship between hormones and cancer of the breast and the uterus.

Readers of newspaper and magazine articles have been overwhelmed by confusing, and sometimes prematurely released, "scientific statistics."

The dilemma for the lay, and even for physicians, is heightened by reports of an existing controversy. For years, estrogen (female sex hormone) has been prescribed for women, before, during and after menopause.

When a report was issued that women under such treatment have a greater tendency to develop cancer of the breast and cancer of the uterus, there was understandable anxiety.

The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists will soon issue a technical bulletin on this subject. At the present, even the most reliable and respected scientists and physicians are not all in agreement about the answers to this conflicting problem.

There are some gynecologists who recognize the possibility of a slight danger in the use of estrogenic hormone, yet they feel that the better quality of life offered by estrogen compensates for the relatively slight risks.

Each patient must be individually evaluated. "Pap" smears and other tests should be done frequently, and the patient using hormone therapy should be under the constant care and supervision of the specialist.

Are there any forms of treatment to prevent a child from becoming excessively tall? I am 6 feet 4 inches tall. My wife is 6 feet tall. I want to spare our son some of the difficult problems that arise for unusually tall people. — Mr. H.R.E., R.I.

The prediction of adult height is difficult to make, even for children whose parents are unusually tall. Yet it is wise to give some thought to the possibility of intensive hormone studies for boys and girls who may have the tendency to be unusually tall for their age group.

Specialists in endocrinology are able to make great contributions to the serious psycho-social problems associated with being too tall or too short.

It is urged that those people who are interested in such help obtain it at an early age rather than wait until the process is difficult to control.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Mother-In-Law Is Deaf

Dear Ann Landers: My mother-in-law reads you every day. The only way I can help her is by writing to you, pray you print my letter and hope she recognizes herself.

This dear woman is just plain deaf. When I married into the family (eight years ago), I did like all the others. We shouted in her ear and repeated every sentence three times. Still she didn't get most of what was said. Now she doesn't hear ANYTHING. It is virtually impossible to carry on a conversation in her presence. The woman makes irrelevant comments and people think she is daffy.

My mother-in-law is not an old lady — she's in her mid-50s. Please tell it like it is, Ann. She has perfect eyesight so she will be able to read your response. — Tired Of Yelling

Dear Tired: People who have a hearing problem and try to fake it miss out on a major part of living. They owe it to themselves and to their families to keep an appointment with a specialist and learn if they can be helped with a hearing aid. Not everyone can use a hearing aid successfully, but those who can say it has given them a new lease on life and they are annoyed with themselves for not having gotten one sooner. The next problem has a slightly different twist. Read on.

Hears Too Well

Dear Ann Landers: I'm sure people write to you from time to time about their hearing — they wish it were better. My problem is just the opposite. I wish it wasn't so good. I hear too darned much.

What can I do when friends unload tons of gossip on me — stuff I'd rather not know?

Is there a way to turn these people off without sounding like Little Goody Two-Shoes? Please give me some badly needed advice. In this area I am totally inadequate. — Dumped On And Resentful

Dear Dumped On: The best way to turn off gossip is to be a poor audience. Simply say, "Isn't that too bad . . ." or "I'm sorry to hear it." Then change the subject.

New 'Grandpa'

Dear Ann: My mother

remarried after 26 years with a miserable rat. He drank, chased everything in skirts and even stole money from her purse. Our two pre-school children never knew my father, which was just fine with me.

Mom's new husband is a first-class gentleman. His wife died five years ago. They never had any children. The man is crazy about our kids and they took to him immediately. The problem is this: He would like them to call him "Grandpa," but MY husband is very much against it. He claims the man is not their Grandpa and they should call him "Uncle." He says they have HIS father and one grandpa is enough. Will you please settle this? — Temple, Texas Tangle

Dear T.T.T.: If your husband can prove that your step-dad is an uncle to your children he can call ME "Grandmother."

Of course they should call Grandma's new husband Grandpa. One isn't enough if they have two.

Ann Landers discusses teenage drinking — its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

It didn't require any great expertise for the late Sidney Silodor to see that three no-trump would have been a better contract than five diamonds. Sidney also knew that North should have let him play three no-trump, but there was no use crying over split milk. Sidney was in five diamonds and had to do his best to make it.

He called for dummy's jack of hearts. East produced the ace and immediately played the ace of clubs. Then East led a low spade.

Ask the Jacobys

A Canadian reader wants to know the significance of East's pass when the bidding has gone: one spade by South, double by West, redouble by North, pass by East.

A very few people play this pass to say "I think we can beat this one-spade contract." The great majority, including the Jacobys, play it as asking West to get out of his own troubles.

Dying Teenager Gets Her Wish

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Doctors say 17-year-old Asmaham Hamade may die at any time. But the cancer-stricken girl was a little happier Monday after Wayne County sheriff's deputies brought her brother, Khalil, to her bedside for a last reunion.

"Khalil, oh Khalil," the girl whispered as she hugged her brother with arms grown thin from cancer of the lymph nodes. "Oh, I miss you, Khalil."

Two plainclothes sheriff's deputies stood by, waiting to return 19-year-old Khalil Hamade to his cell at the Detroit House of Corrections, where he is awaiting trial on charges of armed robbery and assault.

"I really appreciate you guys for what you have done for me," Hamade told the deputies after the half-hour hospital visit. "I appreciate the judge, the deputies, everyone."

Hamade was first arrested last year on a charge of armed robbery. But he jumped bail in January before his trial, and was arrested again in October following the alleged assault. He was being held on $10,000 bail — which Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Susan Borman Monday reduced to $1,000.

Wayne County Sheriff's Department officials originally had told Dutton there were no men available to guard Hamade on the 50-mile trip to Flint.

Then two Wayne County

investigators, and later two Flint Police Department officers, heard of the girl's request and volunteered to give up their days off to take Hamade to see his sister.

Sheriff's investigators Earl Bunkenship and Kenneth Evans performed the duty, after getting permission from Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas.

Lucas said his two deputies had worked all but eight hours of the weekend helping solve the slaying of an off-duty deputy. "They were dog tired, but they wanted to help out in the Hamade situation, too," Lucas explained.

Dr. Jerry Dutton, young Asmaham's physician at Flint Osteopathic Hospital, said the visit had given her peace of mind, and might help her. She had repeatedly called for her brother, Dr. Dutton said.

Dr. Dutton said tests two weeks ago showed the girl, a student at Western High School, had terminal cancer of the lymph nodes.

"She said, 'I am dying and I want to see my brother before I die,'" Dr. Dutton said. She has six sisters, the doctor said, but Khalil is her only brother.

"I don't really expect her to live more than a few days," the doctor added.

WISHING: Physicians at Flint, Mich., Osteopathic Hospital said Asmaham Hamade, 17, of Detroit, who has terminal cancer, made a dying wish for a visit from her brother, Khalil, who is in the Detroit House of Corrections awaiting trial on armed robbery and assault charges. She got her wish Monday. (AP Wirephoto)

More PBB Test Funds Sought

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The head of a New York medical team probing the effects of PBB on humans wants to meet with top Michigan officials to discuss the possibility of funds for more research and medical treatment, according to an aide to House Speaker Bobby Crim.

A meeting had been scheduled today between Dr. Irving Selikoff, head of a 35-member PBB research team, and Gov. William Milliken, Crim, and state health director Maurice Reizen. The meeting was postponed because Selikoff is ill, and it has not yet been rescheduled, the aide said.

Selikoff, of New York's Mount Sinai Hospital, and his medical team last month tested more than 1,000 state residents who were exposed to polychlorinated biphenyls following the 1973 contamination of Michigan cattle feed with the fire-retardant chemical.

Results of those tests are not expected to be ready for release for several months. But Crim aide Edie Clark said Selikoff is expected to discuss possible state funding for further research, as well as methods of treating disorders and ailments found in the persons tested.

Among the possibilities likely to be discussed, Ms. Clark said, is whether a way can be found to "flush" PBB from the human system. Concentrations of PBB have been found in the body tissues of many of those exposed to the chemical.

Miss Clark said Selikoff also would discuss with the governor and other officials his preliminary findings from the tests.

She said it is believed Selikoff was significantly impressed with the seriousness of the PBB contamination problem after conducting the tests. Some of the researchers on the team last month mentioned an apparently high incidence of neurological disorders among those tested.

Selikoff himself has declined to discuss his early findings. "I think we best wait until we have solid judgment," he was reported to have said last week.

WISHING: Physicians at Flint, Mich., Osteopathic Hospital said Asmahan Hamade, 17, of Detroit, who has terminal cancer, made a dying wish for a visit from her brother, Khalil, who is in the Detroit House of Corrections awaiting trial on armed robbery and assault charges. She got her wish Monday. (AP Wirephoto)

More PBB Test Funds Sought

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The head of a New York medical team probing the effects of PBB on humans wants to meet with top Michigan officials to discuss the possibility of funds for more research and medical treatment, according to an aide to House Speaker Bobby Crim.

A meeting had been scheduled today between Dr. Irving Selikoff, head of a 35-member PBB research team, and Gov. William Milliken, Crim, and state health director Maurice Reizen. The meeting was postponed because Selikoff is ill, and it has not yet been rescheduled, the aide said.

Selikoff, of New York's Mount Sinai Hospital, and his medical team last month tested more than 1,100 state residents who were exposed to polychlorinated biphenyl following the 1973 contamination of Michigan cattle feed with the fire-retardant chemical.

Results of those tests are not expected to be ready for release for several months. But Crim aide Edie Clark said Selikoff is expected to discuss possible state funding for further research, as well as methods of treating disorders and ailments found in the persons tested.

Among the possibilities likely to be discussed, Ms. Clark said, is whether a way can be found to "flush" PBB from the human system. Concentrations of PBB have been found in the body tissues of many of those exposed to the chemical.

Miss Clark said Selikoff also would discuss with the governor and other officials his preliminary findings from the tests.

She said it is believed Selikoff was significantly impressed with the seriousness of the PBB contamination problem after conducting the tests. Some of the researchers on the team last month mentioned an apparently high incidence of neurological disorders among those tested.

Selikoff himself has declined to discuss his early findings. "I think we best wait until we have solid judgment," he was reported to have said last week.

Dying Teenager Gets Her Wish

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Doctors say 17-year-old Asmahan Hamade may die at any time. But the cancer-stricken girl was a little happier Monday after Wayne County sheriff's deputies brought her brother, Khalil, to her bedside for a last reunion.

"Khalil, oh Khalil," the girl whispered as she hugged her brother with arms grown thin from cancer of the lymph nodes. "Oh, I miss you, Khalil."

Two plainclothes sheriff's deputies stood by, waiting to return 19-year-old Khalil Hamade to his cell at the Detroit House of Corrections, where he is awaiting trial on charges of armed robbery and assault.

"I really appreciate you guys for what you have done for me," Hamade told the deputies after the half-hour hospital visit. "I appreciate the judge, the deputies, everyone."

Hamade was first arrested last year on a charge of armed robbery. But he jumped bail in January before his trial, and was arrested again in October following the alleged assault. He was being held on $10,000 bail — which Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Susan Borman Monday reduced to $1,000.

Wayne County Sheriff's Department officials originally had told Dutton there were no men available to guard Hamade on the 50-mile trip to Flint.

Then two Wayne County

investigators, and later two Flint Police Department officers, heard of the girl's request and volunteered to give up their days off to take Hamade to see his sister.

Sheriff's investigators Earl Blankenship and Kenneth Evans performed the duty, after getting permission from Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas.

Lucas said his two deputies had worked all but eight hours of the weekend helping solve the slaying of an off-duty deputy. "They were dog tired, but they wanted to help out in the Hamade situation, too," Lucas explained.

Dr. Jerry Dutton, young Asmahan's physician at Flint Osteopathic Hospital, said the visit had given her peace of mind, and might help her. She had repeatedly called for her brother, Dr. Dutton said.

Dr. Dutton said tests two weeks ago showed the girl, a student at Western High School, had terminal cancer of the lymph nodes.

"She said, 'I am dying and I want to see my brother before I die,'" Dr. Dutton said. She has six sisters, the doctor said, but Khalil is her only brother.

"I don't really expect her to live more than a few days," the doctor added.

Rooftop Drama Ends

Los Angeles Police Dept. SWAT Squad member takes 21-year-old Dolphin Lair to waiting police car Monday following a 2 1/2-hour drama atop 62-story United California Bank Building in downtown Los Angeles.

Police said Lair held building's chief engineer, Martin Hickey, hostage as he wanted to warn the "whole world" against tobacco. His father had died of lung cancer.

No one was injured Monday. Lair was held on $5,000 bail. (AP Wirephoto)

GOP Offers School Fund Plan

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Personal property taxes should be chopped in half and the state income tax raised, according to a House Republican task force studying ways to improve Michigan public schools' funding.

A constitutional amendment to cut property taxes, coupled with an income tax hike, could within five years return the number of dollars per Michigan pupil to current levels, the task force said Monday.

The task force offered the recommendation to spur discussion on "major school finance reform," its report said.

Republicans are the minority in both state legislative houses, and any tax change proposal would need agreement from majority Democrats before it could pass.

A similar school finance revision proposal was rejected last week by a governor's panel studying the state's property tax. The panel cited strong opposition from school administrators to such a constitutional amendment.

Under the GOP proposal, local operating millages for schools would be cut in half. The average levy this year is 26.96 mills.

Industrial and commercial property would be taxed at the current rate, but the revenues would be put into a statewide pool earmarked for schools. Revenue collected from the Michigan Lottery would become part of a "school relief fund" to help finance schools during difficult economic periods.

Each school district would be allowed to levy up to six mills in a "local enrichment tax," but only with voter approval.

"This far-reaching proposal would accomplish the three critical goals of providing property tax relief, equity in the financing of local schools and a consistency in school financing," said Rep. Melvin Larson, R-Oxford, chairman of the task force.

"It would eliminate the need for local school districts to continually ask voters to increase local taxes to replace monies lost through a reduction in state aid," he said.

Judicial Choice Plan Aired

SOUTHGATE, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's Supreme Court justices and Appeals Court judges would be selected through a combination of appointment and election under a proposal suggested by House Republican Leader Dennis Cawthorne. He also urged passage of legislation to require that the names of attorneys who contribute to judicial candidates' campaigns be kept secret. The present system, which allows attorneys to contribute directly to judicial candidates, "invites wrongdoing and influence-peddling," said the Manistee lawmaker. He and Rep. William Ryan, D-Detroit, are sponsors of a bill to create a "blind trust" for attorney donations.

House OKs Charity Exemptions

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Veterans' organizations and some other groups would be exempted from a 1975 law requiring them to register with the state and carry identification cards when collecting for charities, under a bill approved by the House.

The Senate must still approve the bill, passed 85-4 by the House Monday night. The measure is a compromise version of the bill worked out between the House and Senate.

The Senate, meanwhile, passed one minor measure that would establish a fund to "lease" private land for hunting. As the legislature rushes toward final adjournment next week, the Senate was to meet today in a rare morning session, while the House stuck to an afternoon schedule.

In debate over the charities bill, supporters said veterans groups and others who would be exempted under the measure perform community services that should free them from the law's requirements.

But opponents said the bill would exempt too many groups from the original law, which was aimed at making it more difficult for persons or groups to fraudulently collect money while claiming it was for "charity."

That law requires all charitable organizations that solicit money to register with the state and make an annual financial statement to the attorney general. Each solicitor was required to carry an identification card.

As approved Monday, the bill would exempt from its

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Court officials say Patricia Hearst will travel here under private guard Thursday for her first court appearance since she was released on bail.

She will appear before Superior Court Judge William Ritz in connection with her trial on kidnapping, robbery and assault charges scheduled Jan. 10.

It could be her only appearance before the trial begins. She plans to sign a waiver of her further appearance at pretrial hearings in the case. Her attorney, Albert Johnson, has said the heiress prefers that he appear in her behalf.

The 22-year-old newspaper heiress has been in seclusion in her parents' San Francisco apartment since her release Nov. 19 on $1.25-million bail posted by her parents, Randolph and Catherine Hearst.

House Resurrecting Campaign Fund Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation to provide public funds for gubernatorial campaigns and regulate other campaign finances was to be resurrected today by a House committee.

Legislative leaders said Monday the House Policy Committee would begin meeting today on the bills, believed dead for the current session following Gov. William Milliken's October veto of one of them in a dispute with majority Democrats.

Behind-the-scenes discussion over the past two weeks led staff aides and leading lawmakers late last week to voice optimism that a compromise could be reached over the controversial bills. And Monday they said they were close enough to agreement to begin formal committee work.

The House and Senate have less than two weeks to pass the bills before lawmakers adjourn for the year, killing all bills which haven't reached the governor's desk.

Both campaign financing and gubernatorial campaign funding were included in a landmark 1975 political regulation law which was overturned by the Supreme Court, which said the law covered too many areas. Attempts this year to enact the provisions separately faltered when Milliken vetoed the bill to provide partial public funding for gubernatorial campaigns.

Milliken said he wanted the two bills enacted together, and voiced several criticisms of the campaign financing bill. Democrats are expected to compromise in several areas which Republicans found objectionable.

Learning About Death

DETROIT (AP) — Students at Detroit's Bishop Borgess High School are learning about death and how to deal with it in an elective religious education course. The course included a recent trip to a local funeral home where some 250 students met with the funeral director and discussed embalming and cosmetology and the psychological aspects such as grief therapy. The course also explores the topic of death by examining literature, science, philosophy, psychology and the cinema. The teacher, Eileen Frey, said students taking the 5-year-old course consider the Christian theology of death. "Most of the children go into the course believing that Jesus rose from the dead," said Mrs. Frey. "We find that belief strengthened after they've taken the course."

ganizations licensed by the Department of Social Services to serve children and families.

The Senate, meanwhile, voted to require southern Michigan hunters to pay an extra one-dollar fee that would go toward a state fund to help rent private land for hunting. The bill, passed 23-1, goes to the governor's desk.

The bill would require persons who buy licenses to hunt in southern Michigan to buy a one-dollar "public access stamp." Money collected under the plan will be used to pay landholders who agree to "lease" their property to the public during hunting season.

Currently, some property owners voluntarily open their lands to hunters. But supporters say the bill will increase hunting acreage by offering money to participating landowners.

The land-leasing program will begin Sept. 15, with stamps available for purchase after April 1. The area in which hunters will have to buy the stamp will be generally south of Mount Pleasant.

Mongolian Reds Trim Buddhism To 1 Monastery

By THOMAS KENT
ULAN BATOR, Mongolia (AP) — The smell of incense and the droning prayers of Lamas fill the Gandam Monastery on the edge of Ulan Bator. An old woman prostrates herself before an altar, prayers for dead relatives hang from prayer wheels and monks solemnly leaf ancient prayer books in Tibetan script.

But the temple, surrounded by primitive dwellings, is now the only Buddhist monastery in this remote Communist state of 1.5 million people. A relentless anti-Buddhist campaign by the government and Communist party of the People's Republic of Mongolia has reduced the nation's principal religion to a shadow of the social and political force that counted 100,000 lamas (Monks) just 56 years ago.

Some dwellings in the Mongolian capital still carry Buddhist symbols on the door and the annual Tsagan Sar new year festival at the monastery draws a few thousand believers every February. In the countryside, there may be more Buddhists than in the city. But public worship is limited to Gandam, where Western tourists can outnumber Mongolians and only 100 lamas survive.

By Communist accounts, Buddhism deprived Mongolians of initiative, made the country (between the Soviet Union and China) prey to foreign occupiers and drove the economy into stagnation. Indeed, the Chinese warlords who ran Mongolia as a virtual province until the beginning of this century encouraged the religion, which drew young Mongolian men into the spiritual life and provided a form of social organization.

A hundred thousand lamas, some of them full-time monks but others married and occupied with religion only part time, were in the Mongolian population of 700,000 in 1920. They worked out of 700 monasteries, supporting themselves through donations and such businesses as camel renting and handicrafts.

The Communist takeover of Mongolia, which was completed in 1924, led to increasingly heavy measures against the lamas. Chief lamas were barred from collecting money or services from peasants who had formerly lived under the control of their monasteries and anti-religious propaganda was spread by young Communist enthusiasts.

The 1930s virtually finished Buddhism. Businesses carried out by monasteries were restricted, the enrollment of minors was outlawed and low-ranking lamas were informed by the government that they no longer had to take orders from their religious superiors.

Leading lamas were put on public trial in 1935 and all lamas were made liable for military service. In 1937 and 1938 low-ranking lamas were lured into agricultural cooperatives and, according to Soviet accounts, 2,000 chief lamas were shot. Monasteries were closed down en masse in the next two years.

The chief objection to Buddhism appeared to be that its stress on a person's future incarnations, rather than present life, supposedly made people disinterested in building up the country. In addition,

Buddhism organized through monasteries represented a possible rival to the government and Communist party organizations.

The campaign against religion in the Soviet Union has probably also fueled the campaign in Mongolia, which has closely copied the work of the Soviet Communist party.

Freedom of religion is still guaranteed by the Mongolian constitution and belief in Buddhism is not considered a crime. A Buddhist seminary next to the Gandam Monastery has 20 lamas in training, although an official says they are being trained in a "scientific approach" to the religion.

In addition, there is limited contact between the Buddhist communities here and in Tibet, despite ideological differences that divide pro-Social Mongolia from Communist China.

SIGN OF THE TIMES: A sign honoring the 17th Communist Party Congress looms over pedestrians crossing sparsely populated streets in Ulan Bator, the capital city of Mongolia, recently. Only a few dwellings in the capital of a nation that counted

100,000 monks just 56 years ago, now display Buddhist symbols. A relentless anti-Buddhist campaign for the party has reduced the nation's principal religion to a shadow of its former force. (AP Wirephoto)

Seniors Score Well On Literacy Test

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — One in seven Philadelphia high school seniors who took a literacy test was unable to fill out a job application, one in 12 couldn't define the word "credit" and one in 14 didn't know how to read a newspaper.

But Supt. Michael Marcuse said Monday he was pleased with the over-all test results, because 89.2 per cent of the seniors passed it.

The test, called "The Assessment of Functional Literacy" was designed by the school district and given to 13,088 students in Philadelphia's 23 public high schools last October. The five-part exam asked students to define words and show they understood such things as aspirin bottle labels and instructions for washing clothes.

School officials said they were concerned at the large number of students unable to fill out the job application — the only part of the test that required a written answer. The other questions were multiple choice.

Marcuse said the results "proved conclusively that the problem (in the schools) is not of the magnitude that detractors of our schools would have the community believe."

But he said he wondered how those who failed it "ever reached the 12th grade.... I really don't believe a student should receive a high school diploma if he can't pass a functional literacy test."

The test found:

—13.5 per cent could not fill out a job application form.

—8.3 per cent did not know the meaning of words such as "deposit," "credit" and "beware."

—7.2 per cent could not read a newspaper.

—3.7 per cent could not understand rules dealing with blueprints and privileges of automobile drivers.

—1.4 per cent could not follow directions in taking medicine or washing clothes.

Marcuse said the school district would consider giving the test to all students in the city's 288 public schools beginning next year.

Mongolian Reds Trim Buddhism To 1 Monastery

By THOMAS KENT
ULAN BATOR, Mongolia (AP) — The smell of incense and the droning prayers of Lamas fill the Gandam Monastery on the edge of Ulan Bator. An old woman prostrates herself before an altar, prayers for dead relatives hang from prayer wheels and monks solemnly leaf ancient prayer books in Tibetan script.

But the temple, surrounded by primitive dwellings, is now the only Buddhist monastery in this remote Communist state of 1.5 million people. A relentless anti-Buddhist campaign by the government and Communist party of the People's Republic of Mongolia has reduced the nation's principal religion to a shadow of the social and political force that counted 100,000 lamas (Monks) just 56 years ago.

Some dwellings in the Mongolian capital still carry Buddhist symbols on the door and the annual Tsagaan Sar new year festival at the monastery draws a few thousand believers every February. In the countryside, there may be more Buddhists than in the city. But public worship is limited to Gandam, where Western tourists can outnumber Mongolians and only 100 lamas survive.

By Communist accounts, Buddhism deprived Mongolians of initiative, made the country (between the Soviet Union and China) prey to foreign occupiers and drove the economy into stagnation. Indeed, the Chinese warlords who ran Mongolia as a virtual province until the beginning of this century encouraged the religion, which drew young Mongolian men into the spiritual life and provided a form of social organization.

A hundred thousand lamas, some of them full-time monks but others married and occupied with religion only part time, were in the Mongolian population of 700,000 in 1920. They worked out of 700 monasteries, supporting themselves through donations and such businesses as camel renting and handicrafts.

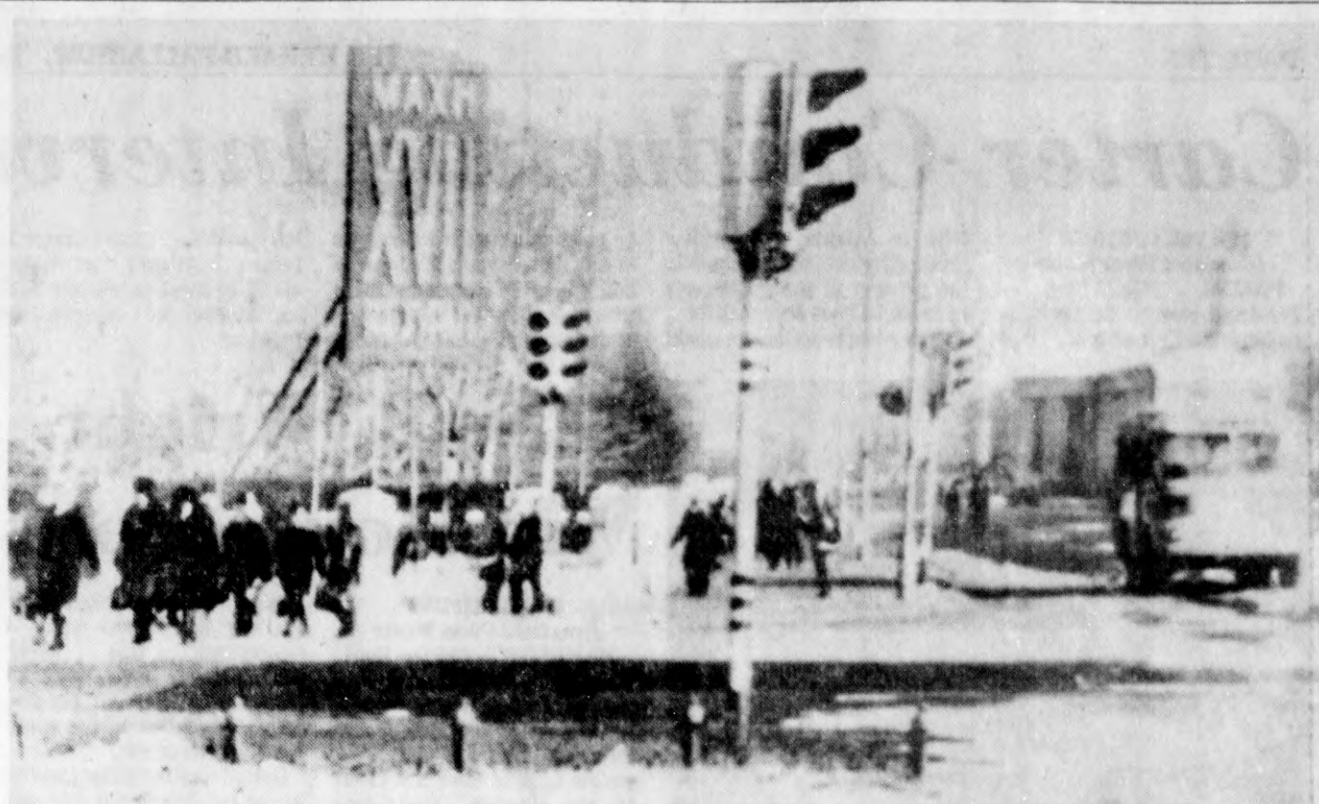

The Communist takeover of Mongolia, which was completed in 1924, led to increasingly heavy measures against the lamas. Chief lamas were barred from collecting money or services from peasants who had formerly lived under the control of their monasteries and anti-religious propaganda was spread by young Communist enthusiasts.

The 1930s virtually finished Buddhism. Businesses carried out by monasteries were restricted, the enrollment of minors was outlawed and low-ranking lamas were informed by the government that they no longer had to take orders from their religious superiors.

Leading lamas were put on public trial in 1935 and all lamas were made liable for military service. In 1937 and 1938 low-ranking lamas were lured into craft and agricultural cooperatives and, according to Soviet accounts, 2,000 chief lamas were shot. Monasteries were closed down en masse in the next two years.

The chief objection to Buddhism appeared to be that its stress on a person's future incarnations, rather than present life, supposedly made people disinterested in building up the country. In addition,

SIGN OF THE TIMES: A sign honoring the 17th Communist Party Congress looms over pedestrians crossing sparsely populated streets in Ulan Bator, the capital city of Mongolia, recently. Only a few dwellings in the capital of a nation that counted

100,000 monks just 56 years ago, now display Buddhist symbols. A relentless anti-Buddhist campaign for the party has reduced the nation's principal religion to a shadow of its former force. (AP Wirephoto)

Buddhism organized through monasteries represented a possible rival to the government and Communist party organizations.

The campaign against religion in the Soviet Union has probably also fueled the campaign in Mongolia, which has closely copied the work of the Soviet Communist party.

Freedom of religion is still guaranteed by the Mongolian constitution and belief in Buddhism is not considered a crime. A Buddhist seminary next to the Gandam Monastery has 20 lamas in training, although an official says they are being trained in a "scientific approach" to the religion.

In addition, there is limited contact between the Buddhist communities here and in Tibet, despite ideological differences that divide pro-Soviet Mongolia from Communist China.

Seniors Score Well On Literacy Test

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — One in seven Philadelphia high school seniors who took a literacy test was unable to fill out a job application, one in 12 couldn't define the word "credit" and one in 14 didn't know how to read a newspaper.

But Supt. Michael Marcuse said Monday he was pleased with the over-all test results, because 89.2 per cent of the seniors passed it.

The test, called "The Assessment of Functional Literacy" was designed by the school district and given to 13,088 students in Philadelphia's 23 public high schools last October. The five-part exam asked students to define words and show they understood such things as aspirin bottle labels and instructions for washing clothes.

School officials said they were concerned at the large number of students unable to fill out the job application — the only part of the test that required a written answer. The other questions were multiple choice.

Marcuse said the results "proved conclusively that the problem (in the schools) is not of the magnitude that detractors of our schools would have the community believe."

But he said he wondered how those who failed it "ever reached the 12th grade.... I really don't believe a student should receive a high school diploma if he can't pass a functional literacy test."

The test found:

- 13.5 per cent could not fill out a job application form.
- 8.3 per cent did not know the meaning of words such as "deposit," "credit" and "beware."
- 7.2 per cent could not read a newspaper.
- 3.7 per cent could not understand rules dealing with blueprints and privileges of automobile drivers.
- 1.4 per cent could not follow directions in taking medicine or washing clothes.

Marcuse said the school district would consider giving the test to all students in the city's 288 public schools beginning next year.

Carter Conducting Interviews

FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Carter is making the first of a series of trips to Atlanta to interview prospective cabinet members in the privacy of the governor's mansion he once occupied.

Carter told reporters he would be conducting such interviews in Atlanta today and Wednesday and plans to continue them when he visits Washington on Thursday and Friday. Aides later said they expect Carter to return to Atlanta "more than once" to meet personally with candidates for cabinet-level positions.

Reporters were forewarned they would be kept outside the grounds of the Georgia governor's mansion today, and Carter indicated the names of some visitors might be kept secret, at least for a while.

Carter held an impromptu news conference Monday outside the Plains polling place where hometown residents voted 90 to 71 to re-elect Mayor A.
L. Blanton rather than turn over the town government to Billy Carter, the President-elect's younger brother.

The President-elect conceded there would be a lot of "guessing games" about his high level appointees, despite efforts to keep secret the names of those under consideration.

Later, he said, "as soon as I decide on any person for sure about a cabinet appointment, I intend to go ahead and make that announcement."

Carter said such announcements will take "much responsibility off my shoulders," because the persons he selects must immediately begin accepting much of the responsibility for planning administration policies in the areas they will oversee.

After a mid-morning flight to Atlanta aboard a two-engine propeller plane, Carter had a date with a dentist to get a cavity filled before beginning nearly seven hours of private

PEARL HARBOR ANNIVERSARY: USS Arizona goes up in flames and smoke after Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. Sunken hulk of the Arizona still remains in the harbor as a reminder of the attack 35 years ago today. About 2,500 survivors of the attack returned to Honolulu for memorial services today, bringing with them many vivid memories but few bitter thoughts. "We've mellowed quite a bit," said Joel Wachner of New York, president of the Pearl Harbor Survivors association. (AP Wirephoto)

DEMOCRATIC POWER: House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, left, of Mass., and House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas, face newsmen in Washington Monday after they were named to their respective posts by vote of House Democrats. (AP Wirephoto)

O'Neill, Wright Win House Posts

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Reps.
Thomas P. O'Neill and Jim Wright, the two new Democratic leaders of the House, say their two goals are to get the jobless back to work and clean up the House's scandal-tarnished image.

House Democrats caucused
Monday and elected Wright of Texas as majority leader by a 148 to 147 vote, upsetting the favorite, Californian Phillip Burton. Big-city mayors reportedly backed Wright.

O'Neill of Massachusetts was nominated speaker by the Democrats by acclamation, unanimous to his election when Congress convenes Jan. 4.

New York City Mayor
Abraham D. Beame reportedly collected votes for Wright in return for Wright's leadership role in winning congressional support of mass transit money and New York City aid. Other mayors, including Chicago's Richard Daley, urged Wright's election largely for his leadership in boosting funds for mass transit in the nation's cities.

Although O'Neill declared strict neutrality in the four-man fight for Democratic leader, congressmen close to him and other candidates circulated word that O'Neill could accept anyone except Burton, his reputed rival for power.

Wright was chairman of the task force that created House Democrats' jobs program in the last Congress. After his election as majority leader, Wright told his party colleagues they must produce legislation "that will lift this country out of the slough of recession."

O'Neill told them, "It is our responsibility to put the unemployed back to work."

Wright also said he will strive to restore the "pinnacle of respect," he said the House deserves. O'Neill reiterated to reporters his plan to set up a

Kissinger Off On Last Globe-Trot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Kissinger is off today on his last diplomatic "hurrah" as secretary of state, carrying a message of support for the NATO alliance to Brussels for President-elect Carter.

The message, given to Kissinger by Carter in Plains, Ga., two weeks ago, pledges the new president's commitment to trans-Atlantic ties. Strains have eased considerably since the United States was accusing the Europeans only two years ago of hostility on the economic and political front. The planned Brussels meetings are viewed as a pleasant overseas farewell for Kissinger, who has globe-trotted more than 550,000 miles in three years as secretary of state.

With Carter's backing, Kissinger hopes to boost Western resolve to maintain a first-rate defense, despite domestic pressures building in Britain and elsewhere to cut costs as an anti-inflationary measure. One way preferred by the United States is to speed the process of standardizing NATO weapons. An estimated $10 billion a year is wasted through duplication and lack of standardized equipment.

Carter's message of reassurance is designed to ease the uncertainty caused by his campaign pledge to cut the defense budget at least $3 billion. British Prime Minister James Callaghan, meanwhile, has said his government may have to choose between keeping the 55,000-man British Army of the Rhine in Germany and looking after its own economy.

The worry over Britain adds to the problems caused the North Atlantic Treaty Organization by the Communist party's strength in Italy and the quarrels between Turkey and Greece that have lessened their contributions to the military alliance.

special committee to stiffen House ethics in the wake of disclosures that some congressmen have accepted cash and gifts from persons with alleged ties to the South Korean government.

Burton was the clear favorite in surveys before the vote and the first ballot showed him with more votes than the other three candidates, though it took a majority of the 295 votes to win. Burton got 106 votes to 81 for Richard Bolling of Missouri, 77 for Wright and 31 for Democratic Whip John J. McFall of California.

McFall, hurt by his disclosure that he accepted $4,000 from Korean businessman Tongsun Park, then dropped out. Bolling was knocked out on the second ballot after Burton gained one vote for a total of 107. Wright had 95 and Bolling had 93.

DECATUR — The Decatur village council last night voted to replace the community's 75 parking meters with new ones, and to up the parking meter fees. The new fee structure will be a penny for six minutes, double the old fee of a penny for 12 minutes. At the top of the range, it will cost 10 cents for an hour's parking compared to the present five cents for an hour.

The meters, to cost $5,175, are to be installed in early January by the R.E. Reed Traffic Control Equipment company of East Lansing, village officials said.

In a related area, the council voted to remove meter heads as soon as possible to provide free parking for Christmas shoppers.

In other areas, Village Clerk Harry Schmidt said nominating petitions for people wanting to run for village council must be turned in to him by Dec. 21.

Terms of Council Trustees Eleanor Smith, Lyle Overton and Charles Carson expire in March.

In other business, the council voted to buy 35 tons of street salt from the John Yerington Co. of Benton Harbor; approved a federal HUD (community development) grant for improvements to the Milton Dow home on Pine street; voted its support of a countywide credit union for all hired, appointed and elected governmental workers in Van Buren county; and voted to purchase Christmas gift baskets for all village employees.

Buchanan Okays Custodians Pact

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan school board last night in a special meeting ratified a three-year master contract with its 18 custodians.

The contract calls for an across-the-board pay increase this school year of 25 cents an hour.

In the next school year, it calls for a five cent an hour pay raise, but requires the district to begin paying into a retirement fund for custodians. The district will pay an amount equal to five per cent of each custodian's annual salary into the fund.

In the third year of the contract, custodians will again get a 25 cent an hour raise. With this year's raise in effect, custodians will receive hourly rates ranging from $5.87 to $1.73 an hour.

The contract also requires the district to pay $45 a month instead of $35 for each custodian's health insurance policy.

The custodians were represented in contract negotiations with the board by their bargaining agent, Local 586 of the Service Employees International Union.

In another area last night, it was announced that the school board's regular meeting this month will be held Dec. 13 instead of Dec. 20 so as not to interfere with Christmas activities.

The board voted to purchase three replacement school buses on the recommendation of administrators who said prices will go up after April 1.

Three International chassis will be purchased from West Motors, Niles, at a total cost of $38,878. Three Bluebird coaches will be purchased from the firm's plant in Portage at a total cost of $15,806.

Two Jobs For Lee Supervisor

PULLMAN — The Lee township board last night said newly-elected Supervisor Edward Yetzke will continue as township zoning commissioner until a replacement is found.

Yetzke was elected to the supervisor's post in the Nov. 2 general election. He replaces Edward Harrison, whose re-election effort lost when he failed to get his party's nomination in the August primary.

In other areas, the board said the township dump will be closed on Christmas and New Year's day, both Saturdays, and will be open on the Fridays preceding the holidays instead. Histon said the dumps are normally only open one day per week, on Saturday.

Weather, Apathy Blamed For Low Hagar Turnout

Bad weather conditions and apathy of residents were blamed for the poor attendance at a public information meeting last night on a federal flood insurance study for Hagar township.

Edward Broderick, township supervisor, said apathy of the residents has resulted because so few persons have been affected by flooding conditions in the township.

According to Broderick, six people were in the audience for the meeting. Also attending the meeting were the full five-member township board and the seven-member planning commission.

The study determined the flooding potential in the township, set elevations for buildings in view of the potential flood danger, and flood insurance rates on properties involved.

According to Broderick, no objections to the study were voiced during the meeting.

The study cost $31,700 and was paid for by the federal government.

Broderick said the township board is expected to act on adopting required ordinances in conjunction with the study within six months after a 90-day appeal period has expired. The appeal time limit begins today.

The adoption of the ordinances will result with making the study final and implements its provisions.

According to Broderick, once the 90-day appeal period ends, the flood insurance coverage for properties in the township could be doubled by individual owners, if desired. The cost would be determined by the rates established in the study and would not involve any federal subsidies.

Representatives of the department of natural resources and the federal Flood Insurance Agency attended the meeting.

South Haven OKs Rural Water Taps

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — A major change in the city of South Haven's policy for allowing property owners in South Haven township to connect to the city's water system was made by city council last night with the approval of three water connections to township businesses.

Up until last night the city council had taken the stance that until South Haven township adopts a land use (zoning) ordinance it would not extend water or sewer lines outside the city or allow township property owners to connect to existing city-owned lines that run into the township.

Without giving a specific reason publicly for changing its policy, the council by a unanimous vote approved a water line extension to a warehouse owned by the Canonic Construction company, and water line tap-ins by the E-Jay Thermo Products company and a building owned by Merton Jones that is used by an auto dealer as a body shop. All of the buildings are located on Blue Star Memorial highway.

after the meeting that the council during a recent executive session agreed to allow tap-ins to existing city-owned water lines in the township. The council has decided to continue its policy against extending new water lines into the township, however, pending future action in regard to the zoning ordinance.

Mayor Lewis said the tap-on policy was being changed because the city has an abundance of water to sell. Residents outside the city pay double the rate charged city residents.

The mayor said that because of limitations at the city's sewage disposal plant it has been decided by the council not to approve any sewer extensions or tap-ins.

The water line extension was granted to the Canonic firm after company spokesman agreed to pay the entire expense of installing the eight-inch line that will be used exclusively for a fire sprinkler system in a warehouse.

Third ward alderman Matthew Goerg spoke out against the policy change, noting it removed the last incentive of township property owners to want to be annexed to the city. He eventually joined the aldermen in unanimously approving the requests.

"I have no personal vendetta against the township, but the city of South Haven has been playing godfather to all our neighbors for too long," said Goerg.

Harold Neal, attorney for Canonic, said that the township hasn't been all that bad to the city, noting that the township did not object when a large portion of township property that is now the community's industrial park was annexed to the city in the early 60s.

"Don't make your industries a political football between city and township," said Neal. "Industry needs every incentive to want to remain in Michigan."

In other action, council finally approved a long-delayed new zoning ordinance by a unanimous vote. The ordinance has been in the making more than two years and has been delayed in adoption by the city council since June.

The only concern expressed at a public hearing last night evolved around the proposed zoning of a half block of property on Pearl street between Phoenix and Huron street.

The block serves as a buffer zone between businesses on the 1-196 business loop entering the city and a residential neighborhood.

The planning commission had recommended that the area be zoned two family residential while businessmen in the area desired a commercial-type classification.

A petition signed by 50 area residents who opposed commercial zoning was presented to the council.

The block in question currently contains a church, a doctor's office, a real estate business and two houses.

The Burger Chef restaurant in the area recently purchased one of the houses in the block site for a proposed parking lot which would not be allowed under the residential classification.

Neighbors complained of noise and litter already alleged to have been generated by the restaurant and claimed the new parking lot would increase the nuisance.

In adopting the ordinance the council upheld the recommendation of the planning commission that the block be zoned two family residential.

A third member of the board of public utilities, Richard Appleyard, submitted his resignation in the wake of council action to remove longtime BPU members Stanley Adams and Raymond Giegerich from office for violation of the city charter.

The charter does not allow board members to succeed themselves more than once while both Adams and Giegerich were in their third terms.

While not stating so in his letter of resignation, Appleyard was angry by the council's action to remove Adams and Giegerich.

The council approved the appointment of Roy Nelson, 36 Chippewa court, to fill Giegerich's unexpired term through 1979. No replacement was named for Appleyard.

The council introduced an ordinance establishing a non-exclusive franchise for cable television service with Liberty TV Cable, Inc. The firm has operated in the city since 1960 without a franchise.

The 13-year agreement calls for the cable firm to pay the city one percent of its gross revenues as a franchise fee.

The council removed a clause from the proposed legislation that would have given the city authority to approve rate increases.

Company spokesmen said last night that the monthly subscriber charge will be increased from $6.50 to $7 and that the franchise fee is included in the hike.

The council rejected all bids to buy a 13-year-old three-wheel motorcycle that is no longer used by the police department on the grounds that the bids were too low. They ranged from $467 to $105.

Council voted to authorize the

Notice Of Meeting Dates Is Lake Township Issue

BRIDGMAN — Lake Township Clerk Elsie Reck last night agreed to post notices of special township board meetings as the result of questions from an unsuccessful candidate for township supervisor.

The questions by Lillian Svitt were raised during a regular board meeting last night. Mrs. Svitt, a member of the Bridgman school board, was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for supervisor Nov. 2 in a race with Wade Shuler, Republican incumbent.

Mrs. Reck said that notices had not been posted at the township hall of three special meetings held last month by the board. In responding to Mrs. Svitt's questions.

The clerk also told Mrs. Svitt that she had not published minutes of recent board meetings because she had been too busy with other work in her office.

The questions were part of a brief exchange between the two women following the reading of minutes of the regular Nov. 1 meeting of the board, and special sessions held on Nov. 4, 15 and 30.

At the urging of Mrs. Svitt, the board voted to strike a portion of the Nov. 1 meeting minutes which stated the board had discussed insurance for township firemen. Mrs. Reck said the information was obtained prior to the Nov. 1 meeting, and was not discussed that night.

Mrs. Svitt charged that because no notices are posted of special meetings, the public does not know of the sessions until minutes are read at regular sessions of the board.

The minutes of the special meetings reported that at the Nov. 4 meeting the board approved purchase of water system hookup equipment at a cost of $7,827; bought a radio for new ambulance for $1,473 at the Nov. 15 meeting and met with the Chikaming township board Nov. 30 to discuss wholesale purchase of water from Lake. Shuler was reported to be checking out a Chikaming township request that a wholesale rate be established by Lake by Jan. 1.

The supervisor was absent from last night's meeting because he was admitted to Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, last Friday for treatment of kidney stones, Mrs. Reck said.

In other areas, the board last night approved a $3,250 contract with Great Lakes Appraisal Service, Lansing, for work on the township's 1977 tax roll.

Arthur Kaeding, secretary of the township zoning appeals board, reported that the board rejected an appeal by Derrol Lee, Shawnee road, to continue construction of a garage at his residence. The township planning commission ordered construction on the garage be stopped because it said the structure violated a one-story limit on garages.

A presentation was made to the board by Michael Kovach of the state health department. Kovach, a sanitary engineer for the department's division of water supply, spoke on state regulations on the prevention of pollution of the township's new water system by the elimination of "cross connections."

Niles Twp. Gives Nod To Atty. Rigby

NILES — The Niles township board last night endorsed Atty. John Rigby for appointment to the Berrien county probate judge position being vacated by Judge Zoe Burkholz. The township board was the second unit of government to endorse the 48-year-old former assistant Berrien county prosecutor for the post. Last month, the Niles council endorsed him.

Rigby has been Niles city attorney for 10 years. Both the township board and city council approved resolutions to be sent to Gov. William Milliken supporting Rigby for the post. Milliken will make the appointment.

Judge Burkholz is leaving the post because she was elected Berrien county's fourth circuit court judge in the Nov. 2 election. Berrien county Republicans and the Orion township board have previously endorsed Donald Dick, Berrien Springs attorney, for the post.

South Haven OKs Rural Water Taps

South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — A major change in the city of South Haven's policy for allowing property owners in South Haven township to connect to the city's water system was made by city council last night with the approval of three water connections to township businesses.

Up until last night the city council had taken the stance that until South Haven township adopts a land use (zoning) ordinance it would not extend water or sewer lines outside the city or allow township property owners to connect to existing city-owned lines that run into the township.

Without giving a specific reason publicly for changing its policy, the council by a unanimous vote approved a water line extension to a warehouse owned by the Canonic Construction company, and water line tap-ons by the E-Jay Thermo Products company and a building owned by Merton Jones that is used by an auto dealer as a body shop. All of the buildings are located on Blue Star Memorial highway.

after the meeting that the council during a recent executive session agreed to allow tap-ons to existing city-owned water lines in the township. The council has decided to continue its policy against extending new water lines into the township, however, pending future action in regard to the zoning ordinance.

Mayor Lewis said the tap-on policy was being changed because the city has an abundance of water to sell. Residents outside the city pay double the rate charged city residents.

The mayor said that because of limitations at the city's sewage disposal plant it has been decided by the council not to approve any sewer extensions or tap-ons.

The water line extension was granted to the Canonic firm after company spokesmen agreed to pay the entire expense of installing the eight-inch line that will be used exclusively for a fire sprinkler system in a warehouse.

Third ward alderman Matthew Goerg spoke out against the policy change, noting it removed the last incentive of township property owners to want to be annexed to the city. He eventually joined the aldermen in unanimously approving the requests.

"I have no personal vendetta against the township, but the city of South Haven has been playing godfather to all our neighbors for too long," said Goerg.

Harold Neal, attorney for Canonic, said that the township hasn't been all that bad to the city, noting that the township did not object when a large portion of township property that is now the community's industrial park was annexed to the city in the early 60s.

"Don't make your industries a political football between city and township," said Neal. "Industry needs every incentive to want to remain in Michigan."

In other action, council finally approved a long-delayed new zoning ordinance by a unanimous vote. The ordinance has been in the making more than two years and has been delayed in adoption by the city council since June.

The only concern expressed at a public hearing last night evolved around the proposed zoning of a half block of property on Pearl street between Phoenix and Huron street.

The block serves as a buffer zone between businesses on the I-196 business loop entering the city and a residential neighborhood.

The planning commission had recommended that the area be zoned two family residential while businessmen in the area desired a commercial-type classification.

A petition signed by 50 area residents who opposed commercial zoning was presented to the council.

The block in question currently contains a church, a doctor's office, a real estate business and two houses.

The Burger Chef restaurant in the area recently purchased one of the houses in the block site for a proposed parking lot which would not be allowed under the residential classification.

Neighbors complained of noise and litter already alleged to have been generated by the restaurant and claimed the new parking lot would increase the nuisance.

In adopting the ordinance the council upheld the recommendation of the planning commission that the block be zoned two family residential.

A third member of the board of public utilities, Richard Appleyard, submitted his resignation in the wake of council action to remove longtime BPU members Stanley Adams and Raymond Giegerich from office for violation of the city charter.

The charter does not allow board members to succeed themselves more than once while both Adams and Giegerich were in their third terms.

While not stating so in his letter of resignation, Appleyard was angry by the council's action to remove Adams and Giegerich.

The council approved the appointment of Roy Nelson, 36 Chippewa court, to fill Giegerich's unexpired term through 1979. No replacement was named for Appleyard.

The council introduced an ordinance establishing a non-exclusive franchise for cable television service with Liberty TV Cable, Inc. The firm has operated in the city since 1969 without a franchise.

The 15-year agreement calls for the cable firm to pay the city one percent of its gross revenues as a franchise fee.

The council removed a clause from the proposed legislation that would have given the city authority to approve rate increases.

Company spokesmen said last night that the monthly subscriber charge will be increased from $6.50 to $7 and that the franchise fee is included in the hike.

The council rejected all bids to buy a 13-year-old three-wheel motorcycle that is no longer used by the police department on the grounds that the bids were too low. They ranged from $467 to $105.

Council voted to authorize the

Notice Of Meeting Dates Is Lake Township Issue

BRIDGMAN — Lake Township Clerk Elsie Reck last night agreed to post notices of special township board meetings as the result of questions from an unsuccessful candidate for township supervisor.

The questions by Lillian Svtil were raised during a regular board meeting last night. Mrs. Svtil, a member of the Bridgman school board, was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for supervisor Nov. 2 in a race with Wade Shuler, Republican incumbent.

Mrs. Reck said that notices had not been posted at the township hall of three special meetings held last month by the board, in responding to Mrs. Svtil's questions.

The clerk also told Mrs. Svtil that she had not published minutes of recent board meetings because she had been too busy with other work in her office.

The questions were part of a brief exchange between the two women following the reading of minutes of the regular Nov. 1 meeting of the board, and special sessions held on Nov. 4, 15 and 30.

At the urging of Mrs. Svtil, the board voted to strike a portion of the Nov. 1 meeting minutes which stated the board had discussed insurance for township firemen. Mrs. Reck said the information was obtained prior to the Nov. 1 meeting, and was not discussed that night.

Mrs. Svtil charged that because no notices are posted of special meetings, the public does not know of the sessions until minutes are read at regular sessions of the board.

The minutes of the special meetings reported that at the Nov. 4 meeting the board approved purchase of water system hookup equipment at a cost of $7,827; bought a radio for new ambulance for $1,473 at the Nov. 15 meeting and met with the Chikaming township board Nov. 30 to discuss wholesale purchase of water from Lake. Shuler was reported to be checking out a Chikaming township request that a wholesale rate be established by Lake by Jan. 1.

The supervisor was absent from last night's meeting because he was admitted to Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, last Friday for treatment of kidney stones, Mrs. Reck said.

In other areas, the board last night approved a $3,250 contract with Great Lakes Appraisal Service, Lansing, for work on the township's 1977 tax roll.

Arthur Kaeding, secretary of the township zoning appeals board, reported that the board rejected an appeal by Derrol Lee, Shawnee road, to continue construction of a garage at his residence. The township planning commission ordered construction on the garage be stopped because it said the structure violated a one-story

School Is In Session

DEERFIELD, Mich. (AP) — A protest by 250 junior and high school students over a new disciplinary code eased Monday as most students returned to classes, at least temporarily. Principal Donald Moffatt said, "As far as we are concerned, school is in session." A spokeswoman for the students, Becky Fowler, said, however, "I don't think the students have calmed down." More than 250 citizens met with the school board over the weekend to discuss the new disciplinary code, which touched off the class boycott by students last week. The code, adopted last Wednesday by teachers and put into effect Thursday, set penalties for such items as tardiness, smoking and snowball-throwing on school property. It also forbade pupils to go to their lockers between classes, meaning they would have to carry books for a full day.

Hypnotherapist Arraigned

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — A 31-year-old psychologist and hypnotherapist was arraigned Monday in 46th District Court on charges he raped a 16-year-old patient in a motel room last month. Dan Ali Hassan pleaded innocent to two counts of criminal sexual conduct. He was released on $10,000 bond, and his preliminary examination was set for Dec. 20. Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson said Hassan was considering hiring the girl, who was not identified, as a receptionist. Patterson said Hassan was driving her to University Hospital in Ann Arbor to acquaint her with his practice. Patterson said Hassan stopped at a Southfield motel, registered as a guest and took the girl to a room, where he allegedly hypnotized and raped her.

The Notes Were 'Nasty'

DETROIT (AP) — The Wayne County Road Commission, faced with a public uproar over cutbacks in road crew overtime work it initiated Dec. 1, has resumed its policy of salting all county roads, state trunklines and freeways. "We received some pretty nasty notes of concern," said Louis J. Sugo, director of public information for the commission. "They made it clear they didn't like the cutbacks." Sugo said the county spent $2.7 million to salt roads last winter, and that the commissioners decided Nov. 22 to restrict overtime in an effort to save money.

No Violation, Court Says

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Cremation by police of the amputated hands of a murder victim did not violate the due-process rights of the convicted killer, the Michigan Court of Appeals has ruled. The court upheld the first-degree murder conviction of Olan Valeck in the slaying of Charles Lyons, whose frozen body was found March 9, 1974, in a drainage ditch near Bay City. The pathologist who did the autopsy on the decomposed body amputated the victim's hands and sent them to State Police for fingerprinting, which led to the identification of Lyons. Police then cremated the hands.

They Quit Or Retired

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Forty-one per cent of the $1.4 million in unemployment benefits paid by school districts in 1975 went to people who voluntarily quit or retired, the Michigan Association of School Administrators said. The association is supporting legislation to ban unemployment benefits for persons who quit or retire. The group said its figures come from a recent survey of school districts.

Thank-You For Sen. Hart

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A weekend observance commemorating the career of retiring U.S. Sen. Philip Hart will begin with an ecumenical service at 11 a.m. Friday at Gesù Church in Detroit. Friday is Hart's 64th birthday. The service and other activities throughout the state have been planned by a committee of religious leaders chaired by Bishop Thomas Gumbleton of the Detroit Catholic Archdiocese. Honorary co-chairmen include Gov. William Milliken, Michigan Supreme Court Justice G. Mennen Williams and Detroit Mayor Coleman A. Young. Schools throughout the state are being urged to hold special programs and discussions on "a career in integrity," in Hart's honor, and several civic groups in the state plan observances. Hart, who is dying of cancer, has served 18 years in the U.S. Senate.

Governor Appoints Six

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Two appointments and four reappointments to state boards and commissions were announced Monday by Gov. William Milliken. Named to the state Board of Barber Examiners for a term expiring in September 1980 was Jack J. Barber of Lansing. Named to the Advisory Commission on Substance Abuse Services for a term expiring in October 1979 was Dr. Herbert A. Rasdin of Birmingham. Reappointed to the substance abuse commission for terms expiring in October 1979 were Rick Talley of Detroit, Judge George N. Bashara Jr. of the state Court of Appeals, commission chairman, Marianne Brickley of Brighton and Margaret Clay of Ypsilanti.

Milliken Named Chairman

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has been named chairman of the National Governors Conference committee on community and economic development. He succeeds Gov. Christopher Bond of Missouri, who was defeated in his bid for reelection last month. The appointment was made by Gov. Cecil Andrus of Idaho, chairman of the governors conference.

Roseville City Must Pay

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Court of Appeals has upheld a lower court order forcing Roseville to pay some $9,000 to the city's charter commission. The city had argued it was not required to pay $8,829.71 in attorney fees and $228.40 in travel expenses, because of an agreement reached earlier in Macomb County Circuit Court. The city established a charter commission in 1974, but Roseville filed suit in 1975 charging the requirements for the charter election had not been complied with. The circuit court agreed, and the election was cancelled. An agreement was reached rescheduling the election and providing for the city to pay more than $18,000 in bills for the charter commission. The proposed charter was defeated and later the commission filed a final accounting of expenses which included the disputed attorney fees. The city argued the payment should be limited to the expenses provided under the court agreement.

Air Bag Ruling Praised

DETROIT (AP) — The federal government's decision not to require air bags in new cars has drawn praise from the nation's biggest auto companies and criticism from their long-time critic, Ralph Nader. An auto insurance official said the decision was unlikely to have much impact on insurance rates. Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. announced Monday that passive restraint devices — of which air bags are the best known — would not be mandatory until the 1981 model year at the earliest. He said he was sure air bags could save lives and prevent injuries, but that because of "public opposition" he was proposing instead a demonstration program involving a half million 1979 and 1980 models. But Nader, a specialist in auto safety, said Coleman's announcement "will doom thousands of Americans to needless death and injury on the highway." He said it "may make the auto industry happy but it is one which will go down in the history of auto safety as a massive act of irresponsibility."

Policeman Facing Extortion Charge

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — A Parchment policeman faces examination Dec. 18 on an extortion charge. State Police from the Paw Paw post said they arrested Forrest Wilson on charges of trying to obtain money from a liquor store owner in Parchment, a suburb of Kalamazoo. Troopers said Wilson offered to overlook violations of state liquor laws in exchange for $25. Wilson was arraigned Monday in Kalamazoo County's 8th District Court and released under $2,000 bond.

High Court Sets New Busing Rules

Supreme Court decision last June that governmental policies which unintentionally discriminate against minorities are not illegal. There must be evidence of intent to discriminate, the court ruled then.

The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals had reversed a decision by U.S. District Court Judge Jack Roberts in Austin, Roberts ruled that the school district was not obliged to correct segregation in five schools because it was caused by population patterns within the school districts.

The circuit court said all Austin schools should reflect the racial composition of the entire school district. Officials in Dayton have appealed to the Supreme Court a circuit court's mandate that some 15,000 students be bused to achieve a similar end, a racial balance in all district schools. The justices decided last week to let the 3rd U.S. Circuit decide a Wilmington school desegregation case in which a three-judge federal court ordered the consolidation of 11 school districts. School officials appealed, contending that unwarranted and massive forced busing would result.

School officials in the Indianapolis area are appealing to the high court from a similar order. In Louisville, the Jefferson County school district is now busing 20,000 of its 120,000 students under a federal court order handed down last year. The desegregation plan, calling for black-white quotas in all district schools, is being appealed.

In his opinion, Powell said, "The principal cause of racial and ethnic imbalance in urban public schools across the country — north and south — is the imbalance in residential patterns. Such residential patterns are typically beyond the control of school authorities." He said discrimination in housing, for example, cannot be attributed to school officials. Powell added that "economic pressures and voluntary preferences" are the primary reasons why people live where they do.

PURCHASE OFFER MADE: Peoples Savings Association, with main offices in Benton Harbor, has offered City of St. Joseph $63,300 for these two pieces of property. City paid $142,640 for the two parcels and to have two dwellings cleared on Court street (bottom).

'TOO SMALL': Paul Freudenberg, vice president and loan officer for Peoples Savings Association, told St. Joseph city commission main office at 115 West Main street, Benton Harbor, is too small. He said, "We've strictly outgrown our present facilities and have a need for a new site to locate."

Peoples Savings proposes to build executive headquarters where old Cigo station is located at corner of Main and Broad streets (top), while strip on Court would be for parking.

nounced Benton Harbor office would be retained as a branch and computer center if its executive headquarters are moved to St. Joseph. Peoples Savings also owns former Ideal Plumbing building at right. (Staff photos)

Legislators Get $5,000 Pay Hike

$80,000 in 1977 and $53,000 in 1978. That is a 21 per cent increase over their current $43,500 salary.

But the panel, composed of private citizens, said the legislature should amend the state constitution so all state judicial salaries can be set by either the SOCC or the legislature. Several panel members said they felt obliged to raise Supreme Court salaries just to keep pace with other judicial salaries set by lawmakers.

Annual voucher expense allowances for legislators and for the lieutenant governor would be increased from $3,500 to $4,250 in 1977 and $4,000 in 1978. Milliken's expense allowance was continued at $18,000 annually, and Supreme Court justices' went unchanged from $1,200.

James said public sentiment about the salaries of the governor and lieutenant governor was that they were "embarrassingly low." In particular, the SOCC felt the lieutenant governor's salary was not high enough when his second-man-in-command role was considered.

Several members cited former Lt. Gov. James Brickley, who refused to seek another term partly because of the pay. He later accepted a higher-paying job as president of Eastern Michigan University. Most of the 187 cards and letters the committee received concerned legislative salaries and recommended no raises, James said. Many of the comments were from elderly people, who said their legislators were not doing a good enough job, he said.

State Sen. John Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, agreed. He said he would introduce a resolution to reject the pay hikes for the legislature.

"When you look at the total

record of this legislative session, we have nothing to be proud of, and I don't think we collectively deserve a pay raise," he said, adding he would accept the extra money if his resolution fails.

But both House Speaker Bobby Crim and Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald said the pay raises were fair. "It will be an inducement to seek public service," said Fitzgerald, D-Detroit.

Earlier this year, some top lawmakers had suggested they needed pay raises of $3,000 to $8,000 to keep pace with the buying power they had in the 1960s.

It also forbade pupils to go to their lockers between classes, meaning they would have to carry books for a full day.

Hypnotherapist Arraigned

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — A 31-year-old psychologist and hypnotherapist was arraigned Monday in 46th District Court on charges he raped a 16-year-old patient in a motel room last month. Dan Ali Hussain pleaded innocent to two counts of criminal sexual conduct. He was released on $10,000 bond, and his preliminary examination was set for Dec. 20. Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson said Hassan was considering hiring the girl, who was not identified, as a receptionist. Patterson said Hassan was driving her to University Hospital in Ann Arbor to acquaint her with his practice. Patterson said Hussain stopped at a Southfield motel, registered as a guest and took the girl to a room, where he allegedly hypnotized and raped her.

The Notes Were 'Nasty'

DETROIT (AP) — The Wayne County Road Commission, faced with a public uproar over cutbacks in road crew overtime work it initiated Dec. 1, has resumed its policy of salting all county roads, state trunklines and freeways. "We received some pretty nasty notes of concern," said Louis J. Sugo, director of public information for the commission. "They made it clear they didn't like the cutbacks." Sugo said the county spent $2.7 million to salt roads last winter, and that the commissioners decided Nov. 22 to restrict overtime in an effort to save money.

No Violation, Court Says

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Cremation by police of the amputated hands of a murder victim did not violate the due-process rights of the convicted killer, the Michigan Court of Appeals has ruled. The court upheld the first-degree murder conviction of Glen Valeck in the slaying of Charles Lyons, whose frozen body was found March 9, 1974, in a drainage ditch near Bay City. The pathologist who did the autopsy on the decomposed body amputated the victim's hands and sent them to State Police for fingerprinting, which led to the identification of Lyons. Police then cremated the hands.

They Quit Or Retired

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Forty-one per cent of the $1.4 million in unemployment benefits paid by school districts in 1975 went to people who voluntarily quit or retired, the Michigan Association of School Administrators said. The association is supporting legislation to ban unemployment benefits for persons who quit or retire. The group said its figures come from a recent survey of school districts.

Thank-You For Sen. Hart

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A weekend observance commemorating the career of retiring U.S. Sen. Philip Hart will begin with an ecumenical service at 11 a.m. Friday at Gesù Church in Detroit. Friday is Hart's 64th birthday. The service and other activities throughout the state have been planned by a committee of religious leaders chaired by Bishop Thomas Gumbleton of the Detroit Catholic Archdiocese. Honorary co-chairmen include Gov. William Milliken, Michigan Supreme Court Justice G. Mennen Williams and Detroit Mayor Coleman A. Young. Schools throughout the state are being urged to hold special programs and discussions on "a career in integrity," in Hart's honor, and several civic groups in the state plan observances. Hart, who is dying of cancer, has served 18 years in the U.S. Senate.

Governor Appoints Six

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Two appointments and four reappointments to state boards and commissions were announced Monday by Gov. William Milliken. Named to the state Board of Barber Examiners for a term expiring in September 1980 was Jack J. Barber of Lansing. Named to the Advisory Commission on Substance Abuse Services for a term expiring in October 1978 was Dr. Herbert A. Raskin of Birmingham. Reappointed to the substance abuse commission for terms expiring in October 1979 were Rick Talley of Detroit, Judge George N. Bashara Jr. of the state Court of Appeals, commission chairman, Marianne Brickly of Brighton and Margaret Clay of Ypsilanti.

Milliken Named Chairman

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has been named chairman of the National Governors Conference committee on community and economic development. He succeeds Gov. Christopher Bond of Missouri, who was defeated in his bid for reelection last month. The appointment was made by Gov. Cecil Andrus of Idaho, chairman of the governors conference.

Roseville City Must Pay

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Court of Appeals has upheld a lower court order forcing Roseville to pay some $9,000 to the city's charter commission. The city had argued it was not required to pay $8,829.71 in attorney fees and $228.40 in travel expenses, because of an agreement reached earlier in Macomb County Circuit Court. The city established a charter commission in 1974, but Roseville filed suit in 1975 charging the requirements for the charter election had not been complied with. The circuit court agreed, and the election was cancelled. An agreement was reached rescheduling the election and providing for the city to pay more than $18,000 in bills for the charter commission. The proposed charter was defeated and later the commission filed a final accounting of expenses which included the disputed attorney fees. The city argued the payment should be limited to the expenses provided under the court agreement.

Air Bag Ruling Praised

DETROIT (AP) — The federal government's decision not to require air bags in new cars has drawn praise from the nation's biggest auto companies and criticism from their long-time critic, Ralph Nader. An auto insurance official said the decision was unlikely to have much impact on insurance rates. Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. announced Monday that passive restraint devices — of which air bags are the best known — would not be mandatory until the 1981 model year at the earliest. He said he was sure air bags could save lives and prevent injuries, but that because of "public opposition" he was proposing instead a demonstration program involving a half million 1979 and 1980 models. But Nader, a specialist in auto safety, said Coleman's announcement "will doom thousands of Americans to needless death and injury on the highway." He said it "may make the auto industry happy but it is one which will go down in the history of auto safety as a massive act of irresponsibility."

Policeman Facing Extortion Charge

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — A Parchment policeman faces examination Dec. 16 on an extortion charge. State Police from the Paw Paw post said they arrested Forrest Wilson on charges of trying to obtain money from a liquor store owner in Parchment, a suburb of Kalamazoo. Troopers said Wilson offered to overlook violations of state liquor laws in exchange for $25. Wilson was arraigned Monday in Kalamazoo County's 8th District Court and released under $2,000 bond.

Supreme Court decision last June that governmental policies which unintentionally discriminate against minorities are not illegal. There must be evidence of intent to discriminate, the court ruled then.

The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals had reversed a decision by U.S. District Court Judge Jack Roberts in Austin, Texas. Roberts ruled that the school district was not obliged to correct segregation in five schools because it was caused by population patterns within the school districts.

The circuit court said all Austin schools should reflect the racial composition of the entire school district.

Officials in Dayton have appealed to the Supreme Court a circuit court's mandate that some 15,000 students be bused to achieve a similar end, a racial balance in all district schools.

The justices decided last week to let the 3rd U.S. Circuit decide a Wilmington school desegregation case in which a three-judge federal court ordered the consolidation of 11 school districts. School officials appealed, contending that unwarranted and massive forced busing would result.

School officials in the Indianapolis area are appealing to the high court from a similar order.

In Louisville, the Jefferson County school district is now busing 20,000 of its 120,000 students under a federal court order handed down last year. The desegregation plan, calling for black-white quotas in all district schools, is being appealed.

In his opinion, Powell said, "The principal cause of racial and ethnic imbalance in urban public schools across the country — north and south — is the imbalance in residential patterns. Such residential patterns are typically beyond the control of school authorities."

He said discrimination in housing, for example, cannot be attributed to school officials. Powell added that "economic pressures and voluntary preferences" are the primary reasons why people live where they do.

PURCHASE OFFER MADE: Peoples Savings Association, with main offices in Benton Harbor, has offered City of St. Joseph $63,360 for these two pieces of property. City paid $142,640 for the two parcels and to have two dwellings cleared on Court street (bottom).

'TOO SMALL': Paul Freudenberg, vice president and loan officer for Peoples Savings Association, told St. Joseph city commission main office at 115 West Main street, Benton Harbor, is too small. He said, "We've strictly outgrown our present facilities and have a need for a new site to locate." Peoples Savings an-tion). Peoples Savings proposes to build executive headquarters where old Citgo station is located at corner of Main and Broad streets (top), while strip on Court would be for parking.

But the panel, composed of private citizens, said the legislature should amend the state constitution so all state judicial salaries can be set by either the SOCC or the legislature. Several panel members said they felt obliged to raise Supreme Court salaries just to keep pace with other judicial salaries set by lawmakers.

—Annual vouchered expense allowances for legislators and for the lieutenant governor would be increased from $3,500 to $4,250 in 1977 and $4,600 in 1978. Milliken's expense allowance was continued at $18,000 annually, and Supreme Court justices' went unchanged from $1,500.

Jones said public sentiment about the salaries of the governor and lieutenant governor was that they were "embarrassingly low." In particular, the SOCC felt the lieutenant governor's salary was not high enough when his second-in-command role was considered.

Several members cited former Lt. Gov. James Brickley, who refused to seek another term partly because of the pay. He later accepted a higher-paying job as president of Eastern Michigan University.

Most of the 167 cards and letters the committee received concerned legislative salaries and recommended no raises, Jones said. Many of the comments were from elderly people, who said their legislators were not doing a good enough job, he said.

State Sen. John Weiborn, R-Kalamazoo, agreed. He said he would introduce a resolution to reject the pay hikes for the legislature.

"When you look at the total

record of this legislative session, we have nothing to be proud of, and I don't think we collectively deserve a pay raise," he said, adding he would accept the extra money if his resolution fails.

But both House Speaker Bobby Crim and Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald said the pay raises were fair. "It will be an inducement to seek public service," said Fitzgerald, D-Detroit.

Earlier this year, some top lawmakers had suggested they needed pay raises of $5,000 to $8,000 to keep pace with the buying power they had in the 1960s.

Utah Sending Execution Arguments To Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Utah state officials have made plans to transmit electronically their arguments to the U.S. Supreme Court in favor of swiftly executing Gary Mark Gilmore.

The electronic transmission to Washington was required to beat today's 5 p.m. deadline for the state's response, which the court set last week when it temporarily delayed Gilmore's death by firing squad.

The court ordered the delay at the request of Gilmore's mother, Mrs. Bessie Gilmore of Milwaukee, Ore. Her major contention was that Gilmore was not competent to decide for himself whether to appeal his death sentence for the murder of a motel clerk.

Dep. Atty. Gen. Robert Hansen of Utah planned to argue that Mrs. Gilmore had no standing to interfere in the case of her son, 36. He was to be joined by Gilmore's new attorney, Ronald Stanger of Provo.

The court, which approved the death penalty in a pair of rulings earlier this year, has now acted to delay the executions of the first men who have come to the brink of the gallows. In both cases, the condemned men said they wanted to die. The second postponement delayed the scheduled Friday electrocution of Robert Exeall White, a convicted murderer from Texas. White's attorney has said he will file an appeal, despite his client's wishes.

White, after exhausting his appeals at the state level, told the court he had decided that his death was inevitable. "I am mentally prepared. Any delay now will only inflict mental hardship on me," he said in a letter to the justices.

Only Justice William Brennan voted Monday to honor White's wishes. The other eight justices voted to hear the appeal of White's attorney, J.E. Alcorn.

In a separate decision handed down Monday, the court set aside the death sentence given to a convicted Georgia murderer, Curlew Davis. The sentence was flawed because the prosecutors at Davis's trial excluded one prospective juror who opposed capital punishment.

The 6 to 3 decision expanded

ROBERT E. WHITE
Delay means hardship on a 1968 ruling that prohibited prosecutors from excluding all prospective jurors who opposed capital punishment. The 1968 decision did not say how many anticapital punishment jurors had to be dismissed before a death sentence became tainted.

The decision meant that Davis's sentence and that of another Georgia convict must be reduced to life imprisonment. It could have the same effect for others among the nation's 600 condemned prisoners if they can prove that the same thing happened in their trials.

City Pay Equals Private Sector

By JONATHAN WOLMAN
AP Urban Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employees of the nation's 24 biggest cities are paid salaries comparable to those in private industry, a recent government study says, with government clerical workers earning more and skilled trades workers less than the private industry average.

No single city is the consistent pay leader in the wide range of employee categories, but Los Angeles, Chicago and Milwaukee were near the top in two job classifications.

"Lowest pay was generally reported for Indianapolis, Jacksonville, Fla., and New Orleans," according to the study by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The bureau reported that "pay tended to be highest in Northeastern and Western cities and lowest in the South."

The study, involving wages paid between August 1974 and August 1975, compared city and private industry salaries in cities with more than 500,000 population. Bureau analyst Richard Keller said the study did not deal with such factors as working conditions or job security.

"Job security sometimes makes city work more attractive than private employment," said Keller. "Economic changes usually effect private industry before the impact hits the city (government)."

Clerical workers in 14 cities were drawing higher pay than their counterparts in local private industry, the study showed, with municipal workers in Columbus, Ohio, Milwaukee, Los Angeles and Philadelphia taking home at least 15 per cent more.

Houston exemplified one of the dangers of generalizing — the city's senior stenographers made 14 per cent less than the local private industry average, while accounting clerks earned 22 per cent more.

Skilled city workers, including painters, carpenters and electricians, earned less than in private industry in 14 cities. In Atlanta, Indianapolis, Jacksonville, Kansas City, New Orleans and St. Louis, pay levels were more than 10 per cent lower, said the study.

Oakland Levies Extra Fee

ROCHESTER, Mich. (AP) — Trustees of Oakland University have voted to levy an athletic fee on the 10,500 Oakland undergraduates next September to defray costs of athletic programs. The fee will be $5 a term for undergraduates taking 12 credit hours and $3.50 for those taking less than 12. Graduate students will not be taxed. Supporters of the athletic tax said the money will be used for intercollegiate, intramural and club athletic programs. They also said the university recreation center has been forced to close nights and on weekends. The trustees were told the estimated $45,000 to be collected will be used strictly for making athletic facilities available, not on scholarships or other items.

PUBLIC PARTICIPATION SOUGHT

Study Of Area Waters Starting

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission last night began drumming up public support to evaluate water quality in the tri-county area as part of a federal program aimed at improving water resources. The purpose of the program, according to planners, is to determine water quality problem areas in Berrien, Cass, and Van Buren counties and then develop management programs to correct any problems.

James Muldoon, senior planner on the planning commission staff, explained the program during a public information meeting at Lake Michigan college attended by about 40 people. The study is to run for two years and is funded by a $140,000 grant from the federal Environmental Protection Agency. Muldoon noted, The water quality planning study was ordered by a Congressional act in 1972. Muldoon said, with the law decreeing that by 1985 waters throughout the U.S. are to be swimmable and fishable. He added that the Southwestern Michigan Regional planning commission was designated by Gov. William Milliken in 1973 as the agency to do the study in this area, and since July the planning staff has been developing a work plan and letting contracts for some of the work.

Muldoon said the study will have a new approach and examine all lakes and streams in southwestern Michigan and try to find from where pollutants are coming. He explained that since public participation is required in the federal law, the commission is now in the process of setting up a citizens advisory committee, which will report findings to the entire commission. "We want public input in the planning process," Muldoon emphasized. "The desired quality of streams and lakes for the most part will be left up to the people of southwestern Michigan. They will be offered an opportunity to decide for themselves what level of quality they want and how much to spend."

Muldoon stressed that whatever the study finds, it is only a suggestion, and the regional planning commission has no power to force implementation on local governmental units. He added, however, that there might be some cutoff of funds if programs are not put into effect. Muldoon also speculated the study may find the water quality in southwestern Michigan is already up to the standards set by Congress and no new programs would have to be implemented.

Petition
Disavowed
By Chamber

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan township board was informed last night that the board of directors of the Buchanan Chamber of Commerce had disavowed a petition opposing construction of a shopping center in the township.

Dr. Kenneth Jones, township supervisor, said he had received a letter from Harold Mosier Jr., Chamber president, which said the petition had been circulated without knowledge of the board.

The petition was circulated originally under the name of the retail division of the Chamber. It opposed rezoning needed to clear the way for building the eight-story, $1 million center on Niles-Buchanan road, west of the Brookfield golf course.

Rezoning, if approved, would change the land use from recreational to commercial. The development is being proposed by Weatherford/Walker, of Southfield.

The petition opposing the development was filed with the township last month after the plans were announced.

The township board is awaiting a recommendation from the Berrien county planning commission before acting.

In other areas, the board voted to apply for anti-recession funds being made available under the federal public works improvement act. The funds are being offered to communities with high unemployment. The amount to be sought was not specified.

The board voted to waive the township penalty assessed on late property tax payments made after Feb. 15.

The board tabled a request from township fire officials to have needed repairs made on the fire department's tanker truck. Fire officials said the truck shimmies at high speeds.

The board re-appointed Mrs. Ann Rose as deputy treasurer. She is the daughter-in-law of township Treasurer Ruth Rose.

DAYS TO CHRISTMASBH Sets
Land-Use
Meeting

The Benton Harbor city planning commission will meet with commercial and industrial property owners at 7 o'clock tonight, to discuss an updating of the city's comprehensive land-use plan.

Some of the topics expected to be discussed at the meeting in the city commission chambers are tax assessments, code enforcement and building rehabilitation, according to Alvin Chase, economic development director.

The planning commission has already met with business and service people and national retailers located in the city. It has scheduled Dec. 14 to meet with industrialists and wholesalers.

Covert Sewer Plan
Aired: No ObjectorsBy DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

COVERT — No objections were raised to a proposed $3,717,900 Covert township sewer project during a public meeting here last night.

If approved, the plan would involve 316 sewer connections, serving some 1,400 people. A total of $2,535,000 of the cost would be provided through state and federal grants.

About 50 people attended the session.

The $1,182,000 local share would be paid off over a period of 20 years by fees assessed on users. Figures compiled by Williams and Works, a Grand Rapids engineering firm, estimate that the average cost to each residential user would be $2,600.

That figure does not include, according to Fred Timmer of Williams and Works, another $900 to $1,100 to connect the sewer from the individual's property line to his house. The amount would vary, he said, depending on the distance between them.

Timmer estimated the average monthly sewer use charge would be $9, with $5 of that amount going toward operation and maintenance of the system, and $4 to pay for debt retirement on the bonds for construction.

Annual maintenance and operating costs are expected to be $20,400.

Supervisor Jerry Sarno said one financing alternative under consideration is to levy one mill across the entire township. Such a levy would raise about $40,000 annually, and reduce the capital charges to each customer from the $2,600 figure to about $1,600. Sarno said the township hopes to hold an advisory election on the sewer program sometime in January, but that he has been unable to get a confirmed date from the county elections scheduling commission. The exact nature of what would appear on the ballot is not certain, but Sarno said it may include the one mill levy.

"If we're going to have increased residential growth in the community, it's a must that we have a sewer system," Sarno told a group of about 50 people gathered in the Covert high school auditorium. He added that sewers could pave the way for new subdivisions and possibly new industry.

As outlined last night, the proposed sewer project would not serve any of the township west of I-196, including the Palisades nuclear plant and the Palisades Park area.

The general service area includes: 30th avenue and CR-378 from I-196 to just west of M-140; M-140 from 28th avenue to just south of 38th avenue; 76th street from 34th avenue to 40th avenue, and 34th avenue from 76th street to 72nd street.

Timmer said other areas lacked sufficient population density to be economically feasible, and that it was doubtful that they will grow enough within the next 20 years to support a sewer system.

Les Brown, county environmental health director, said a survey of about 240 homes in the township indicated that about 16 per cent had some type of failure of their present sewage system.

Many of the questions raised by the audience last night centered around the program's cost. One man said he did not feel residents who would not be provided with sewer service should have to pay any of the costs. Others questioned the effect on fixed-income people.

Timmer said there is a state law whereby those over 65 with annual incomes under $5,000 can have their costs of sewer installation deferred. They don't have to pay anything unless they sell the property, he said. Should they die, Timmer said, their heirs would have to pay the costs, if they took over the property.

Funds for the program are being sought through a three-step process. Step 1, a facility plan, has been completed. If the program is approved, the project would go to Step 2, construction plans and specifications. Step 3 is actual construction.

Seventy-five per cent of the "eligible" costs would come from a grant from the federal Environmental Protection Agency, and five percent of the eligible costs from the state Water Resources commission. Eligible costs include most engineering and construction work.

Costs not eligible to be paid for by the grants include such things as administration and operation, land and easements, and legal and financial fees.

Al Padlunas of Williams and Works said three treatment alternatives were considered — pumping sewage to the South Haven treatment facility; use of stabilization lagoons, or land disposal.

He said a system of three stabilization lagoons was settled on as the most cost-effective method. Treated water will be dumped in Brandywine creek, if the plan is approved. A treatment plant would be built in an area bounded by I-196, CR-378, 34th avenue, and 72nd street.

AD-CO Water Line
Gets Bridgman OK

BRIDGMAN — The Bridgman city commission voted last night to extend a water line to AD-CO Die Cast, a firm headed by Bridgman Mayor Ronald Galesko.

City officials said AD-CO and two other property owners will have to share 60 per cent of the cost of the line with the city picking up the remaining 40 per cent.

Cost of running 1,100 feet of 8-inch line from Red Arrow to Rambo road, where AD-CO is located, is estimated at $22,000, officials said. The cost-sharing is based on a policy adopted in May of this year, officials added.

The commission qualified its approval by saying construction would start when the city has the money to pay for it.

Owners of a Standard oil station and a vacant lot will share costs of water line construction with AD-CO.

Mayor Galesko abstained from voting on the issue which was otherwise unanimously approved by the commission.

In other business, the commission voted to send letters to the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad and Martin Marietta Aggregates concerning traffic delays at rail crossings.

Commissioners complained that there are traffic backups at the Lake, Baldwin, Rambo and Church street crossings.

City officials said they will ask the railroad and sand company to meet with the commission at the commission's Jan. 3 meeting to discuss traffic delays.

The commission also ordered city Supt. Milford Mellon to ask the railroad and sand company to meet with the commission at the commission's Jan. 3 meeting to discuss traffic delays.

crossing can be blocked and conditions of rail crossings and beds.

The sand company is being asked to attend because it is on-and off-loading of its properties that is causing some of the alleged delays.

The commission accepted the resignation of Clarence Heyn from the city's civil service and parks boards. Heyn wrote he was resigning for personal reasons.

The commission appointed David Strelling to the park committee but tabled appointment of a replacement on the civil service board. Heyn served on the civil service board since 1974 and his term was to run to 1980.

Mellon told the commission that a proposal on how to protect the city's water source from lake erosion is expected sometime in January. The Army Corps of Engineers has been studying the problem. Erosion has been uncovering a water line, allowing water inside the pipe to freeze.

In other areas, the commission rejected a proposal to change angle parking in the business district by April, reappointed Donna Neundorff, William Willis and Jim Catania to one-year terms on the ordinance review committee; voted to allow the Lions club Newbie sale Dec. 17; and hired Thomas Sinn, a private, planning consultant from St. Joseph, to prepare applications for community development funds at a fee not to exceed $350.

The commission also set two public hearings on the proposed applications for community development funds. One meeting will be on a yet undetermined date in late December and the second on Jan. 3.

DECATUR — LaSalle Federal Savings and Loan association is planning to build a branch office in Decatur, according to village officials here. Clerk Harry Schmitt said at last night's village council meeting that the branch office is to be built on Main street, at the corner of St. Mary's street.

LaSalle is headquartered in Buchanan and has two other branches, at Coloma and Bridgman. Decatur presently has one other financial institution, the First State Bank of Decatur, founded some 100 years ago.

PUBLIC PARTICIPATION SOUGHT

Study Of Area Waters Starting

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission last night began drumming up public support to evaluate water quality in the tri-county area as part of a federal program aimed at improving water resources. The purpose of the program, according to planners, is to determine water quality problem areas in Berrien, Cass, and Van Buren counties and then develop management programs to correct any problems.

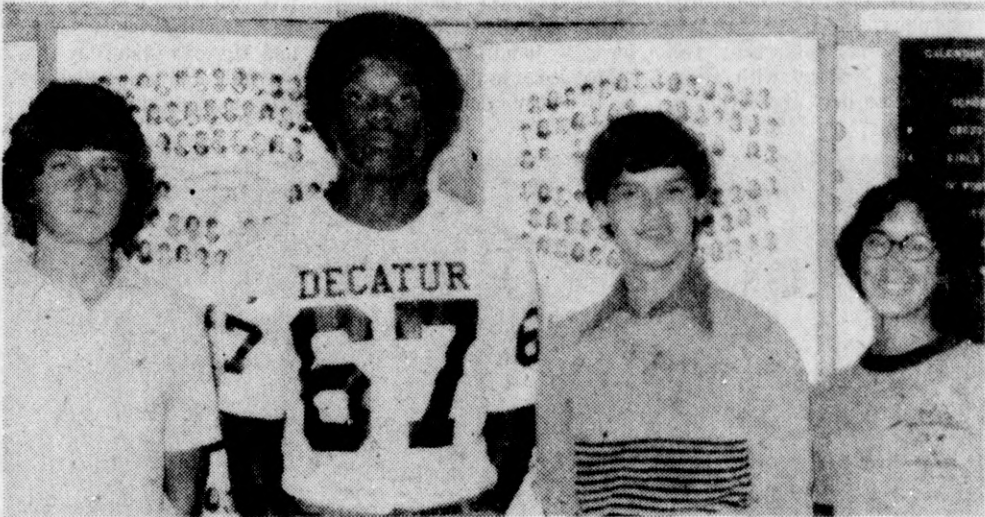

James Muldoon, senior planner on the planning commission staff, explained the program during a public information meeting at Lake Michigan college attended by about 40 people. The study is to run for two years and is funded by a $140,000 grant from the federal Environmental Protection Agency. Muldoon noted, "The water quality planning study was ordered by a Congressional act in 1972. Muldoon said, with the law decreeing that by 1985 waters throughout the U.S. are to be swimmable and fishable. He added that the Southwestern Michigan Regional planning commission was designated by Gov. William Milliken in 1975 as the agency to do the study in this area, and since July the planning staff has been developing a work plan and letting contracts for some of the work.

Muldoon said the study will have a new approach and examine all lakes and streams in southwestern Michigan and try to find from where pollutants are coming. He explained that since public participation is required in the federal law, the commission is now in the process of setting up a citizens advisory committee, which will report findings to the entire commission. "We want public input in the planning process," Muldoon emphasized. "The desired quality of streams and lakes for the most part will be left up to the people of southwestern Michigan. They will be offered an opportunity to decide for themselves what level of quality they want and how much to spend."

Muldoon stressed that whatever the study finds, it is only a suggestion, and the regional planning commission has no power to force implementation on local governmental units. He added, however, that there might be some cutoff of funds if programs are not put into effect. Muldoon also speculated the study may find the water quality in southwestern Michigan is already up to the standards set by Congress and no new programs would have to be implemented.

Petition Disavowed By Chamber

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan township board was informed last night that the board of directors of the Buchanan Chamber of Commerce had disavowed a petition opposing construction of a shopping center in the township.

Dr. Kenneth Jones, township supervisor, said he had received a letter from Harold Mosier Jr., Chamber president, which said the petition had been circulated without knowledge of the board.

Covert Sewer Plan Aired: No Objectors

River Valley 'B' Quarterfinal Foe Tough On Defense

River Valley will face a completely different style of basketball when the Mustangs challenge Brooklyn Columbia Central in a Class B quarterfinal girls basketball game at 7:30 Wednesday night at Jackson Community College.

Unlike last Saturday night when the Mustangs faced high-scoring machine Parchment, the Golden Eagles rely strictly on a tough defense for victory.

That fact was never more evident than in their regional final game against Marshall. Central used a zone defense to key its 24-21 victory.

"Our team just plays defense very well," comments coach Dave VanWinkle. "We play a number of defenses but stick with the zone most of the time. We also can use a full court press."

VanWinkle states that his team only averages around 40 points per game, but with a 19-3 record, the Eagles are obviously holding their foes to much less.

River Valley, in posting a 21-0 mark, has had good success with both the offense and defense. Coach Fred Knutl reports that his team is averaging around 54 points a game on offense, while only giving up approximately 36 points per game.

VanWinkle indicates that the Eagles are capable of scoring much more than they did against Marshall. "There were a lot of turnovers in the game," he notes. "Neither team shot that well."

"Against River Valley, we will just have to rely on our defense. That, and hope we shoot better than we did against Marshall."

Size-wise the Mustangs and Eagles are very similar. Central will go with 5-3 Tammie Bumpus and 5-7 April Gross at the guards, 5-10 Cindy McCabe will start at the post and 5-7 Pam Knapp and 5-7 Lora Phelan will be at the forwards.

The Mustangs will counter that lineup with 5-3 Ruth Simmons and 5-1 Lynda Mitchell at the guards, 5-10 Wendy Schwark and 5-9 Deb Lundin at the forwards and 5-10 Julie Gnodtke at the post.

Gnodtke will be filling in for Peg DeMorrow. A regular most of the season, DeMorrow severely sprained her ankle in the Parchment clash and isn't expected to see action Wednesday, according to Knutl.

"With Julie in the game, it will make us a little stronger rebounding," he adds.

Central, which will be a Class C team come January, only has one player averaging in double figures and that is Knapp at 12 points per game. The Mustang have Lundin hitting about 15 per cent, Simmons at 13 and Schwark at 12.

Although the Mustangs had a couple of dry spells against Parchment, Knutl doesn't feel his team had that bad a game. "I didn't think we played that bad," he comments. "Our defense was real good, and it had to be, or we wouldn't have stopped Tammy Sanders."

"Against Central, we will have to continue to play good defense and go with the things that have worked for us throughout the season."

The winner of the game will advance to the semifinals at Grand Rapids Christian high school on Friday, Dec. 10, at 7 p.m.

BOB McADOO

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob McAdoo, the National Basketball Association scoring champion for each of the past three seasons, was expected to become a member of the New York Knicks today in a $6 million deal.

The Associated Press has learned that the scoring star of the Buffalo Braves would come to the Knicks for $2.5 million in cash and forward John Gianelli. The Knicks are giving McAdoo a five-year contract for $500,000 a year and will pick up the $1 million in deferred payments that Buffalo owes him, starting in 1988.

In acquiring the 6-foot-10 McAdoo, the Knicks, in the end, outbid the Seattle SuperSonics, who had offered the Braves forward Leonard Gray, 7-2 center Tom Burleson and $2.0 million.

"Actually, the whole thing hinged on working out a deal with McAdoo," said a Seattle source close to the negotiations. "It was a tough deal. And as far as I know, McAdoo has not chosen Seattle. We have been unable to make a deal with him."

He said that New York, Seattle and Buffalo actually had been in the running to sign the high-scoring center-forward.

"But I understand," he added, "that McAdoo said if he had a choice, it would be New York."

"We thought we had a deal all worked out with John Y. Brown (the Braves' co-owner), but then Paul Snyder (the other co-owner) stepped in," the source explained.

Knicks officials held two meetings Monday with attorneys for Snyder, who earlier in the day had announced he was entertaining bids for McAdoo.

The Knicks originally offered $3 million for the 25-year-old McAdoo, but the Braves also wanted a player, so Gianelli was included.

"We met with their lawyer, he called Snyder, then we had another meeting," a Knicks spokesman said Monday night. "He said Snyder wanted to sleep on it, but would have an answer for us by 10 a.m. Tuesday."

McAdoo is in the final year of a five-year contract which Snyder said calls for $200,000 per year plus $200,000 in deferred payments. Snyder said McAdoo had recently accepted a new pact calling for $500,000 per year, but that it had been rejected by the player's agent, New York attorney William Madden. The rejection reportedly involved the deferred payments.

"If this franchise is to survive, we can't pay any player over $500,000," Snyder said. "I told McAdoo yesterday that if we can't sign him today, we're going to trade him."

Steelers Get Needed Break

Inspired Oakland Romps

OAKLAND (AP) — Ken Stabler and the Oakland Raiders did their part, making believers and losers of the Cincinnati Bengals.

The rest is up to the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"It's getting close to playoff time, and we're inspired," Stabler said Monday night after his four touchdown passes, complemented by 228 yards from his running backs, carried the Raiders to a 35-20 National Football League victory over the Bengals.

There had been talk, some of it by the Steelers, that because the Raiders already were assured of a playoff berth, they would not be emotionally up for the Bengals.

"That talk was stupid last week and it's stupid now," said Raiders Coach John Madden. "This was a very meaningful game for us. We've been improving every week and we got a chance to measure our improvement against a top team." The Steelers, defending Super Bowl champions, got the assist they so desperately needed. By winning, the Bengals would have been in position to clinch the American Football Conference Central title next weekend and deprive the Steelers of an opportunity to win a third consecutive NFL crown.

Now the Steelers, 9-4, are tied with Cincinnati and Cleveland for the division lead and can claim the playoff berth by beating Houston Saturday.

The Steelers and 52,430 Oakland Coliseum fans had plenty to cheer about in the Raiders' ninth consecutive victory, which made their record 12-1 and assured them of the home field advantage in all playoff games.

Stabler hit on 16 of 20 passes for 217 yards. His first two touchdown strikes went to tight end Dave Casper on plays covering 24 and three yards in the first period, sending Oakland into a 14-6 lead, and in the second half his scoring tosses went 42 yards to Cliff Branch and seven yards to Fred Biletnikoff.

"I don't think anyone could have beaten them tonight. They looked like Super Bowl winners to me," said Bengals cornerback Ken Riley, who had Branch well covered on Stabler's third touchdown pass but came up empty handed.

"I caught that one off the top of his helmet," said Branch, who tormented the Bengals' defense with six catches for 112 yards and increased his season totals to 11 touchdown catches and 1,106 yards.

Stabler, with 27 touchdown passes, is enjoying his finest NFL season.

"I just didn't believe they could move the football with the consistency they did," said Cincinnati Coach Bill Johnson. "Stabler is without a doubt the best quarterback in football."

The Bengals' Ken Anderson passed for 281 yards, with 201 of them coming on nine passes to John McDaniel who had not caught a pass all season.

"But we made the mistakes; the Raiders didn't," said the Cincinnati quarterback, who was intercepted three times.

REGULAR SEASON ENDS

Guards Key 'Cat Rout Of Hoosiers

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Bobby Knight, who prides himself on being right, was wrong when he figured his Indiana basketball team could defeat Kentucky by stopping the Wildcats' big men.

The Hoosiers—limited Rick Robey and Mike Phillips, a pair of 6-foot-10 giants, to a total of six points Monday night. But Kentucky guards Jay Shidler and Larry Johnson combined for 40 and the fourth-rated Wildcats routed No. 13 Indiana 66-51.

"Our idea, to start with, was to take away Kentucky's inside game," Knight said. "We did that, but Shidler hit some big baskets for them in the first half."

The 6-1 freshman guard, who said he "hit a few and got loose," connected on two long jumpers to send Kentucky into a 4-2 lead and the Wildcats moved out from there. Shidler finished with 20 points, the same as Johnson.

The Wildcats achieved a 38-21 halftime advantage and leads of no less than 13 points the remainder of the contest.

All-American center Kent Benson led the defending NCAA CHAMPIONS WITH 14.5 POINTS. But his teammates were unable to deal with a variety of Kentucky defenses and the Hoosiers suffered their second loss in three games and their first at home since 1973. Kentucky is now 3-0.

Elsewhere Monday night, top-ranked Michigan routed Vanderbilt 97-76; No. 2 Marquette rolled over Western Michigan 78-53; No. 6 San Francisco defeated Houston 100-85; No. 12 North Carolina crushed Michigan State 81-58; No. 14 Louisville trounced Virginia Commonwealth 89-60 and 18th-ranked Southern Illinois edged past Northeast Oklahoma 63-61.

Al McGuire's Marquette team relied on 56 per cent shooting from the field against Western Michigan, 3-1. Butch Lee and Bo Ellis led 2-0 Marquette with 22 and 20 points, respectively.

The sixth-rated Dons survived a 36-point performance by Otis Birdsong in improving their record to 6-0.

Forward Marlon Redmond led the Dons with 28 points, while teammates James Hardy and Winford Boynes scored 22 apiece.

Louisville, rebounding from an upset loss to Syracuse, took control early in the first half by scoring 14 straight points and breezed to its victory over Virginia Commonwealth. Larry Williams scored 17 of his 19 points in the first half as the Cardinals achieved their second victory in three outings.

Mike Glenn scored 24 points, the last two on a rebound basket with 24 seconds left, then blocked a shot that might have tied the game as Southern Illinois held on against the little-known Redmen.

'Bad' Ticket Big Winner

MIAMI (AP) — Calder Race Course mutual clerk Anthony Cantatore thought he was losing $200 when a customer refused to take 20 tickets, claiming Cantatore had punched the wrong numbers on $10 Perfecta tickets.

But four of the tickets were on Monday's 8-11 combination, which returned $431 for $2. So Cantatore went home the winner of $8,620, less the $160 for the 16 losing tickets.

"Great Business, the No. 8 horse, won the race and paid $35.60, with No. 11 Hand Combat, second.

Janer Keys Chips' Victory
MT. PLEASANT, Mich. (AP) — Sophomore forward Kevin Janer, starting his first game for Central Michigan University Monday night, led the Chippewas to a 90-75 non-league basketball triumph over Wittenberg.

Four other players broke into double figures for Central, as it easily topped the defending NCAA Division III runners-up. Guard Leonard Drake scored 17 points, center Ben Poquette added 13 points and 17 rebounds, guard Leon Guydon scored 14 and guard Val Bracey contributed 12.

Green, Hubbard Lead 'M' Rout

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
"We didn't expect to win like that," Coach Johnny Orr said of his top-rated Michigan Wolverines. "We would have been happy just to get out of here with a victory."

Michigan, employing a high-powered running offense, crushed Vanderbilt 97-76 Monday night as guard Rickey Green scored 29 points and Phil Hubbard added 21.

The Wolverines shot 76 percent from the floor in the second half, while hitting on 22 of 29 field goal attempts. Now 2-0, the Wolverines hit 64.9 per cent from the field for the game.

"That's as well as we have run this year—probably the best we've played all year," said Orr.

While the Wolverines were off and running, fourth-ranked and defending NCAA champion Indiana continued to stumble.

Kennedy, rated No. 5, dealt the Hoosiers, now 1-2, their second straight defeat 86-61. It was first home loss for Indiana in three years and marked the first time in four years the defending Big Ten champs have lost two games in a row.

Meanwhile, in other games involving Big Ten teams, undefeated Minnesota overpowered Northern Michigan 96-50. Michigan State fell to ninth-ranked North Carolina 81-58. Wisconsin topped 18th-ranked DePaul 88-66 and Iowa breezed past Bradley 90-77.

Four players scored in double figures as Minnesota ran its record to 3-0. Ray Williams was tops for the Gophers, who held Northern Michigan scoreless for the first six minutes of the game, with 21 points. Mike Thompson and Kevin McHale added 16 points apiece and Osborne Lockhart had 13.

North Carolina had little trouble with Michigan State as Phil Ford scored a game-high 18 points. The Tar Heels built an early lead and North Carolina Coach Dean Smith substituted freely throughout the contest.

Edgar Wilson of Dowagiac topped the Spartans, who fell to 1-1, with 16 points.

James "Stretch" Gregory and Bob Falk poured in five free throws in the final minute as Wisconsin upped its season record to 2-1. Falk sank three charity tosses and Gregory two as the Badgers held off a late rally by DePaul.

Iowa, unbeaten in four games, also had to stave off a late rally to claim their victory over Bradley. Bruce King jumped in 19 points and hauled down 11 rebounds to lead the Hawkeyes. Former Buchanan all-star Ken Garrett had 14 for Bradley.

In games tonight involving conference teams, Purdue hosts Indiana State and Northwestern travels to Notre Dame.

State Gridders In Shrine Game

DETROIT (AP) — A pair of former Michigan high school gridders are among players named Monday to tennis for the North-South Shrine All-Star game Dec. 17 at the Pontiac, Al Weggand, a third-year letterman at Arizona State from Flint Powers, was named to the South squad while Bob Graustein, a Penn quarterback who played high school football at Detroit Thurston, joined the North forces.

Two Arkansas players, defensive end Dennis Winston and linebacker Curtis Townsend, were also named to the South team Monday.

Northwestern's Pete Shaw, a defensive back named to the Associated Press All-Big Ten team last week, also was picked by the North team, along with offensive guard Tom Gibson of Purdue and linebacker Wayne Hill of Idaho State.

Fred Morrison Jr., managing director of the Shrine game, said the final 30-man rosters for both teams will be announced Wednesday.

Career Clips

Russell Steele (Benton Harbor), a freshman guard, made a fantastic college debut by scoring 35 points for Eastern Montana College against Dickinson State. He also hauled down a team-high 10 rebounds in the 97-84 Eastern victory.

Dave Ziebart (St. Joseph) finished his freshman season as the Air Force Academy quarterback with 57 completions in 117 attempts for 789 yards and five touchdowns. Ziebart passed for 339 yards in the season-ending 41-21 triumph over Wyoming, including a school record pass play of 89 yards to Paul Williams. He finished with 904 yards in total offense, second on the Falcon squad.

Three southwestern Michigan players have earned membership in the Western Michigan "Stadium Club" for receiving 80 per cent efficiency grades on the Bronco football team this past season. They are senior tight end Dennis Dilley of St. Joseph, junior wingback John Huges of St. Joseph and junior fullback Keith Bagley of Eau Claire.

BH Visits Strong Heights

K-Central Rugged Foe For St. Joe

Benton Harbor and St. Joseph both invade hostile enemy territory tonight in quest of basketball victories.

The Tigers, seeking their first win of the young season, travel to always-tough Class B power Muskegon Heights while the Bears, hoping to rebound from last Friday night's loss, journey to rugged Kalamazoo Central.

Among other non-league action tonight Watervliet and Covert will both be out to extend their unbeaten streaks. The Panthers (3-0) travel to Dowagiac and the Bulldogs (4-0) host Bloomingdale.

"It's always tough going up there (Muskegon Heights)," voices Benton Harbor Coach Earl McKee. "I haven't seen them play but I understand they're looking to have one of their better years. I understand they have some outstanding talent from their freshman team of last year."

Heights opened its season by beating Muskegon Christian and then lost 66-60 to Muskegon last week Tuesday.

"We have three sophomores up from our unbeaten freshmen and jayvee teams from last year and they still have a lot to learn," offers Muskegon Heights Coach Ossie McCarty. "They made typical sophomore mistakes against Muskegon but with additional playing time we hope to eliminate those mistakes."

Sophomores starting for Heights are Robert Kitchen at guard and Darnell Plummer (6-5) at forward. Rounding out the likely starters are senior Greg Murray at guard, senior Mark Kitchen (6-1) at forward and senior John Terrell (6-5) at center.

"We just have to be a little sharper than we were last Friday night," says McKee, whose Tigers dropped a 64-55 decision to Battle Creek Central in their opener. "Also we'll have to do a better job of rebounding."

The Tigers, who edged Muskegon Heights 63-62 last season, were led by Steve McNutt's 23 points against Central.

St. Joseph, 2-1 on the season, could have its hands full against Kalamazoo Central, which opened with an impressive 64-60 win over Loy Norrix last week Friday.

The Maroon Giants, who return one starter from last year's 7-17 team, will probably start Eddie Boyd and either Jim Ross or Kim Jackson at the guards, Larry Campbell (6-6) and Ken Barlow (6-1) at forwards and Ken Kirtom (6-6) in the pivot. Barlow scored 18 points, Boyd 17 and Ross 14 against Loy Norrix. Kirtom grabbed 12 rebounds as Central outrebounded tatler Norrix 40-23.

"We saw St. Joe against Lakeshore and River Valley and we feel they have a real fine ball club," notes Kalamazoo Central Coach Don Jackson. "George's (Gaudier) clubs always are well-disciplined. And this Wright (Dale) is one of the better players in southwestern Michigan."

Wright is averaging 14.0 points a game for the Bears while Steve Ziebart tops the club at 15.3.

Gaudier would like to see the Bears improve their foul shooting, which is at 65 per cent for the year. St. Joe is averaging 44 per cent shooting from the field.

Watervliet, which also won four straight to start last season, will be trying to duplicate that success with a victory at Dowagiac (1-1).

The Panthers, who have outscored its foes by a huge 230-142 margin, feature a well-balanced attack headed by Jim Weaver's 19.3 average and Chuck Brock's 14.7.

Jon Hinkelman, originally not expected to play until just before Christmas, has recovered quickly from a broken collarbone suffered during the football season. He has scored 20 points as the Panthers' sixth man.

New coach Gene Bednarowski calls guard Pat Curtis (28 points) the most improved player on the squad while citing Tim Hardy (12 points) for his ability to play both guard and forward. Tom Hutchinson is averaging 8.7.

The Bulldogs also have been getting plenty of balance in their hot start. Eight players have scored more than 30 points in four games, headed by Robert Maggard's 51 (12.8 average). Bloomingdale will be making its season's debut tonight against Covert.

Milwaukee Swaps Among 6 Winter Meeting Deals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers, who stood pat last year, aren't making the same mistake this time.

"You'll need a scorecard to identify our club," said Manager Alex Grammas Tuesday after the Brewers were involved in two key deals at baseball's winter meetings. Last season was Grammas' first as Milwaukee manager and the club finished last in the American League East with a 66-95 record, 32 games behind the first place New York Yankees.

The Brewers haven't had a winning club since the American League franchise was placed in Milwaukee in 1970. General Manager Jim Baumler took the first step toward changing that recently by signing veteran free agent third baseman Sal Bando, formerly of the Oakland A's.

On Tuesday, the Brewers acquired first baseman Cecil Cooper from the Boston Red Sox for first baseman George Scott and outfielder Bernie Carbo.

Tiger Frosh Win

BUCHANAN — Troy Taylor scored 18 points and Keith Davis notched 10 points and pulled down 17 rebounds as Benton Harbor topped Buchanan 66-43 in a freshmen basketball game played here Monday night. Dave Price had 20 points to lead the Bucks.

and landed outfielder Jim Wohlford, infielder Jamie Quirk and a player to be named later from the Kansas City Royals for catcher Darrell Porter and pitcher Jim Colborn.

In another move, the Brewers picked up reserve catcher Larry Haney from the Oakland A's on waivers.

All told, six deals between major league clubs — all American — were completed Tuesday involving 14 players.

And the Philadelphia Phillies announced the signing of infielder Richie Hebner, one of their picks in the free agent reentry draft. Hebner is the 19th free agent to sign since the season ended. The length and terms of the contract were not announced.

In another key deal, slugger Rico Carthy returned to Cleveland, with the Indians sending infielder-outfielder John Lowenstein and rookie catcher Rick Cerone to the expansion Toronto Blue Jays.

Scott and Carbo will be returning to Boston, but Scott announced Monday night he expects a new long-term contract in return for accepting the trade. He has the right to veto the deal on the basis of being a 10-year player with five years on one club.

Scott, a 32-year-old long ball hitter with a solid glove, batted .274 with 18 home runs and 77 runs batted in last season. He holds club records in batting average, homers and RBI. Carbo, who was unhappy in Milwaukee, batted .235 last year with Boston and Milwaukee.

Cooper, a lefty swinger who turns 27 next week, hit .282 with 15 homers and 78 RBI as a first baseman-designated hitter in 1975.

The Brewers also went for youth in a five-player trade with Kansas City. Wohlford, 25, hit .219 last season but has a lifetime .262 average and will be bidding for a starting outfield berth. Quirk, 22, can play first and third and handle the DH role.

Kansas City, the AL West champion, acquired two five-year veterans in Porter, 24, who could just back Martinez as the No. 1 catcher, and Colborn, 30, a right-hander who was 9-13 last season with a 3.71 earned run average. He won 20 games in 1973.

The Royals also picked up reserve infield strength by purchasing Bobby Hesse from Boston.

In another deal, the Minnesota Twins purchased left-handed hitting outfielder Glenn Adams from the San Francisco Giants.

WRESTLING
It was the 10th consecutive game without a victory for the Barons and to make matters worse, two members of the team were injured.

Coach Jack Evans said winger Fred Alern suffered a suspected fracture of his lower left forearm when he fell into the boards early in the third period. Defenseman Len Eric suffered a bad charley-horse when he was checked into the boards in the first period.

"We didn't expect to win like that," Coach Johnny Orr said of his top-rated Michigan Wolverines. "We would have been happy just to get out of here with a victory."

Michigan, employing a high-powered running offense, crushed Vanderbilt 97-76 Monday night as guard Ricky Green scored 29 points and Phil Hubbard added 21.

The Wolverines shot 76 percent from the floor in the second half, while hitting on 22 of 29 field goal attempts. Now 2-0, the Wolverines hit 64.9 percent from the field for the game.

Wilson Nets 16; Spartans Shellacked

Green, Hubbard Lead 'M' Rout

"That's as well as we have run this year—probably the best we've played all year," said Orr.

While the Wolverines were off and running, fourth-ranked and defending NCAA champion Indiana continued to stumble.

Kentucky, rated No. 5, dealt the Hoosiers, now 1-2, their second straight defeat 66-51. It was first home loss for Indiana in three years and marked the first time in four years the defending Big Ten champs have lost two games in a row.

Meanwhile, in other games

involving Big Ten teams, undefeated Minnesota overpowered Northern Michigan 96-50, Michigan State fell to ninth-ranked North Carolina 81-58, Wisconsin nipped 18th-rated DePaul 68-66 and Iowa breezed past Bradley 90-77.

Four players scored in double figures as Minnesota ran its record to 3-0. Ray Williams was tops for the Gophers, who held Northern Michigan scoreless for the first six minutes of the game, with 21 points. Mike Thompson and Kevin McHale added 16 points apiece and Osborne Lockhart had 15.

North Carolina had little trouble with Michigan State as Phil Ford scored a game-high 18 points. The Tar Heels built an early lead and North Carolina Coach Dean Smith substituted freely throughout the contest.

Edgar Wilson of Dowagiac topped the Spartans, who fell to 0-3, with 16 points.

James "Stretch" Gregory and Bob Falk poured in five free throws in the final minute as Wisconsin upped its season record to 2-1. Falk sank three charity tosses and Gregory two as the Badgers held off a late rally by DePaul.

Iowa, unbeaten in four games, also had to stave off a late rally to claim their victory over Bradley. Bruce King pumped in 19 points and hauled down 13 rebounds to lead the Hawkeyes. Former Buchanan all-star Ken Garrett had 14 for Bradley.

In games tonight involving conference teams, Purdue hosts Indiana State and Northwestern travels to Notre Dame.

Career Clips

Russell Steele (Benton Harbor), a freshman guard, made a fantastic college debut by scoring 35 points for Eastern Montana College against Dickinson State. He also hauled down a team-high 10 rebounds in the 97-83 Eastern victory.

Dave Ziebart (St. Joseph) finished his freshman season as the Air Force Academy quarterback with 57 completions in 117 attempts for 789 yards and five touchdowns. Ziebart passed for 339 yards in the season-ending 41-21 triumph over Wyoming, including a school record pass play of 89 yards to Paul Williams. He finished with 994 yards in total offense, second on the Falcon squad.

Three southwestern Michigan players have earned membership in the Western Michigan "Stallion Club" for receiving 80 per cent efficiency grades on the Bronco football team this past season. They are senior tight end Dennis Dilley of St. Joseph, junior wingback John Higgins of St. Joseph and junior fullback Keith Rogien of Eau Claire.

BH Visits Strong Heights

K-Central Rugged Foe For St. Joe

Benton Harbor and St. Joseph both invade hostile enemy territory tonight in quest of basketball victories.

The Tigers, seeking their first win of the young season, travel to always-tough Class B power Muskegon Heights while the Bears, hoping to rebound from last Friday night's loss, journey to rugged Kalamazoo Central.

Among other non-league action tonight Watervliet and Covert will both be out to extend their unbeaten streaks. The Panthers (3-0) travel to Dowagiac and the Bulldogs (4-0) host Bloomingdale.

"It's always tough going up there (Muskegon Heights)," voices Benton Harbor Coach Earl McKee. "I haven't seen them play but I understand they're looking to have one of their better years. I understand they have some outstanding talent from their frosh team of last year."

Heights opened its season by beating Muskegon Christian and then lost 66-60 to Muskegon last week Tuesday.

"We have three sophomores up from our unbeaten freshmen and jayvee teams from last year and they still have a lot to learn," offers Muskegon Heights Coach Ossie McCarty. "They made typical sophomore mistakes against Muskegon but with additional playing time we hope to eliminate those mistakes."

Sophomores starting for Heights are Robert Kitchen at guard and Darnell Plummer (6-5) at forward. Rounding out the likely starters are senior Greg Murray at guard, senior Mark Kitchen (6-1) at forward and senior John Terrell (6-5) at center.

"We just have to be a little sharper than we were last Friday night," says McKee, whose Tigers dropped a 64-55 decision to Battle Creek Central in their opener. "Also we'll have to do a better job of rebounding."

The Tigers, who edged Muskegon Heights 63-62 last season, were led by Steve McNutt's 23 points against Central.

St. Joseph, 2-1 on the season, could have its hands full against Kalamazoo Central, which opened with an impressive 64-60 win over Loy Norrix last week Friday.

The Maroon Giants, who return one starter from last year's 7-17 team, will probably start Eddie Boyd and either Jim Ross or Kim Jackson at the guards, Larry Campbell (6-6) and Ken Barlow (6-1) at forwards and Ken Kirtan (6-6) in the pivot. Barlow scored 18 points, Boyd 17 and Ross 14 against Loy Norrix. Kirtan grabbed 12 rebounds as Central outrebounded taller Norrix 40-23.

"We saw St. Joe against Lakeshore and River Valley and we feel they have a real fine ball club," notes Kalamazoo Central Coach Don Jackson. "George's (Gauder) clubs always are well-disciplined. And this Wright (Dale) is one of the better players in southwestern Michigan."

Wright is averaging 14.0 points a game for the Bears while Steve Ziebart tops the club at 13.3.

Gauder would like to see the Bears improve their foul shooting, which is at 65 per cent for the year. St. Joe is averaging 44 per cent shooting from the field.

Watervliet, which also won four straight to start last season, will be trying to duplicate that success with a victory at Dowagiac (1-1).

The Panthers, who have outscored its foes by a huge 220-142 margin, feature a well-balanced attack headed by Jim Weaver's 19.3 average and Chuck Brock's 14.7.

Jon Hinkelman, originally not expected to play until just before Christmas, has recovered quickly from a broken collarbone suffered during the football season. He has scored 20 points as the Panthers' sixth man.

New coach Gene Bednarowski calls guard Pat Curtis (28 points) the most improved player on the squad while citing Tim Hardy (12 points) for his ability to play both guard and forward. Tom Hutchinson is averaging 8.7.

The Bulldogs also have been getting plenty of balance in their hot start. Eight players have scored more than 30 points in four games, headed by Robert Maggard's 51 (12.8 average). Bloomingdale will be making its season's debut tonight against Covert.

State Gridders In Shrine Game

DETROIT (AP) — A pair of former Michigan high school gridders are among players named Monday to teams for the North-South Shrine All-Star game Dec. 17 at the Pontiac.

Al Weigandt, a third-year letterman at Arizona State from Flint Powers, was named to the South squad while Bob Graustein, a Penn quarterback who played high school football at Detroit Thurston, joined the North forces.

Two Arkansas players, defensive end Dennis Winston and linebacker Curtis Townsend, were also named to the South team Monday.

Northwestern's Pete Shaw, a defensive back named to the Associated Press All-Big Ten team last week, also was picked by the North team, along with offensive guard Tom Gibson of Purdue and linebacker Wayne Hill of Idaho State.

Fred Morrison Jr., managing director of the Shrine game, said the final 30-man rosters for both teams will be announced Wednesday.

Canadiens Top Bruised Barons

MONTREAL (AP) — It's been tough going for the Cleveland Barons early in the National Hockey League season, and things don't appear to be improving.

The Barons managed to stay close to the Montreal Canadiens in the only NHL or World Hockey Association game played Monday night, but the Canadiens recorded a 1-0 triumph.

It was the 10th consecutive game without a victory for the Barons and to make matters worse, two members of the team were injured.

Coach Jack Evans said winger Fred Ahern suffered a suspected fracture of his lower left forearm when he fell into the boards early in the third period. Defenseman Len Frig suffered a bad charley-horse when he was checked into the boards in the first period.

The injuries brought to six the number of Barons who have been sidelined in the last eight days.

The Canadiens made Guy Lafleur's 22nd goal of the season, at 8:57 of the first period, stand up in front of Ken Dryden's third shutout before 15,821 fans.

Dryden made 23 saves, including several big ones, as the Canadiens pushed their record to 21-4-4 for 46 points, tops in the NHL.

The Barons, who have 12 goals in their last eight games, had two excellent scoring chances in the opening period, but Dryden foiled both on breakaways.

Milwaukee Swaps Among 6 Winter Meeting Deals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers, who stood pat last year, aren't making the same mistake this time.

"You'll need a scorecard to identify our club," said Manager Alex Grammas Tuesday after the Brewers were involved in two key deals at baseball's winter meetings. Last season was Grammas' first as Milwaukee manager and the club finished last in the American League East with a 66-95 record, 32 games behind the first place New York Yankees.

The Brewers haven't had a winning club since the American League franchise was placed in Milwaukee in 1970. General Manager Jim Baumer took the first step toward changing that recently by signing veteran free agent third baseman Sal Bando, formerly of the Oakland A's.

On Tuesday, the Brewers acquired first baseman Cecil Cooper from the Boston Red Sox for first baseman George Scott and outfielder Bernie Carbo;

Tiger Frosh Win

BUCHANAN — Troy Taylor scored 18 points and Keith Davis notched 10 points and pulled down 17 rebounds as Benton Harbor topped Buchanan 66-43 in a freshmen basketball game played here Monday night. Dave Price had 20 points to lead the Bucks.

and landed outfielder Jim Wohlford, infielder Jamie Quirk and a player to be named later from the Kansas City Royals for catcher Darrell Porter and pitcher Jim Colborn.

In another move, the Brewers picked up reserve catcher Larry Haney from the Oakland A's on waivers.

All told, six deals between major league clubs — all American — were completed Tuesday involving 14 players.

And the Philadelphia Phillies announced the signing of infielder Richie Hebner, one of their picks in the free agent reentry draft. Hebner is the 19th free agent to sign since the season ended. The length and terms of the contract were not announced.

In another key deal, slugger Rico Carty returned to Cleveland, while the Indians sending infielder-outfielder John Lowenstein and rookie catcher Rick Cerone to the expansion Toronto Blue Jays.

Funds Not Fully Utilized Lakes Can Be Cleaned

A federal grant program for inland lakes cleanup is not being fully utilized in Michigan or elsewhere, according to concerned Department of Natural Resources officials, who say nearly $3 million in available aid is going unused.

Of the $13 million available nationwide for 1978, only $12 million was applied for by the April 15 deadline, says the DNR's Howard Wandell, who helps coordinate the program through the DNR's Inland Lake Management Unit, Land Resource Programs Division.

"We believe many Michigan lakes qualify for the grants, but that lake property owners may not fully understand the program," says Wandell. "Grant program information and a new technical guideline booklet for lake land-use studies is available from our office."

Michigan Lake cleanup programs did receive nearly $1 million of the grant funds this year. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency announced recently that additional lake rehabilitation funds will be available for 1977.

Goal of the grant program is to restore or protect water quality by controlling the flow into the lakes of nutrients stimulating the growth of aquatic plants and algae. Such nutrients include nitrogen and phosphorus, often contributed by agricultural and lawn fertilizer runoff, animal wastes and household detergents.

"While seepage from septic tanks may be a contributor in some areas," says Wandell, "the Clean Lake grants would not cover sewer construction, since there is a separate state-federal grant program for waste collection projects. The Clean Lake grants definitely were established to correct land use problems, the "non-point" sources of pollution."

The local government or lake association must provide a pre-application study report of the lake and its surrounding land uses before submitting a grant proposal, says Wandell. The community should have a well-developed lake protection improvement plan done by a consulting engineer and/or planning agency. Monies spent for such studies cannot be reimbursed through the grants.

he said, and the communities must be prepared to commit local matching funds to get the project underway.

The Clean Lake Grant application must establish in detail that a water quality problem exists in the lake or that the potential for a problem exists, based on data on the surrounding land uses. The application document must identify the sources of the lake degradation and present a cost effective, environmentally sound solution.

Organizations or units of government interested in applying for Clean Lake Grants should contact the DNR's Inland Lakes Management Unit, Land Resource Programs Division, Box 30028, Lansing, 48909. A limited number of copies of the 68-page "Inland Lake Watershed Analysis" are available for units of government and lake associations upon request.

A special issue of Michigan Natural Resources magazine featuring more than 80 full-color scenes of outdoor Michigan will be available on newsstands throughout the state by mid-December.

The special issue, entitled "MICHIGAN — A Photographic Adventure," is filled with the best color photos submitted during the last six months by readers of the DNR's popular bimonthly magazine. More than 8,000 slides were submitted by about 800 photo-minded readers.

"We were astonished by the high quality of the photos submitted," says editor Russell

McKee. "It was a very difficult process selecting the final photos used, but we feel the results provide the state with a colorful book of Michigan scenes that will make an excellent gift this Christmas, and a fine future gift for all seasons."

All costs of the magazine, including salaries, are paid from subscription revenues. Nearly 200,000 subscribing families receive the magazine, about 90 per cent being Michigan residents. The cause of the large die off of common loons along the Lake Michigan shoreline, including southwestern Michigan, still isn't certain, but Type E botulism remains among prime suspects.

"There's no question botulism was involved," declares district Department of Natural Resources wildlife chief Bill Bartels.

Bartels says checks on a few dead loons in the DNR laboratory showed botulism present in the blood of the birds. Mice injected with the blood died. Another group of mice, injected with the blood, but also treated with an anti-toxin, survived.

But Bartels cautions against assuming that botulism was the only die off cause. He notes that botulism could have developed in the birds after they were dead.

Extensive laboratory studies are underway by federal biologists to verify the reason for the deaths, but Bartels believes it will "probably be quite a while" before answers are known.

Tissues from two specimens examined by WARF Institute, Inc., Madison, Wis., revealed that neither organochlorine insecticides nor mercury were involved.

"These particular birds checked out relatively clean," says John Ellis, a staff biologist for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. "WARF did not find evidence in these birds that mercury, PCBs or organochlorine insecticide levels were anywhere close to what is generally considered lethal levels."

Dr. Louis Locke of the Fish and Wildlife Service has also been reviewing the die off, and he also declines to put the finger on Type E botulism.

"If we are able to rule out other causes in subsequent tests, and if we can demonstrate Type E botulism in all or most specimens, then we'll be left with a conclusion that Type E botulism was probably the cause of mortality," he notes.

But, he adds, firm and absolute diagnosis of botulism intoxication can only be made with a living sick bird. This is why scientists must find more evidence in more specimens before any conclusions can be drawn.

The first loon mortality was reported on Oct. 22, and the overall die off is believed to be in the thousands. More than 1,000 birds were picked up from a stretch of the Lake Michigan beach from the Indiana-Michigan state line north to Muskegon.

The common loon, a large bird weighing seven to eight pounds, is an ancient bird belonging to the family Gaviidae.

The peak of the loon migration generally is around Oct. 20. Common loons migrate from the northern lakes country in Canada, Alaska and the U.S. en route to wintering grounds along the East Coast from New Foundland to Florida and the entire Gulf Coast. Others migrate to wintering areas along the Pacific Coast.

Anglers Should Watch For Unsafe Area Ice

Ice fishing is underway in some southwestern Michigan lakes, but the Department of Natural Resources urges anglers to use extreme care.

"There is no real safe ice yet," says a district DNR spokesman. Most of the fishing so far has been on lake channel. Area fisheries manager Paul Scheppelman says some of the best bluegill catches are being made in the evening at dusk.

Meanwhile, "excellent" steelhead fishing success is reported by the DNR on the St. Joseph River in Berrien county.

No Fish In Ladder

WATERVLIET — The Department of Natural Resources has no confirmation of salmon or steelhead moving through the fish passage on the Watervliet dam.

"It looks good and all of that," states area DNR fisheries manager Paul Scheppelman, "but as far as the checks we've made, we haven't seen any fish go through it. But I don't know why they wouldn't."

The Paw Paw River passage wasn't installed until late in the fall spawning season, and Scheppelman believes the main runs of salmon could have been missed.

Waterfowl Stamp Still Available

Michigan's duck season for 1978 is pretty much over, but conservation-minded hunters and non-hunters are still buying the state's first waterfowl stamp, reports the Department of Natural Resources.

Although only hunters are required to purchase the $2.10 stamp in order to shoot ducks and geese in Michigan, scores of non-hunters have apparently taken it upon themselves to also buy the stamp because they,

Of the money collected for each stamp, $1.90 will be used to inventory and purchase Michigan wetlands, says the DNR's Angelo Fata, in charge of license sales. Through November 30, nearly 28,000 stamps had been sold.

Included in that total, says Fata, was a single sale of 73 Michigan stamps for $153.10 to eighth and ninth grade students at Monroe Junior high school. Teacher John Lesniewicz says the money was raised in a four-day bake sale in the school cafeteria as an ecology project to coincide with this year's theme of National Wildlife Week, "Save Our Wetlands."

Your choice: 8 to 16 hp. There's push enough here to cut through deep drifts fast and easy. Front blades come in 42" and 54" sizes. You can even have four-way hydraulic controls that mean the tractor does the work. Not

you. You raise and lower the blade, angle it right, left, or straight ahead ... all with a nudge of a lever.

The value comes from IH durability. This combination is built to last. And for year 'round service, too. Because the same front blade can be used for landscaping spring, summer, or fall. The push is on right now. Come on in and get yourself the deal of the season. For a lot of seasons to come.

Three Lose Probation 'Privilege'; Get Prison

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

When sentencing people to probation, Berrien Circuit Judge Julian E. Hughes has often warned that "probation is a privilege and not a right."

Yesterday he revoked the "privileges" of three men for probation violations and sentenced them to prison.

Otis E. Hartz, 21, formerly of Benton Harbor, was sentenced to 2½ to 5 years in prison for his violation, pleading guilty in Berrien District court to a charge of assault and battery in October.

Hartz had been placed on one year probation by Hughes in March for entering Benton Harbor high school without breaking.

Joel F. Galbreath, 21, of Buchanan, drew a 1½ to 7-year prison term for failing to stay in a rehabilitation program at Bullock House in Grand Rapids. Galbreath in July, 1974, had been placed on five years probation by Hughes for delivery of LSD.

Allen R. Rickman, 23, of Forest Beach road, Watervliet, was sentenced to 1½ to 4 years imprisonment for moving without informing his probation officer of his new address and failing to pay fine and costs. Rickman had been sentenced to two years probation in March, 1975, by Hughes for larceny in a building — the theft of an amplifier and turntable from Watervliet high school.

Michigan Helmet Law Challenged

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Chanting "Let those who ride decide," some 100 motorcyclists filled state House chambers to urge lawmakers to repeal Michigan's mandatory motorcycle helmet law.

The cyclists, turning out for a hearing Monday on the proposed repeal measure before the House Civil Rights Committee, challenged the safety value of helmets and said the law violates their civil rights.

Speaking against the repeal were Secretary of State Richard Austin and Thomas Reel, executive director of the Office of Highway Safety Planning, who disputed the motorcyclists on both points.

The bill is sponsored by Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, chairman of the civil rights committee.

Eight states have repealed their helmet laws since the federal government earlier this year dropped its requirement that states have such laws or be denied federal highway money.

Bullard and the cyclists said the state has no right to require helmets or to pass laws "to stop foolishness on the part of an individual, to protect him from his own mistakes," in Bullard's words.

A group calling itself ABATE (A Brotherhood Against Totalitarian Enactments) cited numerous studies that it said disputed claims of the safety value of helmets.

ABATE said the solution to motorcycle safety lies in better training, testing and licensing procedures, not in helmets.

Austin, who also is chairman of the State Safety Commission, said, "This is not a civil rights issue, it is a life and death issue." He said in enacting the law, the legislature "acknowledged the clear need and obligation of government to act to protect the welfare and safety of its citizens."

Action on the measure is not expected in the dwindling days of this legislative session.

Coloma Twp. Buys Squad Car

COLOMA — The Coloma township board last night approved purchase of a new police car for the township police department.

The board accepted the low bid of $5,122 from Roti Motors, Inc., Benton Harbor, for a 1977 Plymouth. Two other bids were received for the new car.

In other areas, the board approved the transfer of an SDM license (beer and wine takeout) from Dennis and Sharon L. Ross, of Ross's Corner store, 7165 Lake road, to J.D. and Joyce M. Collins.

The board approved plans to erect a 100-foot long seawall along Paw Paw lake, filed by Gerald A. Wilson.

Mattawan Named In $150,000 Suit

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A Mattawan man has filed a $150,000 damage suit against the village of Mattawan and four of its police officers, claiming he was assaulted after being arrested in 1974.

Named as defendants in the suit brought in Van Buren circuit court by Marvin Bernard Hodapp besides the village are Police Chief Richard Pathic, and officers Stewart Strayer, Craig McDannel, and Wayne Frohriep.

Hodapp says in the suit that on Oct. 6, 1974, the officers unjustly trespassed on his land and falsely arrested him on a charge of careless use of a firearm. Following the arrest, Hodapp was assaulted and battered by McDannel, Frohriep, and Strayer, the suit claims.

Although Hodapp did discharge one or more weapons on his property, there was no violation of the law, according to the suit. The charge against him was later dismissed by the prosecutor's office for lack of evidence, the suit said.

Because of the episode, the suit says Hodapp suffered humiliation, damage to his reputation, was unable to work while in jail, and had to pay attorney fees.

The suit asks $30,000 to compensate Hodapp, plus $100,000 in punitive damages.

High School Stereo Theft Nets Six Months In Jail

PAW PAW — A Mattawan man was sentenced Monday in Van Buren circuit court to serve six months in jail in connection with the December, 1975 theft of a stereo system from Mattawan high school.

Judge Meyer Warshawsky imposed the sentence on Edward Thomas Elmore, 18, who had pleaded guilty earlier to a charge of larceny in a building.

In other cases, Jeffrey Koster, 17, Mattawan, was sentenced to serve 60 days in jail, fined $300, and placed on two years probation on a charge of breaking and entering. Koster had pleaded guilty earlier to the charge, which involves the theft of $87 from the Mattawan Sumac station last Jan. 10.

Michael James Aldridge, 18, and his brother, George Henry Aldridge, 17, both of route 1, Covert, pleaded innocent to charges of breaking and entering a home on 32nd avenue in Covert township Sept. 27.

Brian Eugene Rayburn, 18, route 1, South Haven, pleaded innocent to a charge of breaking and entering a house on 16th avenue in South Haven township Oct. 29.

Esther Marie Leppa, 21, route 4, South Haven, pleaded innocent to charges of receiving stolen property (citizens band radio) and uttering and publishing a forged check for $50 Oct. 25 in South Haven.

Ernest Charles Mosley, Jr., 23, 7147 East Beach drive, South Haven, pleaded innocent to a charge of breaking and entering a trailer on 13th avenue in South Haven township on Sept. 6.

John D. Smith, 45, Clinton, Mich., pleaded innocent to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, a .22-caliber pistol, Nov. 13 in Geneva township.

Robert White, 45, Kalamazoo, pleaded innocent to a charge of breaking and entering an Almena township home on Nov. 12.

Thomas Gonzales, 39, Pontiac, pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to obtain money under false pretenses Aug. 8 in Antwerp township. State police said the charge involves the use of a stolen credit card to purchase gasoline at a Mattawan service station.

Rent Subsidy Money

DETROIT (AP) — The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has announced the allocation of $17 million in rent subsidy money for Michigan. Detroit-area HUD Director Elmer Buford said that about half the money has been earmarked for the six-county Detroit metropolitan area, and will bring rent subsidies for an estimated 1,600 to 2,800 low-income families in these counties next year. To be eligible for the rent assistance, a typical family of four must earn less than 80 per cent of an area's median income. The median income for a family of four in the Detroit area is $18,300, a HUD economist said, so a family earning under $15,000 annually would qualify. Under the program, an eligible family would spend about 25 per cent of its income for housing, and HUD would pay the balance to the landlord.

Opposes Amnesty
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, one of several persons once considered as Jimmy Carter's vice-presidential running mate, says he is opposed to the president-elect's proposed amnesty for draft evaders and deserters.

In other sentences by Hughes: Jerald L. Murphy, 45, of Watervliet, drew a 2 to 15-year prison sentence for unarmed robbery. He was accused of robbing C.L. Collins of cash and a car Sept. 14 in Watervliet township.

Rick Orebria, 23, of Niles, was placed on two years probation, with the first five months in jail, and ordered to make restitution of $31 for issuing a no account check Oct. 8 at Montgomery Wards in Niles.

In arraignments before Judge William S. White: Sammy Gaudin, 43, of Elgin, Ill., pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the death of Tolly Jones Jan. 13 in Benton Harbor.

Carl Cobb, Jr., 25, of 861 Schulz court, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of violation of the controlled substance act second offense (delivery of heroin) Oct. 6 in Benton Harbor.

Stanley E. Fancher, 26, of Stevensville, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon — a gun — against Robert Vines Sept. 10 in Weesaw township.

Turner B. Marshall, 26, of 519 Colfax avenue, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to possession of heroin Sept. 3 in Benton Harbor.

Wade Parker, 20, of 696 Buss avenue, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of armed robbery — taking cash from Anna Moros with a chain May 5 in Benton Harbor.

Herman N. McGee, 20, of Chicago Heights, Ill., pleaded guilty to unlawful use of an auto owned by Herman Petzel Aug. 15 in St. Joseph township.

Larry L. Peek, 20, of 3347 Cleveland avenue, St. Joseph, pleaded innocent to a charge of armed robbery — the theft of cash from Mainville Supply in Bainbridge township while armed with a gun Sept. 7.

WALT DISNEY'S Captain Hook's Christmas Caper

Ol' Man Winter Beats Dowagiac To The Punch

DOWAGIAC — The Dowagiac city council last night took action to purchase about 500 tons of rock salt for use on snow-covered and icy streets this winter.

Unfortunately, the snow took action about a week before the council did.

Councilmen were informed last night that the city had to borrow three truckloads of rock salt last week from the state highway department because of the storm which swept the area. The borrowed salt will have to be repaid as soon as the city receives its load.

The city's salt is to be purchased from the low bidder, the Diamond Crysal Salt Co., St. Clair, Mich., at a cost of $15.05 per ton. Four other bids ranged from $15.14 to $16.34 per ton.

Larry Robacs, director of the department of public services, said the exact amount to be purchased will depend on the severity of the winter.

In other action, the council approved free parking downtown starting today and continuing through Jan. 2. The annual action, taken to encourage downtown shopping, was requested by the Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber request had been to cap parking meters through Dec. 28, but Councilman Maurice Oppenheim asked that the time be lengthened to include the entire final week of the year.

Springsteen was the low bidder of two at $160.50 per month with the option of purchasing the car for $3,175 at the end of the lease period.

The council approved several routine budget adjustments as suggested by the city's auditors. In so doing, City Manager Henry Graper Jr. said actual revenues in the city's general fund budget for 1975-76 were $970,632 as compared with earlier estimated revenues of $863,500.

Graper said expenditures were $970,368 of which $36,243 will be reimbursed by the state toward work done at the Mill Pond park.

The council approved a loan of $20,000 by the city to the Dowagiac Economic Development Corp. for six months at six per cent interest.

The corporation is a city-controlled unit and the money will enable it to pay off a bank loan at 11 per cent interest. The loan was for additional work done on the Glencroft factory building constructed by the corporation.

GUNSLINGER: Jess Sweetee, a 72-year-old ex-sheriff, must have been what Dist. Atty. Bill Green had in mind when Green was recently elected on promise to get tough on crime. The $20,000 is to be paid back by Glencroft as part of a 20-year lease-purchase agreement for the plant.

Albert Bradley, of 205 Bradley street, was re-appointed to the board of review for a three-year term through 1979.

The council named second ward Councilman DeVece Hunsberger as mayor pro tem during 1977.

Bass Island Park Drive Paving Hearings Planned

The Bainbridge township board last night accepted a petition to pave Bass Island Park drive, signed by a majority of property owners along the drive.

The board discussed Jan. 10 or Jan. 24 as possible dates for conducting the first of two public hearings on the petition request, but no decision was reached. The date is to be set later.

The petition, circulated by Ron Bies, Eau Claire, seeks to have the drive paved by the township, using township funds, with the property owners to repay the township through a special assessment district. The petition contained 22 of 26 signatures of owners along the private drive.

In other areas, the board approved the payment of a fire run bill to the Watervliet fire department for $633 to cover the costs of the department at an Oct. 18 fire.

The board last month tabled action on payment of the bill to see if the cost could not be reduced because of a mutual aid agreement between the Watervliet department and Sister Lakes firemen, who also were at the scene.

The Watervliet fire board, however, maintained the mutual aid pact did not apply.

The board approved paying expenses of the clerk, supervisor, and deputy clerk to attend the Michigan Township Association state meeting in Grand Rapids, Jan. 12-13.

The board instructed Clerk Mrs. Beverly Koroeh to order three street signs for streets in the Meadowbrook trailer park.

The board approved the unspecified loan of the township upright piano to the North Berrien Senior center, at Coloma.

The board approved applying for anti-recession funds under the federal public works employment act to cover expenses for township cemetery maintenance. No amount was specified.

Bainbridge Man Seeking Variance

A meeting of the Bainbridge township board of appeals has been set for Wednesday, Dec. 8, to consider a request for a variance to permit construction of dog kennels on agriculturally zoned property. Carlyle Elber, board chairman, said the request involved property owned by Edward Case, M-140, who raises dogs, and who wants to construct the kennels. Elber said that under township zoning, kennels could be located in an agricultural zone, if a variance is granted by the board.

The meeting is to be held in the township hall.

Berrien Springs Agrees To $22,000 Land Price

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Berrien Springs village council last night voted to pay a jury-established sum of $22,000 for property condemned by the village for part of a courthouse square restoration project.

The amount, to be paid Prescott and Mildred Nelson, Shawnee road, Berrien Springs, was awarded by a Berrien county circuit jury.

The land, bordered by Kinmel and Madison streets, is sought by the village as a parcel in the south portion of the Historic Courthouse Restoration area and included a group of apartment buildings and a soft water service building.

Condemnation proceedings were initiated in April after the couple rejected a village offer of $14,619 for the property.

In other business, the council authorized the village president to appoint a committee to prepare a master plan for the development of the village with special emphasis on the downtown area.

The action was in response to a request from village businessmen to investigate prospects for increasing parking downtown.

As part of the meeting, the council held the first of two required public hearings on an application for federal community development funds for 1977-78.

The second hearing will be held Wednesday, Dec. 22, at 7:30 p.m. in the village hall.

It was suggested that some of the $400,000 to be sought be spent on building a parking lot near the downtown area.

Because of irregularities, the council rejected all bids received for demolition of four old houses in the village. The clerk was authorized to advertise for new bids to be opened at the next regular meeting, Dec. 20.

Councilmen voted to raise the pay of village employees by $500 per year starting in 1977.

The council also voted to purchase Christmas turkeys for all village employees.

Atty. Donald Dick, speaking for the Berrien county Bicentennial committee, told councilmen that LaSalle Expedition II will arrive at Shumrock park Tuesday, Dec. 21.

Expedition members will be entertained at a public dinner and will present a show, including many of the songs sung by the original French voyagers.

The expedition is canoeing down the original route of French explorer Robert LaSalle through the Great Lakes.

LEADER AGAIN

DETROIT (AP) — Mary Ellen Riordan was reelected head of the Detroit Federation of Teachers over the weekend by a vote of 4,533 to 3,465 over Mrs. James Bannan. The DFT will soon enter contract negotiations with the financially troubled Detroit School District.

It takes a lot of experience.

And just like pilots who have been flying for years, power plant operators must keep on learning and training so they can continue to perform quickly and efficiently in any emergency.

That's why we have a control room simulator in our power plant training center that works much like a pilot's flight simulator.

It helps our people sharpen their skills by simulating totally realistic equipment failures that, if not handled quickly, could wind up being power failures.

Why do we go to this extreme?

Because keeping the power coming is a complex and demanding responsibility.

It takes hundreds of experienced, specially-trained, highly-skilled people throughout our company.

Engineers, technicians, power plant personnel, line crews, dispatchers, computer experts, people who man the consoles at the control centers...everybody plays a critical role in making sure the power keeps flowing to our homes and factories.

But, while we're doing everything we can to maintain dependable service and electric supply, there's one thing we can't do.

Make sure none of that electricity we make is wasted.

That's your job.

Turning off unused lights and appliances, making sure refrigerator and freezer doors aren't left open, and washing only full loads of clothes and dishes will not only conserve electricity, it can help you keep your bills in line.

Properly insulating your home and energy-saving devices like an electric heat pump can help even more.

Ol' Man Winter Beats Dowagiac To The Punch

DOWAGIAC — The Dowagiac city council last night took action to purchase about 500 tons of rock salt for use on snow-covered and icy streets this winter.

Unfortunately, the snow took action about a week before the council did.

Councilmen were informed last night that the city had to borrow three truckloads of rock salt last week from the state highway department because of the storm which swept the area. The borrowed salt will have to be repaid as soon as the city receives its load.

The city's salt is to be purchased from the low bidder, the Diamond Crystals Salt Co., St. Clair, Mich. at a cost of $15.05 per ton. Four other bids ranged from $15.14 to $16.14 per ton.

Larry Rohacs, director of the department of public services, said the exact amount to be purchased will depend on the severity of the winter.

In other action, the council approved free parking downtown starting today and continuing through Jan. 2. The annual action, taken to encourage downtown shopping, was requested by the Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber request had been to cap parking meters through Dec. 28, but Councilman Maurice Oppenheim asked that the time be lengthened to include the entire first week of the year.

The council approved leasing for 24 months from Art Springsteen Sons a 1977 Pontiac station wagon for official use by Rohacs.

Springsteen was the low bidder of two at $169.50 per month with the option of purchasing the car for $3,175 at the end of the lease period.

The council approved several routine budget adjustments as suggested by the city's auditors. In so doing, City Manager Henry Graper Jr. said actual revenues in the city's general fund budget for 1975-76 were $970,632 as compared with earlier estimated revenues of $903,000.

Graper said expenditures were $976,368 of which $36,243 will be reimbursed by the state toward work done at the Mill Pond park.

Storm Adds Fresh Coat To Area's Snowy Mantle

By LARRY McINTYRE

Southwestern Michigan had just barely dug out from snow all last week when a new storm moved in about noon yesterday and dumped a fresh coating of two or three inches of white stuff on the area.

The heaviest snowfall came yesterday afternoon, snarling roads by evening and resulting in a huge increase in traffic accidents handled by area police agencies.

Police in the Twin Cities area reported they covered some 70 fender-bender accidents within 24 hours of the storm. In Niles, four people were injured about 8 p.m. last night in a head-on crash on US-31 after a driver lost control on the slippery roadway.

Road crews worked throughout the night plowing and salting. By morning, most major arteries were reported clear with icy spots. Secondary roads were still snow-covered and slippery.

There were no school closings reported in southwestern Michigan.

The storm was part of a major snow-laden system that swept through a wide area from the Lower Great Lakes to the Ohio River valley yesterday dumping as much as six inches on some parts of Wisconsin and Illinois.

The storm was being followed by clearing skies and a new blast of Arctic air as it moved eastward.

Temperatures in southwestern Michigan were as high as 32 degrees yesterday about noon, but were slowly descending throughout the night.

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecast for southwestern Michigan tonight called for clearing skies and temperatures to dip down to a low of zero to six degrees before morning. The high tomorrow was set at the mid teens to 20.

The leading edge of the cold air was right over southwestern Michigan about 8 a.m.

Allegan sheriff's deputies reported their thermometer had a reading of 10 degrees at 8 a.m. while police agencies 40 miles south in Cass county were still basking in relatively warm temperatures of 29 in Dowagiac and 27 in Cassopolis.

In the Twin Cities area and in Paw Paw, the mercury had dropped to about 18 degrees by 8 a.m.

Allegan deputies said their slushy roadways had turned to hard ice resulting in unusually hazardous driving conditions this morning.

Here are some reported measurements of snow that has fallen since noon yesterday: Sodus, 3 inches; Niles, 2 inches; Paw Paw, 3 inches, elsewhere in Van Buren county, 1 to 2 inches; Allegan, 2 inches.

Harry Bush, director of public works for Paw Paw, said he has recorded a total of 20 1/2 inches of snow in December already.

Bush, who is an observer for the U.S. Weather Bureau, said November's total snowfall in Paw Paw was 28.5 inches.

Of all that snow, only about 10 inches remained on the ground there today, he said.

To the west of Michigan in Illinois and Wisconsin, highway travel was a slippery matter this morning in many parts of both states due to snow-packed roads.

Temperatures plummeted as the storm passed and skies cleared. Highs in the upper 20s and low 30s Monday gave way to sub-zero lows overnight all across Iowa, Minnesota, Wis-

Harry Bush, director of public works for Paw Paw, said he has recorded a total of 20 1/2 inches of snow in December already.

Bush, who is an observer for the U.S. Weather Bureau, said November's total snowfall in Paw Paw was 28.5 inches.

Of all that snow, only about 10 inches remained on the ground there today, he said.

To the west of Michigan in Illinois and Wisconsin, highway travel was a slippery matter this morning in many parts of both states due to snow-packed roads.

Temperatures plummeted as the storm passed and skies cleared. Highs in the upper 20s and low 30s Monday gave way to sub-zero lows overnight all across Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the northern half of Illinois.

Hibbing, Minn., registered -27 long before daybreak. Rochester, in southwestern Minnesota, had -18 as did Eau Claire, Wis. Mason City, Iowa, checked in with -17 and Moline, Ill., with -10.

IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT THE HIGH COST OF NATURAL GAS

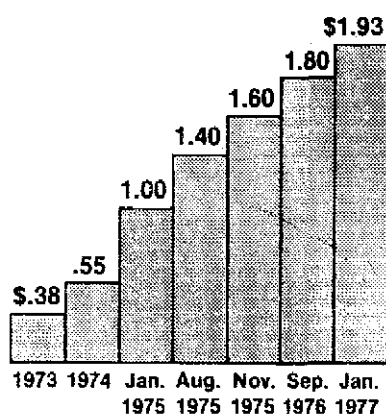

This Winter Your Gas Bill Will Be 32% Higher Than Last Year... Here's Why!

The cost of natural gas from domestic wells drilled since 1973 has increased from a previous high of $.52 to $.93 and for wells drilled since January, 1975, the cost has risen to $1.42 per thousand cubic feet.

1. Gas Well Depth and Location Cost Comparison

The Canadian Government has announced yet another increase in the cost of natural gas to $1.93 on January, 1977.

2. Canadian Gas Costs have risen 500% in less than 3 Years. (Dollars per thousand cubic feet)

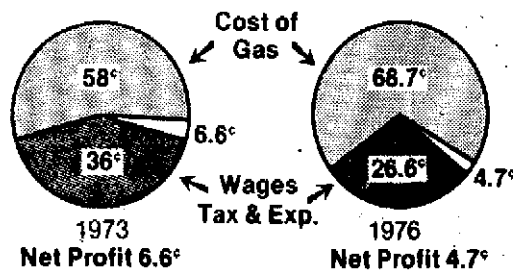

Our supply of natural gas comes from both sources and these increases will affect our customers beginning with December's gas bills. In December the Wholesale Cost Increase (PGA) amount on your gas bill will increase dramatically. (The location is illustrated below.)

3. Typical MGU Gas Bill.

What does Wholesale Cost Increase PGA mean? It is the method that allows a gas distribution utility such as Michigan Gas Utilities Company to pass on natural gas price increases from their wholesalers (pipeline companies) without expensive rate cases. Over 95% of our supply is purchased from pipeline companies whose prices are regulated by the Federal Power Commission.

It is important to remember that Michigan Gas Utilities Company does not retain one cent of this Wholesale Cost Increase (PGA) amount.

4. Michigan Gas Utilities Company Revenue Dollar.

Figure 4 illustrates how our revenue dollar is affected by the cost of gas from our suppliers. Over 68% of every dollar you pay on your gas bill this winter will go to buy natural gas from our suppliers. Our profit will be a mere 4.7% of the same dollar. Over the last 3 years our share of the revenue dollar has decreased 30%.

But natural gas is still your best energy buy! Figure 5 compares natural gas prices including the December Wholesale Cost Increase - PGA to other fuels at last years rates - and we can guarantee that the cost of these other fuels will go higher.

Gas	$250
Propane (34¢/gal)	$466
Oil (40¢/gal)	$360
Electricity (3.0¢/KWH)	$1,334

5. Energy Cost Comparison For Typical Michigan Winter. (126 Million BTU)

What Can We Do About The High Cost Of Energy?

Michigan Gas Utilities Company is developing programs to help our customers save natural gas and money. The first of these programs is installation of ceiling insulation. Ceiling insulation can reduce your home heating requirement by as much as 17%. Call your friend who works at Michigan Gas for a free no obligation survey of your ceiling insulation needs.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Continue To Climb

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market swept ahead today, continuing Monday's rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose more than 2 points in the early going. Gainers took a 2-1 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was very active. Brokers said the market was still moving on the widespread belief that the incoming Carter administration would propose a tax cut if the economy doesn't begin to pick up momentum on its own.

Advances outnumbered declines by more than a 3-1 spread on the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index added 44 to 55.84.

Locals Get Details Of UPS Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Local Teamsters officials from a 15-state area along the eastern seaboard are receiving details of a tentative contract agreement that could end the union's lengthy strike against United Parcel Service late this week.

Representatives of 74 locals involved in the nearly 11-week long dispute were to review the contract proposal before its presentation to the membership.

Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons presented the agreement to the union's full 20-member bargaining committee at a day-long meeting Monday. However, it was not known whether the committee approved the proposal.

Fire In SJ Blamed On Heater

An electric space heater is believed to be the cause of a fire at Berrien Communications, 1719 Lake Shore drive, that occurred about 2:20 p.m. Monday, St. Joseph firefighters reported.

Firemen reported carpeting and a wall caught on fire after the space heater was left on with no one at the radio sales and repair shop. The business is owned by Patrick Patterson, Niles.

According to firefighters, employees at Wolf Welding Co., who occupy the same building, discovered the fire and knocked down the flames until firemen arrived and put it out. Damage to the building was estimated at $150 and no one was hurt. Firemen reported some electrical equipment in the shop was destroyed by the heat.

Township Sides With Neighbor

THREE OAKS — The Three Oaks township board last night voted to join Three Oaks village in letting the Berrien county public works department handle applications for federal funds to finance a sewer study for the village and township.

The move came at the recommendation of Wightman and Associates, the St. Joseph engineering firm that does consultant work for the village and the township.

Both the village and township are seeking funds to study what type of sewer facilities will be needed if a race track is built in the township as has been proposed.

In other areas, the township board set for Dec. 14 the date when former township Supervisor Alfred Hellenga will be honored for his 10 years as supervisor.

Guarded Suspect Kills Policeman

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A Pontiac policeman was shot to death today when he walked in on an attempt by three persons to free a police prisoner under guard in a previous shooting case.

Police officials said patrolman Gerald Lee Carpenter, 24, was shot several times but managed to draw his own gun and seriously wound one of his assailants.

Lt. Orville Johnston of the Pontiac police detective bureau said the prisoner, whose name was not released immediately, was wounded in a shootout Monday, in which a policeman was shot six times as he tried to break up a robbery at a State Liquor Control Commission warehouse.

Johnston said the prisoner was being guarded by patrol-

Will Ask Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Carter says he wants to consult with congressional leaders before deciding on any tax cut to stimulate the economy, but one of those legislators is already saying that such a measure would not be enough.

Supervisor Robert Todd said he will attend a class on assessing in February.

He added that because he is not yet a qualified assessor, the Berrien county equalization board has agreed to assess property in the township Jan. 24 - 25.

Snowfall Produces Crashes

Police agencies in four counties of southwestern Michigan reported some 120 traffic accidents on snow-covered roads in an 18-hour period, the majority of them in the Twin Cities area.

Six Twin Cities area agencies reported 70 accidents from noon Monday until 6 a.m. today, but only two resulted in injuries. Other reports of accidents came from police in the remainder of Berrien county, Cass, Van Buren and Allegan counties.

There also were numerous other incidents of cars running off slippery roads that were not recorded as traffic accidents.

In St. Joseph, police said a Union Pier woman and her son were injured when their car and another collided on Lake Shore drive south of Cleveland avenue about 6:15 p.m.

Mrs. Ida Getal, 56, was reported in "good" condition today at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, and her son, Glen Getal, 17, who was driving the car, was released after treatment. Both are of 9712 Berrien road, Union Pier, police said.

The other driver, who was unhurt, was identified as Joseph C. Oliver, 38, of 3307 Lake Shore drive, St. Joseph. Police said Getal was ticketed for driving left of center.

Benton township police said two cars collided on Colfax avenue north of Seneca road, Fairplain, shortly before 3 p.m. One driver, Albertine Bell, 26, of 226 Cherokee trail, Fairplain, was released after treatment at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor.

The other driver was Michael Duane Haus, 23, of 562 Riverside road, Watervliet. He was unhurt, police said, and no tickets were issued.

A two-car collision Monday morning that was not related to snow-covered roads injured a driver, Baroda-Lake township Police Chief John Harner said. Listed in "stable" condition today at Berrien General hospital was Walter Stewart Johnston, 83, of 7276 Orchard, Harbert. The other driver, who was unhurt in the collision on Red Arrow highway north of Brown-town road, Baroda township, was Margaret Klemchen, 53, route 1, box 350, Red Arrow highway, Sawyer.

Harner said Johnston was ticketed for an improper U-turn.

Thieves Get Variety Of Loot

Records, a television, food and a purse were among goods reported stolen Monday to Benton Harbor police.

Esther Ross, 540 North Stevens street, told police 25 record albums were stolen from her home. The albums were valued at $125, police said.

Oscar Jones, 723 Columbus avenue, told police his $400 color television was stolen from his home.

Joyce Pierce, 1400 Trebor drive, St. Joseph township, reported her purse was stolen from her room at Mercy hospital, 960 Agard avenue. She told police the purse contained $30 in cash, two checks totaling $165, credit cards and personal papers.

Fish Loss Low, Says Consumers

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich. (AP) — Consumers Power Co. has asked the federal government to drop a requirement that the utility count the number of fish trapped in its Palisades nuclear plant equipment.

Environmentalists had fought the nuclear power plant along Lake Michigan because of fears its water intake tubes would trap too many fish.

But after two years of study, Consumers contends fish losses are so low it no longer should be required to check for trapped fish. It has asked the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission to delete that portion of the plant's operating rules.

The utility enclosed tables showing just 448 fish trapped during eight months in 1975 and 236 from May through September this year. The plant was not operating earlier in 1976.

Nine species of fish were trapped during the two years, the utility reported, but 71 per cent of them last years and 66 per cent this year were alewives, a trash fish. Alewives, sculpin and yellow perch made up more than 95 per cent of the trapped fish both years.

In both years, more than half the fish were trapped during the month of June.

Saxbe Quieting Governor Talk

MECHANICSBURG, Ohio (AP) — William B. Saxbe, who resigned as ambassador to India, has returned home amid speculation he will seek the Republican gubernatorial nomination in 1978.

But the 60-year-old former U.S. attorney general and senator from Ohio discouraged such talk as he headed for his cattle farm in Champaign County.

Saxbe's resignation is official Jan. 1. His post in New Delhi will remain vacant until President-elect Carter names a replacement.

Distillate Blamed In Death Of Girl, 5

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — The death of a five-year-old girl here Nov. 8 was caused by a petroleum distillate contained in a liquid car wax the child swallowed.

South Haven police said today that the ruling on the cause of death was made by Dr. Daniel Glaser, a Kalamazoo pathologist who examined the child's body fluids following the death.

The victim, Rebecca Lynn Blankenship, was pronounced dead at Community hospital here after attempts to revive her failed. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Blankenship, 128 South Haven Place.

The ruling confirms what police already had tentatively cited as the cause of death.

Police said the death has been ruled accidental. They said that, according to Dr. Glaser, a tablespoon of the distillate could be fatal.

Response Pleases Van Buren Officials

SOUTH HAVEN — Van Buren county health department officials say they are pleased with the response so far to a tuberculosis detection program that started yesterday in the South Haven school system. Over the next few months the health department hopes to test every school-age child in the county for tuberculosis in an attempt to stem an increasing number of cases of TB throughout the county.

The county currently has 48 active cases of TB as compared to five a year ago. Of the persons tested in the county so far this year 18 per cent have shown a positive reaction to having TB symptoms as compared to a national average of seven percent. The testing will be conducted in South Haven the rest of this week and will be expanded to include all of the county's 17,000 school-age children after the first of the year, according to Dr. James Davis, county health director.

According to preliminary figures, the tests were given to about 500 of the 640 students at Lincoln grade school and about 825 at the high school here. The high school has 1,096 students.

Trailer Park Okay Seen As Boon In Baroda

BARODA — Citing a declining economy, the Baroda village council last night gave its approval to an ordinance amendment that permits trailer home parks in the village.

Village officials said they hoped approval of the ordinance would attract more population to the community, revive the business district and increase state and federal revenue sharing.

Village Clerk Ileen Tollas said the ordinance will become effective 20 days after posting. She said she hopes to post the ordinance in the village today.

The ordinance amendment is the latest action in a village controversy over proposed construction of a 75-unit trailer home park proposed by Rudi Eichendorff, 1899 Lemon Creek road.

Eichendorff applied in November 1975 for a village building permit to build the park and later received the permit.

In October, five village residents filed suit in Berrien circuit court in an attempt to block trailer park construction by claiming the village has an ordinance that prohibits trailer parks.

Last night's ordinance amendment by the village council lifts that prohibition, Mrs. Tollas said.

Council Trustee Ronald Miller, in a prepared statement, said the 75-unit park would bring at least 200 more people to the village.

He noted that the village has no dry goods store, no meat market and no grocery store, symbols of a declining business district.

He added that new businesses are not interested in Baroda because of its lack of population.

Miller said the council, in approving the ordinance amendment, is trying to attract

Fennville Invitation

FENNVILLE — The Fennville city commission last night decided to invite representatives of American Dwellings Inc., Kalamazoo, to the commission's next meeting to discuss that firm's announced plans to build some additional apartment units in Fennville.

Mayor Robert McCracken said the firm would be invited to the Dec. 20 meeting to discuss plans for an approximate five-acre parcel on North Maple street.

McCracken said he believes the firm is seeking to purchase two existing apartment buildings there and is also seeking to purchase some adjacent land so more apartments can be built.

The adjacent land is presently zoned residential and would have to be rezoned for multiple family dwellings, McCracken said.

Galien Selects Company

GALIEN — The Galien village council last night selected the firm of Stauder, Barch & Associates of Grosse Pointe Farms to handle bond sales on a proposed $1,350,000 sewer collection and treatment system.

Ray Stauder, a representative of the firm, said he will study which of four ways would be best for the village to pay off an estimated $411,000 in bonds it will have to sell to help finance construction costs.

Among possible methods, he said, are special assessment, tap-in fees; monthly debt service charge; or a special assessment plus an at-large tax.

Hiring of the bonding firm came during a public hearing and special session of the council meeting with members of the county board of public works.

The county is acting as agent for the village in the sewer project which has been ordered by the state as a means of preventing septic tank leakage and pollution of the Galien river and Lake Michigan.

The bonding attorney said the method of bond financing will depend on whether the township joins the village in the project.

Some of the 260 homes that would be served by the sewer system are in the township.

In other action last night, the council voted to hire Frank Nekvasil at $3 hourly as a part-time police officer to assist Chief Dale Longacre; approved purchase for $85 of a used, riot shotgun for the police department; hired Watson's Tree service of Niles for $300 to remove four trees and grind down the stumps; and set a special meeting for 7:30 p.m., Thursday, for a public hearing on a state grant for park construction.

Third Man Now Is Accused Of Robbing Tavern

A third man has been arrested on a charge of armed robbery Nov. 18 at Georgiana's tavern, Benton Harbor.

Michael L. Gallas, 19, of 5510 Fikes road, Riverside, demanded examination when arraigned in Berrien Fifth District court and was jailed in lieu of $10,000 bond. A warrant for Gallas' arrest was issued Friday and he turned himself in to Benton Harbor police, according to Det. Tom Schadler.

Also charged with armed robbery Nov. 18 at Georgiana's are Danny E. Jurek, 24, 5205A Hagar Shore apartments, rural Coloma, and John Maxon Collard, 18, Buchanan, both of whom have been bound over to circuit court.

In other district court proceedings, eight people demanded examinations and 23 people were sentenced.

Charles Homer, 44, of 648

ConRail Hauled Artrain

A freight train that derailed in Plainwell early last Saturday, damaging two cars of the Michigan Artrain on a siding, erroneously identified in articles in Saturday's and Monday's papers.

The freight was identified as a Penn Central train in Associated Press dispatches both days, and the error was compounded in Saturday's paper when the headline called it a "C&O derailment."

According to rail officials and to Plainwell Police Chief William Drobney, the freight was a ConRail train.

ConRail is operated by a government corporation launched earlier this year to take over certain freight lines that would otherwise be abandoned by private railroads. It is the freight equivalent of Amtrak.

Illinois Man Asks Hearing

PAW PAW — A Naperville, Ill., man was lodged in the Van Buren county jail Monday in lieu of $7,500 bond following Seventh district court arraignment on a charge of breaking and entering.

Steve Prim, 17, demanded preliminary examination on the charge. A Dec. 10 hearing was ordered.

Van Buren sheriff's deputies said the charge grew out of the reported theft of a stereo radio and $100 in cash from the Oak Cove resort on Lake Cora, Paw Paw township, last Aug. 28.

Prim was extradited and brought back from Illinois over the weekend to face the charge here.

Four Hurt In Niles Smashup

NILES — Four Niles people were injured as a result of a two-car crash on US-31 near Niles at 8:10 last night, state police at the Niles post said.

Police said the crash occurred just south of North street when a car driven by Leonard Fowler, 17, skidded across the center line and collided head on with an auto driven by Lloyd Carpenter, 67.

Carpenter, Fowler and one of three passengers in Fowler's auto, Debra Kelly, 17, were all treated and released at Pawtucket hospital in Niles. A second passenger in the Fowler car, Cynthia Reeves, 15, was listed in good condition at Pawtucket this morning. A third passenger escaped injury, police said.

Police said Fowler was issued a traffic ticket for driving too fast for road conditions.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
City of Benton Harbor
Department of Natural Resources Grant

The City of Benton Harbor, Michigan will hold a public hearing in the Benton Harbor City Commission chambers 200 Wall Street, at 7:30 P.M. on December 13, 1976, in connection with the City of Benton Harbor making final application to the Department of Natural Resources (D.N.R.) for a grant. The project area is Riverview Park South and West of the existing boat launch and bounded by Riverview Drive, the city limits and the St. Joseph River.

The purpose of the hearing is to consider a proposal for application to the DNR for a grant in the amount of $4,800.00. The purpose of the project is to improve and beautify the Riverview Park; to improve the topography and general appearance of the parcel; to provide an area for camper parking off the ramp parking lot; to provide a picnic area along the river for families; also to improve the access drive around the area.

The City's proposed project will be available for examination and discussion at the hearing. Any person or organization desiring to be heard will be afforded an opportunity to be heard. Further information on the project may be obtained from the Director of Planning of the City of Benton Harbor, Michigan at 200 Wall Street, City Hall, in the City of Benton Harbor.

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, Dec. 7, the 342nd day of 1976. There are 24 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1941, the Pacific War began with Japan's strikes against Pearl Harbor, the Philippines, Singapore, Guam, Wake Island, Thailand and Malaya.
On this date:
In 1542, Mary Queen of Scots was born.
In 1787, Delaware became the first state to ratify the U.S. Constitution.
In 1836, the Electoral College elected Martin Van Buren President.
In 1944, the United States announced that all six of the Japanese aircraft carriers which struck Pearl Harbor three years earlier had been sunk.
In 1953, David Ben-Gurion resigned as Premier of Israel.
In 1974, Archbishop Makarios returned to Cyprus after five months in exile and said he would pardon those who had plotted his overthrow.

Ten years ago: Syria called for the overthrow of Jordan's King Hussein.
Five years ago: India claimed that its military forces invading East Pakistan had crushed the outer defenses and urged the Pakistani Army to lay down its arms.
One year ago: Indonesian planes and troops moved to consolidate their hold over Portuguese Timor after seizing the capital, and Portugal severed relations with Indonesia.
Today's birthday: Actor Eli Wallach is 61.
Thought for today: I must fight if I would win. Anything worth having is worth fighting for. — Lord Nelson, British naval commander, 1758-1805.
Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the retreating American forces under Gen. George Washington began at Trenton the crossing of the Delaware River from New Jersey to Pennsylvania.

KITCHEN SNOOPING: For leftover turkey, slice and marinate in vermouth. Then broil and baste with it (Mrs. B's kitchen). . . Add croutons as a taste addition, next time you're having creamed spinach (Locke Ober, Boston). . . Mix vinegar with parmesan cheese as a dressing for a tomato and lettuce salad (Playboy Clubs).
FADED PHRASE: "It's the whole ball of wax." . . . Japan's Emperor Hirohito celebrated the Golden Anniversary of his Coronation. (Ah 50! Ah So!). . . La Scala co-owner Arturo Miralzo says success may be getting what you want — but happiness is wanting what you get! . . . Barry Bostwick, star of Broadway's "The Robber Bridegroom," was a juggler with Ringling Bros. and Bar-
